Conferees Agree on Tax; Coal Bill May Be Shelved

New Revenue Measure Far From Roosevelt Expectations.

Estimated Yield Is $250,000,000

Repeal of Silver Tax, Inheritance Levies Are Cut Out.

By Robert C. Albright.

A $250,000,000 tax bill, minus inheritance levies, plus high corporate imposts, but a far cry from the "wealth distribution" objectives of either President Roosevelt or Huey P. Long, last night was polished off as the curtain line for this session of Congress.

An unanimous agreement was reached by House and Senate conferees, after the former yielded to Senate substitution of estates for inheritance taxes, and the Senate group accepted House surtax rates starting at $50,000. These changes came in defiance of the President's request for inheritance taxes and surtaxes starting at $1,000,000.

Filibuster Threat.

Offsetting the pell mell rush toward adjournment, was a new threat raised in the Senate by Munitions Committee members to filibuster any further legislation until disposal of neutrality proposals.

Leaders were encouraged, however, by a conference agreement on the TVA amendments, increasing Tennessee Valley Authority powers by permitting TVA duplication of power lines, sale of surplus power and loans to municipalities to encourage generation of their own power.

Earlier, the Senate passed the Eastman railroad reorganization measure permitting rail reorganization plans to become effective on approval of two-thirds of voting stockholders. The House had acted previously.

Still stalemated in conference were the utility holding company bill, the President's gold-clause measure, and the much-controverted bill to extend Federal alcohol control functions. In the face of these impediments, Senate Majority Leader Robinson still was hoping for adjournment tomorrow night.

The tax bill reported yesterday was neither what the President had asked, nor what either house had drafted, but probably a half-and-half cross-section of the two, carrying just about the same promise of revenue.

On the Borah amendment, eliminating tax exemption from future Federal security issues, and on the McCarran amendment, repealing the 50 per cent tax on silver trading profits, the Treasury had its way. Both were stricken from the bill.

Agreement Amidst Rush.

House conferees obtained consent to file their report before midnight, with a view to probable consideration today. In the Senate, the bill may be the session's capstone.

Here are the high points in the tax conference agreement:

1. A new graded corporation income tax schedule, slightly moderated from the broad Senate scale, but extending the graduation principle originally applied by the House. Tax ranges from 12½ per cent up to $2,000, to 15 per cent over $40,000,000. Estimated yield, $35,000,000.

2. Capital stock tax of $1.40 per $1,000, compared with $1 in existing law, and $1.50 asked by the Senate. Estimated yield, $44,000,000.

3. Excess profits tax of 6 per cent on profits of from 10 to 15 per cent, and 12 per cent on profits over that amount—same as original Senate rates. Estimated yield, $10,000,000.

4. Surtax rates on incomes beginning at 31 per cent on $50,000 to $56,000 earnings, and ranging to 75 per cent on over $5,000,000—same as original House rates. Estimated yield, $45,000,000.

5. Estates tax starting at 2 per cent up to $10,000, of first taxable amount, and ranging to 70 per cent over $50,000,000, with exemption. Gift lowered to $40,000.

Constitutionality Again Questioned

Opponents May Launch Filibuster as Neutral Bill Is Pushed.

By Felix Bruner.

The Guffey bill, Administration "must" measure designed to create a "little NRA" for the bituminous industry, was foundering last night on the rocks of neutrality.

Although the Senate voted late in the day to take up the measure as the first order of business today, it appeared doubtful whether it will actually be given consideration and there was some possibility that it may never be considered.

As the Senate adjourned for the day, Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, announced that he would ask that the bill be set aside for consideration of neutrality legislation, but that if there were objection he would ask for a motion to consider the neutrality measure immediately after consideration of the Guffey bill.

This situation may give the advocates of neutrality legislation, some of whom are the most active opponents of the Guffey bill, an opportunity to filibuster the latter measure out of existence.

The vote to take up the Guffey measure immediately was 51 to 20, but this did not indicate the strength of the forces against the measure. A number of Senators who voted for consideration have indicated they will vote against the bill when it comes up for passage.

Tydings Starts Attack.

Senator Neely (Democrat), West Virginia, who is handling the fight for the bill on the floor, moved that it be brought immediately before the Senate. Before the motion could be put, Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, launched into an attack on its constitutionality.

The question of constitutionality had been brought up continually since the measure was introduced. In spite of this fact, President Roosevelt has insisted that it be passed, even though there may be a "reasonable doubt" as to whether it would be upheld by the Supreme Court.

Tydings asked whether the measure suspended the anti-trust laws as to coal operators who comply with the proposed code for the industry and kept them in effect for those who did not comply. Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, told him that was the situation.

The Maryland Senator then launched an attack on the bill in which he called it a "legal monstrosity," "class legislation," and "class taxation," and predicted it would be "blown away like the autumn flowers with the first wintry blasts from the courts."

Price-fixing Alleged.

"The purpose of this bill is to fix the price of coal," he said. "I see no more need for fixing the price of coal than for fixing the price of any other commodity."

"It is an attempt to coerce every producer of coal to put his business under the board," Tydings said.

Before a vote could be taken on the motion to consider the neutrality debate intervened and the vote was not taken until nearly 6 p. m.

Studios Plan Recess to Pay Rogers Honor

Memorial Rites to Be Held Tomorrow Throughout Hollywood.

By the United Press.

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—The film world tonight planned the greatest "farewell appearance" ever given an actor for Will Rogers, its genial "first citizen and unofficial ambassador."

While the body of the homely former cowboy from the Oklahoma plains lay on a marble slab in the tiny vine-clustered chapel at Forest Lawn, leaders of the film industry voted a complete shut-down of motion picture production at 2 p. m. Thursday—the hour of the funeral.

All to Join Services.

Every camera in Hollywood will stop clicking. Exchange studios throughout the country have been asked to join the memorial tribute—the first time in the history of motion pictures the industry has stopped operation for any purpose.

The Association of Motion Picture Producers headed by Louis B. Mayer, and Will Hays, czar of the industry, voted unanimously on the proposal.

The studios will not resume operation until the next day.

Meanwhile, Hollywood's thousands of film workers—actors, technicians, stagehands, studio jobbers, grips, extras—will join in every studio in a memorial service at 3 p. m.

Tonight the body of the actor was dressed for his last public appearance. Gray canvas that wrapped the broken remains of the famed cowboy-philosopher on his 4,000-mile journey down from the Arctic Circle was removed, and the still figure dressed in Rogers' favorite suit—a plain blue serge that he called his "dress-up clothes."

Family En Route.

Thursday, shortly after dawn, the body will be carried out in a plain bronze casket and laid under a clump of pine and olive trees on a knoll overlooking Forest Lawn Cemetery, while thousands file past for a swift glance at the features of the humorist, his chuckling grin stilled in death.

The widow, Betty Blake Rogers,

20 Riders in Excursion Coach Hurt in Defense Highway Crash

Washington Man's Sedan Skidded Into Path of Bus After Leaving Pavement; Two Sisters Were Teachers in Chevy Chase Convent.

Five persons, three of them Catholic nuns, were killed yesterday when their automobile and an excursion bus collided on the Defense highway about 2 miles west of Lanham, Md.

Twenty colored persons, bound for a picnic at Sparrow's Beach, near Annapolis, Md., were injured when the bus turned over. Five were taken to Casualty Hospital and the others were treated at the scene.

The dead:

Death in Midst of Joy.

Like many such tragedies, the crash came in the midst of a joyous occasion. It was a double reunion. Sister Frances Gabriel had come to Washington from New York to visit her father, Mr. McCarthy, and other members of the family, and Miss Slavin had come here to see Sister Winifred Jean. The five were returning from a sightseeing tour at Annapolis when the life was crushed from them.

Curtis George Mason, of Ballston, Va., driver of the bus, was arrested by Prince Georges County Policemen Claude Reese and Albert Anderson and later was released in $1,000 bond pending an investigation.

Acting Coroner Louis Gundling, of Lanham, announced that an in-

Reich Clerics Weigh Future Of Catholics

Great Secrecy Surrounds Conclave of Cardinal and 45 Bishops.

By the Associated Press.

Fulda, Germany, Aug. 20.—The future of the Catholic Church in Germany was pondered tonight by the highest clericals of the Reich while Nazi officials kept close tab.

The three-day conference in closed sessions is considering the "serious situation facing the German church."

Johannes Adolf Cardinal Bertram opened the meeting of 45 bishops with a public devotional service in the Catholic crypt at the tomb of Saint Boniface, English missionary who was first to bring Christianity to this section.

After the blessing of the sacrament, the cardinals and bishops filed into the nearby ancient seminary, closed the doors and began to exchange views on the Church-Nazi struggle. Their deliberations are expected to result in formation of a line of action for the coming year.

You were the father of my dolls,
My husband, I suppose.

And I was half-past 8;
It really was romantic, or
As good, at any rate."

ROGER JACKSON, a young engineer, has wished a hundred times (or more) that Nathalia Crane, the child poet, of Brooklyn, who won wide acclaim with her poetry, had never written these lines to the red-headed janitor's boy with whom she played when she was young.

He was approached at his work, now that Nathalia, a grown-up, has expressed a desire to meet Roger, whom she immortalized in her most famous poem, "The Janitor's Boy." He is red-headed, has brown eyes and a freckled nose. He is 22. He contended, however, that he isn't the "janitor's boy."

"Listen, Jack," he said, "this has come up before and I'm getting sick of it. Everytime someone hears my name and takes a look at my hair, they say: 'You must be that red-headed janitor's boy that the poet wrote about. I've never lived in Brooklyn where the poem writer lived. I'm from Indiana. I don't know anything about poetry, see? I think poetry is a lot of baloney, and I think these poems are screwy.

Young Mother Drowns Infant, Then Carries Body to Police

By the Associated Press.

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Coroner Andrew Clayer, of Newburgh, said tonight that Dorothy Sherwood, 27-year-old Newburgh mother, walked into police headquarters today carrying the body of her 2-year-old son, James, and announced to police she had drowned the child because she "found it too hard to make a living for myself and the baby."

Coroner Calyer said the woman told Police Lieut. John Powell that she had held the child's head under water until she believed him to be dead and then changed his clothes, putting a clean dress on him before returning to Newburgh.

He said she told police she drowned the child in Moodna Creek, near New Windsor, N. Y. The coroner said the woman was being held in Orange County Jail on a first-degree murder charge to await action of the grand jury.

Calyer said her husband died four months ago. He said she had a daughter, Dorothy, 7.

Sergt. Lawrence Cooney said the woman remained calm and willingly pointed out to police the spot where she said she had drowned her baby.

Senate Forced to Vote On Neutrality; British Seek U.S. Aid for Peace

Cabinet to Weigh Italian Trade Ban

Copyright, 1935, by the United Press.

London, (Wednesday), Aug. 21.—Diplomats heard early today that Great Britain had appealed to the United States to intervene in the Italo-Ethiopian war threat under the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

Chief basis for the report was an unexpected call of Chancellor Ray Atherton, United States charge d'affaires at the foreign office last night.

Diplomats were active far into the night. They said it was definite that Atherton had discussed Anglo-United States consultation on further peace efforts and that there was good reason to believe invocation of the Kellogg Pact had been urged upon the American diplomat.

Dispatches Drafted.

After the conference, Atherton returned to the United States Embassy, where he worked far ino the night reportedly drafting a dispatch to the State Department at Washington.

Complete official secrecy was observed.

Diplomats hinted that joint action under the Kellogg Pact was envisaged in connection with Thursday's cabinet meeting and that United States collaboration was regarded by Britain as essential.

The London development followed disclosure in Paris of apparently well-founded reports that diplomats there expected United States intervention under the Kellogg Pact.

British statesmen, meantime, prepared to face the reality of an African war, convinced that an Italian assault upon Ethiopia would contain grave potential danger to the British Empire.

Peace Hope Gone.

The cabinet was summoned to meet Thursday. There was no hope of avoiding war, but an urgent realization of its threat to Britain's interests was envisioned.

Foreign Minister Sir Samuel Hoare is expected to sound out representatives of Canada, South Africa, India, New Zealand and other overseas possessions before the League of Nations' September 4 meeting.

If assured of powerful American and colonial support, Britain may stake all on the League. The realistic view here is that the League will be lucky to survive the Italo-Ethiopian crisis anyway and may as well go down fighting.

There is a choice of two weapons for the League.

1. Strong-worded denunciation of Italian military preparedness.

2. Application of economic sanctions—blockades and embargoes.

Details of the unsuccessful three-power conversations under the 1906 treaty between Britain, France and Italy have been transmitted to Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin at Aix-Les-Bains by Sir Robert Van Sittart, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs. Baldwin will abandon a vacation trip in the Alps.

Van Sittart reportedly communicated to Baldwin, feeling that nothing less than exclusive military political and economic control of Ethiopia would be accepted by Premier Benito Mussolini as excuse for calling off his troops.

Under the 1906 treaty and the subsequent 1925 exchanges of letters, Britain was given a sphere of influence around Lake Tsana. This is important to control of headwaters of the Nile and vast irriga-

ADDIS ABABA — Defensive measures were pressed by Emperor Haile Selassi, who ordered foodstuffs and munitions placed at strategic points throughout his African country, and forbade his army to draw on the population for supplies. A demonstration of Ethiopia's newly acquired military strength will be held today with a sham battle under direction of the Emperor. Reports from the provinces indicated that natives, roused over Italy's probable invasion, were becoming restive.

France to Ask U. S. to Invoke Anti-War Pact

Ethiopian Invasion Seen as Certain as Rainy Season Nears End.

Copyright by the United Press.

Paris, Aug. 20.—France, cynical of the League of Nations ability to stop Premier Benito Mussolini's war machine, tonight put out a feeler for United States invocation of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

Authorities said they believed that United States leaders planned such action shortly, possibly in connection with Labor Day addresses. The pact can only be brought up by a peaceful neutral nation and the United States is France's nominee for the task of rapping Mussolini's knuckles smartly and saying: "See here, Signor, you signed this pledge of peace. How about it?"

Britain Concurs.

French believe Britain also would like to see America invoke the treaty, holding that Secretary of State Cordell Hull's comparatively mild reply to Emperor Haile Selassie several weeks ago was insufficient deterent to war-bound Italy.

Meantime the League's Ualual arbitration commission met to begin discussion of the border clash which has become one of the chief technical disputes between Italy and the Black Empire. The session opened in an atmosphere of cynicism. Italian arbitrators again refused to discuss frontier lines. The Ethiopians reiterated that were it not for the gravity of the situation they would not consent to consider a question "amputated of one of its essential elements."

Nicholas Politis, of Greece, was elected chairman and fifth arbitrator. He will cast the deciding vote after the Ethiopian and Italian representatives have battled to a deadlock.

Prompt Action Needed.

An American, Pitman Potter, is one of Ethiopia's members.

Gaston Jeze, Ethiopian legal adviser, addressed the arbitrators for two hours regarding the Black Nation's viewpoint as to who was aggressor in the Ualual clash.

Meanwhile, a strong movement for immediate convocation of the League Council was revealed in high French circles. Fear is felt the September 4 session may not get down to brass tacks before the African rainy season has ended and the war is on.

Filibuster Led by Bone Threatens to Delay End of Session.

Resolution Seeks Embargo on Arms

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Stirred by the ominous war clouds overhanging Europe, filled with potential danger for the United States, a small Senate group yesterday used filibuster tactics to force the leaders to agree to permit, before Congress adjourns, consideration of legislation designed to make invulnerable this country's neutrality.

Immediately forthcoming from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was a compromise neutrality measure, which, while not pleasing to all, represented a substantial contribution toward preventing the Nation from becoming embroiled should war break out abroad. If passed, it would be the first neutrality legislation enacted since 1917.

Provided in Resolution.

The resolution reported by the committee provided:

Mandatory embargo on export of arms, munitions and implements of war to all belligerents involved.

Establishment of system of licensing munitions manufacture and export as a permanent policy of this Government.

Prohibition against American ships carrying arms or munitions under embargo to any belligerent port or to any neutral port for reshipment to belligerents.

Authority for the President to prevent ships, foreign or American, from carrying men or supplies to belligerent vessels at sea.

Authority for the President to restrict or prohibit the entry of belligerent submarines into American waters or ports.

The filibuster by the neutrality group, which brought this resolution speedily from the Foreign Relations Committee, was ended only after Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson promised to seek unanimous consent at noon today to lay aside the Guffey-Snyder coal stabilization bill and consider this program at once.

Should that action be blocked, Robinson promised he would move to make the neutrality resolution the unfinished business of the Senate after a final vote on the coal bill. But this latter promise did not appease the neutrality group.

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, leader of the neutrality bloc, said that unless the neutrality legislation becomes the business before the Senate today the filibuster which stalled the legislative machinery yesterday

Ecuador Dictator Jailed in Hurry

Military Releases Foes of President Ibarra.

By the United Press.

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 20.—The dictatorship of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, proclaimed earlier in the day by War Minister Ricardo Astudillo, ended tonight when the President and his ministers were imprisoned by military leaders.

Unsupported by the army, which refused to follow his orders, efforts of the President to consolidate the government in his hands were short-lived. Prior to his arrest he had jailed opposition leaders, ordered dissolution of Congress and convoked a constitutional assembly for October 12.

Liberal Party leaders who had been ordered arrested by the President were freed by the troops.

26 Feared Dead in Cave-in Of New Subway in Berlin

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Aug. 20.—Troops, police and Berlin's fire brigade, who last night fought a costly fire in Berlin's radio city, worked feverishly tonight to recover the bodies of at least 14 men trapped in the collapse of a portion of a subway under construction.

Some unofficial estimates placed the number of missing as high as 26 workers. The new tunnel was being built to connect various Berlin railway stations by the time the Olympic games open next year.

Searchlights placed on the roof of Bluecher Palace, future home of the United States Embassy, assisted rescue parties in the difficult task of untangling street car rails, water mains, telephone cables and other equipment which crashed into the 170-foot gash in Hermann Goering street.

The American Embassy immediately after the accident turned over the garden adjacent to the palace as well as rooms in the future embassy to rescuers.

Rescue work proved exceedingly slow, owing in part to the fact that a water main flooded much of the tunnel and masses of sand piled up alongside the tunnel slid when the top caved in.

Four workers were hauled out during the afternoon, two of them seriously injured.

Latest official records said two persons were killed and about 20 injured in the fire at the fair grounds.

An elevator attendant in the radio tower, Erich Gosshek, was hailed as a hero. Although flames cracked about him, he ran his elevator up to the restaurant where a number of people were caught.

TVA Revisions Gain Approval In Conference

Strengthened Authority Permits Power Sale, Once Challenged.

Girding the Tennessee Valley Authority with new armor against invalidating court decisions, and at the same time broadly extending its powers, TVA amendments, long deadlocked in conference, were ordered reported yesterday.

Permission for TVA to sell surplus power generated in navigation and flood control work on the Tennessee—a right challenged by Federal Judge W. I. Grubb, in Birmingham, Ala.—was specifically provided.

City Ownership Favored.

Loans to municipalities to encourage them to generate their own power were authorized in the conference agreement, although authority to purchase entire power systems for resale to municipalities was eliminated.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican), Nebraska, "father of TVA," said he was satisfied with the revised measure.

A provision of the House bill, which would have prohibited TVA construction of their own power transmission lines until after they had attempted to purchase those of private companies, was eliminated.

Bond Authority Kept.

Authority for TVA to issue up to $50,000,000 in bonds, to be used for expenses and loans to municipalities, was retained.

A significant modification was written into the original House provision, which would have compelled TVA to turn over to the Treasury all receipts from sale of power or other products.

As rewritten in conference, this authorizes TVA to keep on hand a fund of $1,000,000, and to withhold from the Treasury in addition such funds as it needs to pay operating expenses.

Audit Dispute Settled.

The dispute over whether the Comptroller General should audit TVA accounts was settled by giving him this authority provided he pay the cost of these audits out of his own department's funds. Further, the Comptroller would be required to first submit his report to TVA officials. If the report is later sent to Congress, it must be accompanied by a TVA report.

Other conference provisions permits TVA to regulate power resale rate schedules, make purchases in emergencies without competitive bidding and pass on private dams and power developments on the Tennessee and its tributaries which might affect its plans for development of the region. The TVA was directed to provide a 9-foot channel in the Tennessee River from Knoxville to the mouth.

PWA Challenged

By the Associated Press.

PWA'S right to give money to cities for construction of municipal electric power plants was challenged in the Supreme Court yesterday by the Kansas Utilities Co.

The litigation began after PWA granted Burlington, Kans., $45,300 to help finance a municipal plant and distribution system.

It is the first such case to reach the Supreme Court.

The Kansas Utilities Co., with Burlington property valued at $50,000 and a plant and property nearby valued at approximately $200,000, began proceedings to test validity of the recovery act and of the acts of the PWA administrator.

Court Upholds PWA

By the Associated Press.

Denver, Aug. 20.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today a municipality has the right to construct a municipal electric power plant with funds borrowed from the Federal Government under the PWA program.

Attorneys here said the court's decision will affect billions of dollars worth of projects now under construction in connection with the PWA setup.

The ruling was on application of the Kansas Gas & Electric Co., of Kansas City, for an injunction to prevent the city of Independence, Kans., building a city-owned electric power plant with Federal money.

The court held the city has the legal right to construct an electric plant with a loan and grant from the Government, but granted an injunction against issuance of revenue bonds and any unlawful diversion of water works funds for the project.

Senator Protests Macon Postmaster

Committee Report Adverse on Roosevelt Nominee.

By the Associated Press.

The Senate Postoffice Committee announced yesterday it had rendered an adverse report on the nomination of Peyton Anderson as postmaster at Macon, Ga.

Senator Russell (Democrat), of Georgia, said he had objected to confirmation of Anderson. The Senator stated: "The Macon Telegraph, at the masthead of which Mr. Anderson's name appears, recently has been more bitter in its criticism of the President than any Republican newspaper in the country.

"I recognize its right to take any position it cares to in political matters, but common decency should prevent any man from accepting one of the best jobs in Georgia at the hands of the President and repaying his kindness with constant abuse and misrepresentation."

Anderson now is acting postmaster.

Textile Industry Report Due Today

President to Get Eagerly Awaited Suggestions.

By the Associated Press.

The eagerly awaited report of the President's Cabinet committee on the textile industry is scheduled to go to the White House today, but there was last night no indication when its contents would be disclosed.

The office of Secretary Roper, chairman of the committee, said the report, which is to include recommendations for meeting the problems of the industry, was ready for the President and more than likely would reach the White House this morning.

The only hint of what might be included in the recommendations has come from Gov. James M. Curley, of Massachusetts, who, after a conference Monday, predicted the report would propose restrictions upon Japanese cotton goods imports.

Roosevelt's Loss Of South Denied

Nashville Leader Asserts Popularity Unbroken.

By the Associated Press.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 20.—Kirk Hart, of Nashville, Tenn., here for the second annual convention of the Young Democrats this week, today scoffed at reports that President Roosevelt was losing strength in the South and probably would find the "Solid South" broken in 1936.

"I am confident," said Hart, "that Mr. Roosevelt will carry the solid South. We may not be satisfied with everything that has been done, including some appointments, but the President will overwhelmingly carry Tennessee."

Delegates arrived today from Alabama, Tennessee, Florida and the District of Columbia.

McIntyre Call Upon Lobbyist Is Hit by Long

Huey Seeks White House Explanation; Hopson Inquiry Continues.

Senator Long demanded on the floor of the Senate yesterday that the White House explain "why the night headquarters of the public utility lobby is guarded by the same man who guards the portals of the White House in the daytime."

Long was referring to the recent visit of Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, to the hotel room of B. B. Robinson, lobbyist for the Associated Gas & Electric Co., controlled by H. C. Hopson. McIntyre was found in Robinson's room last week when Chesley Jurney, Senate sergeant at arms, visited the room in search of Hopson. With him were Lawrence Wood Robert, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Amon Carter, publisher and Democratic committeeman from Texas.

Referring to Vice President Garner's proposed visit to Japan, Long declared that "this is the season for visiting, not only international visitations, but domestic visitations.

"Fire and brimstone are being hurled in every quarter," Long said, referring to the lobby investigation. "With all these great threatening disasters, when representatives of the committee come to the lobbying headquarters of the utilities to find the culprit and search the devil's den, they find the Capitoline Hill of the lobbying headquarters being officially guarded by the White House.

Midnight Machinations.

"What about a national Administration charging utilities with spending utilities' money on the one hand and the utilities charging the Administration with spending the people's money on the other, and then we come to find that it is all a mere matter, apparently, of midnight machinations.

"I do not believe Mr. McIntyre has betrayed his chief. On the contrary, I think he is doing what his chief would have him do if he knew all about it. Mr. McIntyre, who guards the door that leads to the President, when the President is awake, when the time comes for the President to go to sleep, guards the headquarters wherein are housed the lobbyists and the muckrakers for the utility business."

Long called upon Congress to quit. He said that Congress had turned its power over to the White House and the White House "takes itself over to the lobbying headquarters of the very interests we have been fighting."

Statement Absurd.

Senator Robinson, Democrat floor leader, told Long that his "attempt to show that the President is in sympathy with the utility lobby will not succeed."

"The statement that Mr. McIntyre was guarding the lobby headquarters is silly," he said. "There is nobody who is honest who is not going to believe that the President is sincere in his fight on holding companies. The senator from Louisiana will not make the American people believe the President is dishonest. The statement that the President is secretly communing with the utility interests is absurd.

"It is absurd to take up the time of this Senate because a man stopped in a room to get a cocktail."

Senator Barkely (Democrat), Kentucky, in reference to Long said that "a candidate for President must have some issues, no matter how trivial."

Hopson Faces Charges.

Meanwhile, the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee continued its examination of Hopson. At the opening of the session, Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, chairman of the committee, read a statement in which he said that the committee had unanimously agreed to press contempt charges against the witness unless he ceased alleged evasion of questions and speechmaking.

Testimony had to do with the rapid growth of the Associated Gas & Electric System under the direction of Hopson and J. I. Mange. Senator Schwellenbach (Democrat), Washington, tried to get Hopson to say that he had made a profit of $22,000,000 by transfer of stock "from one hand to the other," but Hopson insisted it was merely a bookkeeping item.

Monkey-Freezer Accused of Cruelty

Is Taken in Custody While Trying to Revive One.

By the Associated Press.

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 20.—Ralph Willard, chemist, was taken from his laboratory to the city prosecutor's office late today by Dr. C. C. Warne, head of the city humane department, who said he would ask for a complaint charging cruelty to animals.

Willard, who claims to have frozen small animals and then revived them after several days in a refrigerator, before leaving his laboratory spent several hours attempting to resurrect a monkey in the presence of newspapermen, personal friends and Dr. Warne.

Willard said due to the halting of this experiment the monkey was dead beyond hope.

Willard, who contended his experiments might show a new way to control disease and glandular disorders, has offered to experiment with a human being and Steve Simkovich, Hollywood writer, volunteered as a subject.

Utilities Conflict Likely to Continue

Sen. Barkley Suggests a New Compromise.

By the Associated Press.

With continued conflict indicated, conferees on the utilities bill prepared to meet today for an effort to compromise the bitter controversy over the abolishment of holding companies.

Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, was ready to present a compromise offer reputedly having White House approval, but the conferees frankly were pessimistic of prospects for an agreement.

Barkley had an opportunity yesterday to explain it to the House conference managers, but under circumstances which hardly tended to diminish acrimony of the argument.

All five of the House conferees appeared for a scheduled meeting. Of the five representing the Senate, only Barkley appeared. They waited half an hour or so for the rest of the Senate committee, then departed.

Hopkins States Security for All Is Youth Goal

Roosevelt Stresses 'Prompt Action' in Talk With NYA Directors.

By the Associated Press.

Economic security "for all—and not for a privileged few" was set by Harry L. Hopkins as the Administration's goal yesterday in a talk to State directors of the National Youth Administration.

President Roosevelt told the executives of his $50,000,000 program for part-time jobs for young people that "prompt action" is desirable, while Mrs. Roosevelt seconded an appeal by Hopkins for speed and the discarding of "red tape."

"If the experiment is a success," the President said, "there is not much doubt in my mind that future Congresses will continue the work. You are building for the future, not only for the coming year."

The directors visited the White House after Hopkins, in a luncheon address, had asserted that "this business of providing economic security for young people will mean a fight."

"We cannot provide economic security," he continued, "if we do not divide the national income on a different basis than it was in 1929. Great sectors of American opinion are opposed to this, as opposition to the security bill showed. But that law was the handwriting on the wall that the Government of the United States intends to provide security for all."

Cut Red Tape.

Mrs. Roosevelt, while urging the directors to become familiar with work-relief rules, warned them against permitting "red tape" to strangle accomplishment.

"One of the best workers I know," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "has twice done things recently for which she could go to jail. But she hasn't gone to jail yet. It would be better to show we've done things and go to the directors and say, 'Here, get me out of a hole.'"

Mrs. Roosevelt explained that the woman she mentioned had, for example, used relief labor to improve private property.

"It happened," she explained, "that children would have died of typhoid fever if these things hadn't been straightened out. 'You'll do the same thing, and I do hope that one thing will not be said, 'He didn't do anything!'"

Here for a two-day conference before starting to create part-time jobs for boys and girls from high school to post-graduate work, the directors heard Hopkins called the "spearhead of the great New Deal" by Miss Josephine Roche, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and chairman of the Youth Administration executive committee.

The Works Progress director said he was "not ashamed" of being "on the side of the undefprivileged."

"Our task," he added, "is to adjust the present economic system, on one hand, and cultural opportunities, on the other, in such a way that every young person in America will get a break, and an education if capable of receiving it."

Recognition of Union Delays End of Strike

By the Associated Press.

The question of whether the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America shall be accepted as representing the workers continued last night to block arbitration of the protracted Camden, N. J., shipyard strike.

Both union and Navy Department officials told a House Labor subcommittee yesterday that other items suggested for arbitration by a three-man board to be named by the President were acceptable alike to the union and the New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

Rails' Finance Plan Measure Passes Senate

Returns to House Owing to Amendments Made in Upper Body.

The bill, recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission and President Roosevelt, changing the procedure for financial reorganization of railroads, was passed by the Senate yesterday without a record vote, but it must go back to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments before it is sent to the White House.

The measure is designed to simplify procedure in reorganization of railroad companies and to assist in the Administration's rail coordination plan. At present 85 railroads covering 58,815 miles are involved in either bankruptcy or receivership proceedings.

Two-thirds Plan.

One of the major provisions of the bill is that a plan can be agreed to by two-thirds of each class of stock voting instead of two-thirds of all the outstanding stock of each class. In this and other respects the new measure amends the bankruptcy law of 1933 insofar as it applies to railroads.

In instances in which the parties involved in a reorganization plan do not agree a plan may be adopted with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Before the plan can become effective it must be submitted to stockholders and creditors. If two-thirds of each class of parties interested approve, the remainder of the class must be bound. Even though they do not approve, however, the court is given the power to order the plan if it feels it is justified in doing so.

Earning Power Basis.

In order to prevent the expense of valuation proceedings, the bill provides that findings may be made only on the basis of a company's earning power, with the matter of original investment given only such consideration as required by law.

The bill provides for comprehensive regulation of reorganization committees. The Interstate Commerce Commission is required to approve protective committee agreements governing expenses received by such committees from security holders. No additional compensation may be allowed members of these committees.

Named By Court.

A further provision is that the court shall select trustees for a property subject to approval by the commission. In instances in which a trustee is an officer, director or employe of the corporation involved, the court must appoint an additional trustee, who has no connection with the property.

Chairman Wheeler of the Interstate Commerce Committee told the Senate that the 1933 law had gone a long way but that experience showed it was unworkable in several particulars. Senator Hastings, (Republican) Delaware, expressed some doubt as to the constitutionality of the measure. He said he doubted whether Congress could compel a class of creditors to go along on a reorganization plan.

Frazier-Lemke Bill Meets Delay in House

By the Associated Press.

An attempt to bring up the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill in the House was halted yesterday by an objection from Representative Millard (Republican), New York.

The measure was passed Monday by the Senate.

Designed to replace the Frazier-Lemke law killed by the Supreme Court it would permit debt-burdened farmers to go into bankruptcy and retain their lands for three years by payment of "reasonable" rental and they would be given opportunity meantime to clear the property of debt by paying its court-appraised value.

Senate Confirms Caskie Appointment

By the Associated Press.

The Senate yesterday confirmed Marion M. Caskie of Alabama as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The appointment is for the term expiring December 31, 1941. Caskie succeeds Patrick J. Farrell of this city, who was not reappointed.

President Roosevelt nominated Raymond B. Stevens, of New Hampshire to be a member of the Tariff Commission. He is a former special counsel of the Trade Commission and former vice chairman of the Shipping Board.

Senate Confirms Three As Resettlement Aids

By the Associated Press.

The Senate yesterday confirmed three regional directors of the Resettlement Administration. Walter Packard, of California; Elmer A. Starch, of Montana, and J. H. Jenkins, of Colorado. The latter was confirmed August 14, but was reconsidered and restored to the nomination calendar August 16.

Rex E. Willard, of Washington State, was rejected as another regional director, after having been reported upon adversely by committee. Other confirmations included Edwin D. Bolger as United States marshal for the western district of Michigan, and George A. Lingo as register of the land office at Anchorage, Alaska.

$250,000,000 Tax Measure Ready for Vote

Gift taxes approximately three-fourths of the estate tax. Both same as in Senate bill. Estimated combined yield, $102,000,000.

6. New intercorporate dividend tax, averaging 1½ per cent of dividend income received by one company from another. Exempts 90 per cent of such income, instead of 85 per cent, as in Senate bill. Estimated yield, $29,000,000.

From the total yield from these sources will have to be deducted about $15,000,000 in revenues, due to the exemption up to 5 per cent of a company's income, for corporate gifts to charity. Experts had estimated the House bill would yield $255,000,000, and the Senate bill, $254,000,000. The conference bill scales this down to an even $250,000,000.

To prevent surtax evasion by recourse to personal holding companies, the conference approved the Senate provision raising personal holding company taxes to conform with the increase in surtaxes.

For tax purposes, the bill defines personal holding companies as any which derives 80 per cent of its combined gross income from royalties, dividends, interest and annuities.

The present tax rates on personal holding companies start with 30 per cent of the amount of undistributed adjusted net income not in excess of $100,000, and 40 per cent of all over that amount.

Conferees agreed to substitute the following schedule:

(1) Twenty per centum of the amount of the undistributed adjusted net income not in excess of $2,000; plus

(2) Thirty per centum of the amount thereof in excess of $2,000 and not in excess of $100,000; plus

(3) Forty per centum of the amount thereof in excess of $100,000 and not in excess of $500,000; plus

(4) Fifty per centum of the amount thereof in excess of $500,000 and not in excess of $1,000,000; plus

(5) Sixty per centum of the amount thereof in excess of $1,000,000.

Of the many extraneous amendments attached on the Senate floor, only one survives—a reduction in the tax on petroleum at wells and refineries from one-tenth of a cent a barrel to one-twenty-fifth of a cent. The amendment was sponsored by Senator Thomas P. Gore, (Democrat) Oklahoma. It was explained that the tax is not a revenue-getter, but designed to gain entry to books in the search for "hot" oil.

The graded corporation income tax finally agreed upon represents a new principle in taxation. Hitherto the flat rate of 13¾ per cent has been applied to corporate income. In his message to Congress, the President suggested the graduation principle, proposing a range of from 10¾ per cent to 16¾ per cent. Business protested strenuously. The House declined to go that far, but, in effect, it accepted the principle when it approved a 1 per cent step-up of 13¼ per cent up to $15,000, and 14¼ per cent over that amount. The Senate retorted by complying very nearly with the President's request, and the final conference compromise represented more nearly the views of the President and of the Senate than did the prevailing sentiment of the House.

In levying a $1.40 per $1,000 capital stock tax, and an excess profits tax range of from 6 to 12 per cent, the conferees permitted corporations to fix a new adjusted value for the purpose of determining the tax. Under the original House measure, corporations would have been held to the adjusted value they previously had fixed for the purposes of the present $1 per $1,000 capital stock tax. Business interests everywhere had protested the unfairness of the House proposal.

Revenues Estimated From Wealth Taxes

By the Associated Press.

Estimated revenue from the proposed new wealth-distribution taxes.

Corporation income..	$35,000,000
Capital stock	44,000,000
Income surtax	45,000,000
Excess profits	10,000,000
Estate-gift	102,000,000
Intercorporate dividends	29,000,000
Total	$265,000,000

The net increase will be only around $250,000,000 because of an expected $15,000,000 loss through granting permission to corporations up to 5 per cent of the net incomes on gifts to charitable organizations.

The Senate's two-bracket excess profits tax also was adopted in preference to the House schedule, which ranged from 5 per cent on corporate profits of 8 to 12 per cent, to 20 per cent on company profits over 25 per cent. At present a "policing" tax of only 5 per cent is collected on profits in excess of 12½ per cent.

In approving the House income surtax schedules, beginning with income over $50,000, the conference committee again defied the President, who had asked wealth surtaxes starting at $1,000,000. The Senate had given the President approximately what he wanted, with surtaxes ranging from 60 per cent on income of from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, to 75 per cent on over $10,000,000. The President's recommendations would have hit only about 50 people, and the House group insisted that the range be broadened.

The President's most serious setback, however, came on the refusal of the conference group to accept the House inheritance tax schedule, graduated from 5 per cent on the first taxable $10,000, to 75 per cent of bequests above $10,000,000.

The Senate in lieu of this had decided on an increase in estates levies as the more equitable arrangement. That chamber had raised the estate tax maximum from 60 to 70 per cent, and lowered exemptions from $50,000 to $40,000. This was the scale finally accepted in conference.

The President won a minor triumph in conference acceptance of a moderation of the Senate's original intercorporate dividend rates. The House had refused to accept any tax on intercompany dividends whatsoever, but the Senate had made 15 per cent of this income volume subject to imposts. The conference group, instead, removed the exemption on 10 per cent of dividend income.

Printer Faces Coroner Today In D. C. Slaying

Woman, 26, Is Fatally Shot in Rooming House and Policeman Is Hurt.

Charles Frederick Hisey, 52-year-old printer, will go before the coroner's jury at 11:30 a. m. today for questioning in connection with the killing yesterday of a woman and the wounding of a policeman.

Hisey, according to police, shot and killed Miss Virgie Lyttle, 26, a roomer at his home in the 400 block of Rittenhouse street northwest, shortly after breakfast.

Policeman Robert L. Talbert, 62, of the Sixth Precinct, was shot in the arm when he attempted to overpower Hisey.

Hisey, the police said, was stupid from liquor when he was questioned after the shooting. They described his statements as "incoherent." He was placed in Gallinger Hospital pending the inquest today.

An unrequited infatuation was blamed as a motive for the slaying of Miss Lyttle, who was shot in a second floor hallway of the Hisey home.

With breakfast completed and members of the household preparing to leave for work, Hisey left a desk where he had been writing several notes and spoke to Miss Lyttle.

He had been drinking for several days, according to reports to police, and Miss Lyttle spurned his attentions with a curt reply that she was "in a hurry."

Wife Grows Alarmed.

Hisey's wife, Mrs. Eunice Hisey; Miss Lyttle's sister, Miss Esther Lyttle, and another roomer, Miss Girlie Garrett, left the breakfast table and started to don their hats. All work at a downtown department store.

Hisey's actions, however, apparently worried his wife. She glanced on the table where he had been writing and saw one of the notes was addressed to "The Coroner." Fearing trouble, Mrs. Hisey went quietly to the telephone and summoned police. The women saw that Hisey was carrying a gun.

Miss Garrett forgot something in her room and went upstairs to get it. Miss Virgie Lyttle followed her. A moment later, Hisey went to the second floor and there encountered Miss Lyttle.

Several words were exchanged. Miss Lyttle was heard to say:

"I can't do that, Mr. Hisey."

Several more words and a sharp rebuke from Miss Lyttle were heard by the women downstairs, and then a shot echoed through the house.

Hardly had the shot been fired when Policeman Talbert appeared at the front door. Gun in hand, he started upstairs. Hisey, clutching his smoking weapon, appeared at the top. As Talbert continued toward him, Hisey allegedly opened fire. One bullet struck the policeman in the arm.

Fight on Steps.

Talbert, visibly in pain, lunged at Hisey, grabbed him around the hips and hurled him down the steps. At that moment, Policeman Harold Cheeney arrived. He wrested Hisey's gun from his hand and went to Talbert's aid.

Miss Lyttle was found lying in the upstairs hallway—a bullet through her heart. She died en route to Walter Reed Hospital. Policeman Talbert also was taken to Walter Reed, where he remained last night in an undetermined condition.

Police expressed a theory that Hisey intended to take his own life. Only portions of hastily scrawled notes he wrote during breakfast were legible, investigators said. One, addressed to Mrs. Hisey, told that he was tired of life, contained the words "fed up" and "good husband" and ended with the query, "Savvy?"

Another note, addressed to "The Coroner," said that Mrs. Hisey should receive "everything I own."

As he was led from the house by police, Hisey turned to his wife and shouted over and over:

"Sweetheart, everything I have is yours."

The Hiseys have lived at the Rittenhouse street address for nine years. Neighbors said they had kept roomers for some time. Friends described Hisey as "quiet and pleasant." They said he was extremely generous — "unusually so when intoxicated."

Printer Arrested for Slaying Girl

Norma Millen, Killer's Widow, To Leave Jail

Clergyman's Daughter Will Seek to Take Up Old Life and Forget.

By the United Press.

Dedham, Mass., Aug. 20.—Norma Brighton Millen, pretty 20-year-old daughter of a clergyman and widow of an electrocuted killer, leaves Dedham Jail tomorrow.

She was nervous but happy as she gathered her personal belongings preparatory to facing the world anew. The violet-eyed Norma hoped to take up her former life at the point it was broken by her ill-fated marriage to the machine-gun bandit, Murton Millen.

Last September, Norma was sentenced to a year in jail as an accessory to the robberies and murders for which her husband, his brother, Irving, and Abe Faber were electrocuted June 7. Thirty-six days have been taken off her term for good behavior. Before her conviction, however, Norma spent several months in jail awaiting trial.

Plans Motor Trip.

Her father, the Rev. Norman Brighton, was to take her back to the family home in Natick. Then, it was reported, she will seek seclusion in a New Hampshire camp or take a motor trip to the Middle West to gather strength and courage for an attempt to procure work.

Traced through the battery in the burned automobile which they had used in the $155,000 raid on the Needham Trust Co., during which two policemen were slain, Murton and Irving were trapped with Norma in a New York hotel, February 25, 1934. Faber, Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduate, was arrested at Boston.

Will Drop Name.

No jail pallor marks Norma's finely chiseled beauty. Since spring, she has spent as much time as possible exercising in the jail yard. Her skin has taken on a light tan and her cheeks are tinged with ruddiness.

It was reported that one of Norma's first acts after regaining her freedom, would be to seek to drop the stigmatized name of Millen.

Fishing Vessel Blast Kills 4; Sharks Menace Rest of Crew

By the Associated Press.

Boston, Aug. 20.—Four survivors of a fishing vessel, which sank after an explosion off Nantucket Lightship with a loss of four lives, reached Boston today with stories of harrowing experiences in shark-infested waters as they saved themselves first by clinging to wreckage and then by boarding a dory.

They were picked up later by a Norwegian freighter. The four missing members of the crew of the vessel, the New York fishing schooner Juneal, were not seen after the explosion.

One of the surviving crew members said a shark was preparing to attack him before he reached the dory but a fish distracted it and it turned away.

The men believed to have gone down with the vessel were Alf Kristiensen, 40, engineer; Donald Murphy, mate and second engineer; Michael Allard, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., and John Colbert, 29, East Boston.

The survivors, are Capt. Gustave Olsen, 48; Ole Olsen, 17, cook, son of the captain; John Powers and Richard Delaney, all of Brooklyn. They escaped serious injury.

Capt. Olsen reported his vessel remained afloat only about two minutes after a compressed air tank used for starting the Diesel exploded. Awakened by the blast, he rushed to the pilot house, cut away the lashings of dories carried on deck.

To this act the four survivors probably owe their lives, for after clinging for an hour to bits of wreckage they saw two of the dories floating and swam to them. They succeeded in righting one and climbed into it.

3 Nuns Killed With 2 Others In Auto Wreck

quest would be held Friday in Hyattsville.

The accident occurred on Holy Trinity turn, so-called because it is near the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. The automobile bearing the nuns was headed toward Washington; the Capital Transit bus toward Annapolis. The crash took place about 4 p. m.

As reconstructed by Prince Georges County police, this is what happened:

In rounding the turn, McCarthy's automobile went off the concrete highway and ran along the dirt fringing it. McCarthy turned the wheels of his automobile and finally got the machine back on he concrete, which is elevated about 8 inches.

When he got the car back, however, it skidded on the wet concrete and was athwart the highway as the excursion bus came around the turn.

Mason, driver of the bus, made an attempt to swerve out of the way but there was not enough room. The bus struck head on. In the crash that followed, the automobile was smashed to splinters and the bus turned over.

Mr. McCarthy, Miss Slaven and the three nuns were killed instantly.

The Glenn Dale rescue squad treated the injured colored persons who had been passengers in the bus.

The violence of the impact was indicated by the fact that splinters from the McCarthy sedan were found 30 feet from the scene of the crash.

The five victims were taken to Gasch's funeral home in Hyattsville. The nuns had no marks of identification in their robes, and consequently several hours passed before they were identified.

Identification finally was made by three nuns from the Holy Cross Academy—Mother Superior Rose Elizabeth, Sister Madeleine and Sister Emerentia.

The daughters of Mr. McCarthy were both graduates of the Notre Dame Academy in this city. Sister Mary Bernard recently had come from Holy Cross Academy, which is connected with Notre Dame in Indiana, and plans had been made to give a party in her honor last night.

The ice cream and cake already had been ordered.

Surviving members of the McCarthy family are Margaret, Mary, Agnes and John McCarthy, jr.

Miss Mary McCarthy already was bowed by grief when she learned that her father and two sisters had been killed. The day before her employer, Lucian Vandoren, prominent lawyer and World War hero, had died of a heart attack. She was his secretary.

Miss Slaven's brother, J. E. Slaven, is secretary to the general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad.

The five colored occupants of the bus, who were treated at Casualty Hospital for bruises and minor lacerations are Sophorinia King, 52; his daughter, Louise, 32, and Beatrice Harvey, 21, all of 2202 Virginia avenue northwest; Louise Thomas, 37, 2309 Virginia avenue northwest, and Alberta Mason, 40, 834 New Hampshire avenue northwest.

Mile-long police lines will be formed early Thursday morning on highways leading to the cemetery. Details of police will guard the memorial funeral services at Hollywood Bowl, where more than 20,000 are expected to gather for rites conducted by film leaders.

Only 75 intimate friends and relatives will be admitted to the private services at 2 p. m. at Forest Lawn. A special guard of 40 noncommissioned Army fliers, four commissioned officers and four flying cadets from March Field, Calif., will attend the funeral.

There will be no "honorary pallbearers." Mrs. Rogers tonight wired Oscar Lawlor, friend of the actor in charge of arrangements, that the funeral was to be "simple and brief."

Never has the film colony been so bowed in grief at the passing of one of its own.

Mary Pickford has planned a memorial service in Beverley Hills, "second home town" of the actor. A fourth service will be held at the California International Exposition at San Diego.

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Baptist pastor and life-long friend of the actor, will deliver the funeral eulogy.

By the United Press.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 20. Wiley Post's body was flown back to Oklahoma City today for a public funeral.

The body was taken from a curtained transport plane, while motorcycle policemen held back a crowd of 1,500 which came to the airport.

The funeral cortege passed through streets topped by flags at half staff. The body will be taken to three separate ceremonies.

Memorial services will be conducted at the Landmark Baptist Church at Maysville, tomorrow, for Post's family and home town friends.

Thursday morning, the body will lie in state in the capitol here with a military guard of honor. Gov. E. W. Marland will eulogize Post and a chaplain will read a prayer for him.

Final rites will be conducted in the First Baptist Church in Maysville, Thursday afternoon. Interment may be in the Arlington National Cemetery, if Post's family accepts a Government offer. Otherwise, the burial will be in the Maysville Cemetery.

The body will be placed in an Oklahoma City mausoleum, pending a decision.

The funeral plane was escorted to the airport by another plane, piloted by Roy Hunt. Hunt continued to circle over the airport as Pilot William A. Winston, of Brownsville, Tex., taxied the funeral plane into a hangar. With him was Joe Crosson, famous Alaskan aviator, who will serve as one of Post's pallbearers.

The flight from Los Angeles was made in 7 hours 56 minutes.

Cyclone Lashes Bay of Naples Towns; 5 Dead

Torrential Rains Submerge Resort Homes; Scores Are Injured.

By the United Press.

Naples, (Wednesday), Aug. 21.—A terrific cyclone struck Castellammare di Stabia early today. Five persons were known dead after the first check-up and scores injured.

Castellammare di Stabia is on the southeast side of the Bay of Naples. Its mineral springs and pleasant climate attract many visitors, some of whom were believed victims of the cyclone.

Torrential rains flooded the River Cannetiello and normally dry water courses which swept downhill upon the city, engulfing many streets, particularly around the railroad station and roads toward Naples.

Water in many sections was 7 feet deep. Electric service was crippled, hampering firemen, Fascist militia and sailors from the local shipyards, who sought to aid the injured and recover the bodies of the dead.

Authorities feared the death list would be increased when they were able to enter flooded houses.

Damage was estimated at several million lire.

Tornado Hits Minnesota

By the Associated Press.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 20.—Farm buildings were wrecked, railroad tracks washed out and crops ruined by a tornado and torrential rain in Minnesota today.

The tornado cut a quarter-mile swath south of Elrosa, demolishing farm buildings, leveling crops and destroying communication lines. No one was injured.

A 6-inch rainfall and strong wind at Paynesville ruined cornfields and washed out railroad tracks. Summer cottages at Lake Koronis were swept away by high water.

North and South Dakota were drenched with heavy rain. The temperature fell rapidly.

Bandits Loot Store Of $60,000 in Gems

By the Associated Press.

Boston, Aug. 20.—Two bandits, armed with a machine gun, today held up a clerk in the Hodgson Kennard jewelry store and escaped with ten trays of rubies, emeralds and diamonds, the value of which was estimated by E. W. Hodgson, a member of the firm, at $60,000.

Police said two men who remained outside the store, drove away in the machine with the hold-up men.

One of the two men who entered the store threatened Montgomery C. Reed, of Dover, a clerk, with a machine gun. He was ordered to turn over the trays, which one of the men dumped into a canvas bag as they fled.

The same firm's branch store in Magnolia was robbed July 6, 1934, when jewelery valued at more than $300,000 was stolen.

Twins Honor Memory Of Post and Rogers

Plains, Ga., Aug. 20 (AP).—Twin sons born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Smith two days prior to the recent Alaskan tragedy have been named Will Rogers and Wiley Post in honor of the beloved comedian and courageous flier.

The twins were born Wednesday. The father is a traveling grocery salesman.

Searchers Fail To Find Plane's Ruins or Bodies

Wyoming Rancher Had Reported Seeing Three Dead in Wreck.

By the Associated Press.

Glendo, Wyo., Aug. 20.—Fifty men searched Laramie Peak today without finding wreckage of an Indianapolis airplane which Capt. George Smith, of the Wyoming State highway patrol, reported this morning was discovered by a rancher.

Some of the searchers reached a spot on the peak where Smith said he had sighted the wreckage from a chartered plane. They found only a wide swath in the trees and Smith said he might have been mistaken as to the location.

Four other parties were hunting the missing ship and its occupants. Burnside Smith, Indianapolis business man; Dick Arnett, Indianapolis Airport manager, and Arnett's 23-year-old bride, the former Eleanor Clark.

Rancher Sees Bodies.

Capt. Smith had reported he believed he had located the wreckage in a flight over the peak with Bob Burgeson, commercial air line pilot.

Smith landed at Wheatland, Wyo., telephoned Gov. Leslie A. Miller and then organized a searching party.

Before he left Wheatland a rancher telephoned that he and several other men, also seeking the ship, had found its remnants and the bodies on the northeast face of the two-mile mountain that rises abruptly on the eastern Wyoming plains.

The rancher informed Smith he had inspected the wreck and saw three bodies.

"It is about eight miles through awful rough country," the rancher told Smith. "You will have to bring out the bodies and the wreckage on foot. You can not get horses up there."

Doctor on Scene.

Dr. A. C. Arnett, of Lafayette, Ind., father of Pilot Arnett, arrived in Glendo by plane as the discovery of the wreckage was announced.

Another searching party was headed by Walter Higley, Denver aviator and friend of Arnett.

The plane, en route from Helena, Mont., to Denver last Thursday, got off the course in a terrific storm Thursday night that caused regular passenger planes on the Denver-Billings, Mont., to turn back to Casper, Wyo. The ship was only about 30 miles west of the course and apparently struck the mountain almost at full speed, the rancher who found the remnants of it said.

Motor Forces Reduce Army's Days to Hours

Maneuvers in N. Y. Amaze Veteran Observers of U. S. Strength.

By the Associated Press.

Pine Camp, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Maneuvering against an unseen "enemy" with spectacular speed, the First Division of the Regular Army today showed high staff command officers and distinguished military observers from foreign powers that mechanization has converted days into hours for America's fighting forces.

The "Iron" Division, mobilized as the first division to be completely motor-mechanized, tested the mechanical progress made by the American Army since the World War and found that it could reach an enemy 24 miles away and force him into a battle in an hour and a half. Unmechanized troops could not have accomplished that in a day and a half, Army officers said.

Officers Amazed.

The officers confessed their astonishment at the performance of the motor-mechanized forces. Advance estimates of the time necessary to meet the "enemy" 24 miles from the division's camp at Gates Corners were from 6 to 8 hours.

They watched the column of troop-loaded trucks, armored cars, tanks, machine guns and motor-drawn field artillery speed over the road.

A check of the Second Brigade showed that its 1,500 men passed a given point in 5½ minutes. Previously it would have taken 3½ hours.

The brigade made 30 miles an hour instead of the old speed of 2½ miles an hour and only took up 4½ miles of road space instead of 9 miles.

War Conditions Prevail.

For the purpose of controlling the march, the mechanized division was given a mission of defeating a force of troops of a neighboring enemy state. This was done so that the first part of the column would have to be halted from time to time as they met detachments of the enemy, thus giving observers a clear picture of the war time control of mechanized troops.

War conditions prevailed. Umpires ruled that groups along the road shelled by theoretical gas shells were out of the combat. Engineer detachments sent out to demolish bridges were wiped out, and commanders made disposition of what they would have done with their troops.

Terminating the fleet concentration period, the United States Fleet will arrive at San Diego Friday from San Francisco. As the fleet arrives, an aerial parade of approximately 400 naval planes will be reviewed by Admiral Joseph Mason Reeves, U. S. N., commander in chief of the United States Fleet, from his flagship, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania.

The planes, of various types and sizes, representing all aircraft units of the fleet, have been concentrated at Naval Air Station, San Diego, for two months, under direct command of Vice Admiral Henry V. Butler.

Taxes Will Claim ¼ of Rogers' Estate

$1,716,000 Must Be Paid if Legacy Is $5,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Inheritance taxes will take approximately one-fourth of the estimated $2,500,000 estate left by Will Rogers, State interitance tax officials estimated today.

If the estate reaches a $5,000,000 valuation, as some of the late humorist's close friends believe, taxes will take $1,716,000 of the total. This would include $397,200 for the State, the remainder going to the Federal Government.

Officials pointed out these figures were based on the belief the widow would get the entire estate and on the present Federal and State tax rates.

Taxes on a $2,500,000 estate would total $646,600, of which $142,800 would go to the State of California.

The assessed valuation of the real and personal property owned in Los Angeles County by the late actor, including his large ranch near Santa Monica, is $226,440.

Friends of Rogers estimated he had earned $3,500,000 in motion pictures in the last eight years. No estimate was made on his income from his writings and other sources.

Eight Leap Into Bay From Sinking Yacht

By the Associated Press.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 20.—Seven men and a woman leaped into fog-shrouded Buzzards Bay today from their sinking yacht, made their way across the rocks to forbidding West Island, and ten hours later were rescued by a Coast Guard boat.

Their 54-foot cabin cruiser, Poldy, en route from Boston to New York, hit the rocks near the island at about 3 a. m. Aboard her were Ralph Nottebaum, of Short Hills, N. J., vice president and general sales manager of the Noxon Co., New York; his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nottebaum, jr., of Chestnut Hill, Mass.; another son, Edward Nottebaum, of Short Hills; Jack Simon, of Dorchester, Mass.; John Nowelsky, jr., of Irvington, N. J., and two professional seamen. None was injured.

Harlan County Indicts Leader Of Guardsmen

Adj. Gen. Denhardt Was in Charge of Units at Kentucky Polls.

By the Associated Press.

Harlan, Ky., Aug. 20.—Adjt. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, who led 700 State troops into Harlan County during the August primary controversy, and 25 other National Guard and State police officers were indicted here today.

Criminal contempt of Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert's order restraining the bringing in of troops was charged against Gen. Denhardt. Charges against the other officers included stopping of voting in some precincts and handling of ballots without authority.

The Denhardt indictment was returned this morning and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued. Copies were ordered sent to Frankfort and Louisville. The indictments against the other officers, voted late today, were drawn up by Commonwealth's Attorney Daniel Boone Smith for presentation to Judge Gilbert tomorrow.

Gen. Denhardt had been ordered to appear before the grand jury today to be questioned. He had charged that a plot had been hatched to "steal" the Harlan County vote for Lieut. Gov. A. B. Chandler from Thomas S. Rhea in the Democratic gubernatorial primary August 3. Gen. Denhardt announced he brought the troops here to supervise the voting.

The grand jury adjourned for the day without the adjutant general having presented himself. At his Frankfort office it was reported he had gone to Fort Knox, but officers at the United States Army training camp there said he had left.

No bond was indorsed on the bench warrant for the head of the Kentucky National Guard, and Commonwealth's Attorney Smith said the law requires that no bond be allowed a person so indicted. The penalty upon conviction is a jail term, its length being in "the discretion" of the trial jury. Gov. Ruby Laffoon, who issued the executive order sending in the troops, can not under the law pardon one convicted of violating a circuit court's restraining order, but the conviction may be appealed.

The indictment against Denhardt charged he "unlawfully, improperly, corruptly and in utter contempt of Harlan Circuit Court and its authority, and in obstruction of justice, did assume and exercise authority to and did order and direct various and numerous units and members of Kentucky National Guard into Harlan County" on the day of the primary.

Zionist Congress Opens at Lucerne

President Voices Plea for United People.

By the Associated Press.

Lucerne, Switzerland, Aug. 20.—A plea for unity among Zionists was made tonight by Dr. Nahum Sokolow, president, in the keynote address formally opening sessions of the nineteenth World Zionist Congress.

So large was attendance that two halls were necessary. Many delegates consider it the most critical congress yet held because of the situation of Jews in Germany and the work in Palestine.

The executive council proposed that Dr. Chaim Weizmann be named president and no other candidate was named. The council also decided to enlarge the agenda by having Dr. Stephen S. Wise, of New York, deliver an address on the Jewish position throughout the world, prior to opening of general debate.

Vitamin E Isolated, Chemical Society Told

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Isolation of Vitamin E, the food factor which controls the reproduction of life, was reported today to the American Chemical Society.

Opening the way for the cure of sterility, the successful experiments were detailed to the convention by Prof. H. M. Evans, discoverer of the vitamin, and his two research associates at the University of California.

World's Biggest Wash Machine Will Launder Colorado River

$1,000,000 Contract to Clean Muddy Stream Is Awarded.

By the Associated Press.

Westport, Conn., Aug. 20.—The contract for the biggest washing machine job in the world, cleansing 75 per cent of the Colorado River's daily average flow for irrigation in California, was signed today by the Dorr Co., Inc.

The washing machine, which works on the principle of the family tub, will be built at the Imperial Dam now under construction near Yuma, Ariz. This river, one of the muddiest in the world, will be washed by 72 clarifiers, each 125 feet long.

They will be set, 12 each, in six settling basins, each of the latter 769 feet long and 269 feet wide. The water will take an hour to an hour and a half to flow through these basins.

The clarifiers, which look like miniature swing bridges, will revolve on their centers at 13 minutes per turn, scraping the depositing silt into wells.

They will wash a daily flow equivalent to one-twentieth of Niagara Falls. This is enough water to cover 24,000 acres 1 foot deep in a day, and enough to irrigate an area about one-fourth the fertile Nile Delta.

The washing arms will remove up to 70,000 tons of silt a day, enough to fill 1,400 gondola cars, and enough to build the Pyramid Cheops in 50 days.

This is 78 per cent of the estimated silt carried by the water. It is all the heavier stuff, which if allowed to run into the irrigation project would deposit in the canals and require constant dredging.

The water will be diverted into the All-American Canal to irrigate the Imperial and the Coachella valleys. The canal is 210 miles long, ending in 1,700 miles of lateral ditches.

The washing plant will cost less than $1,00,000 under the contract. Its operation is largely automatic, with a daily horse-power estimate of 378. Against this the Dorr Co. states that for irrigation projects already in use Imperial Valley farmers have spent $1,400,000 annually on dredging.

The project is under the Bureau of Reclamation of the Department of the Interior. Under present plans canal, dam and all the works will be completed in two years at a cost of about $38,500,000.

Trading Deals In PWA, WPA Ordered Ended

President's Advisers Put Quietus on Methods Used by States.

By the Associated Press.

The work relief high command yesterday acted to prevent States and municipalities from further shopping back and forth between the offerings of Harry L. Hopkins and Harold L. Ickes.

The President's Advisory Committee ruled that once an application has been filed for a 45 per cent PWA donation it can not be transferred without Ickes' consent, to Hopkins' larger Works Progress Administration—where terms are easier. Coincidentally, September 16 was fixed as a deadline for PWA applications.

A recent incident involving Frederick, Md., where a resigned WPA State administrator advised withdrawal of the PWA application so as to get a two-thirds gift from Hopkins, precipitated the ruling.

(Editor's note: The official referred to was John N. Mackall, WPA administrator for Maryland, who resigned two weeks ago as result of the controversy over the State's works program.)

At its meeting yesterday the advisory committee also recommended allotments totaling $111,282,159, including $84,495,263 for WPA projects and $3,278,696 to PWA.

In further efforts to make sure that at least $500,000,000 of work relief funds—compared with an authorized $900,000,000—will be accepted on non-Federal PWA projects, the committee decided that if a community able to do so refused to put up the 55 per cent necessary, no other work relief funds would be available.

Despite a recent order by President Roosevelt giving PWA jurisdiction over most construction projects over $25,000, applications had lagged because of efforts to obtain easier WPA terms.

Dreary Outpost Is Prized Key To African War

French Somaliland Port Awakes to Headlines; Arms Impounded.

By the Associated Press.

Bjibouti, French Somaliland, Aug. 20.—This blazing-hot Red Sea port, capital of French Somaliland, suddenly has become one of the most important towns in the East. It is the only door land-locked Ethiopia has to the sea.

Only a few months ago a bleak, dreary outpost of rock and sand on the torrid Red Sea, with a population of a few thousand native Somali tribesmen, French colonial officials and black troops, Dfiibouti today is choked with thousands of refugees from Ethiopia. There are also many foreign newspapermen and photographers, munitions and airplane salesmen, and thousands of French colored troops hurriedly summoned from Madagascar and other points to protect French interests in Ethiopia and French Somaliland in case Premier Mussolini carries out his threat to conquer Ethiopia.

But to an American the most striking features are the huge quantities of firearms, munitions, motor trucks and other war material destined for Ethiopia and held up by the French governor general here upon orders from Paris. From his stronghold in the mountains of Addis Ababa, Emperor Haile Selassie is crying for these war supplies to enable him to face Mussolini and his tens of thousands of Black Shirts.

Hope for Peace.

The French authorities here have informed the Emperor all war material intended for Ethiopia and Italy has been held up so as to give a chance to the peacemakers at Geneva, Paris, London and Rome to avert actual war by offering Mussolini a compromise. The Emperor is said now to have only 10,000,000 rounds of cartridges, which would allow only 20 rounds each for an army of 500,000 men.

Capt. Kenneth B. Collings, veteran American aviator, who fought in the American Army air forces in Haiti, Nicaragua and elsewhere, has arrived here and may offer his services to the Emperor of Ethiopia as an instructor in flying.

Postal Workers Open Conclave In Florida City

D. C. Man Is Candidate for Editor in 3-Cornered Race Today.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 20.—Following a rousing welcome by Mayor J. T. Alsop, Postmaster D. W. Jones and representatives of citizens and business organizations, the National Alliance of Postal Employes, in four-day session here, heard reports today from President Jerry O. Gilliam, of Norfolk, and Secretary Sydney M. Jackson, of Washington, both of whom will have no opposition to succeed themselves in office.

Inspector E. D. Jones, representative of Postmaster General James A. Farley and substitute for First Assistant Postmaster General Howes, congratulated colored postal employes for proficiency developed in the service. E. L. Ford, of St. Louis, replied that the colored employes now receive better treatment in the department than at any time within the past 35 years.

The treasurer's and secretary's reports showed assets of $47,000, and 100 per cent membership increase in the past biennial period. Gilliam urged closer co-operation between postoffice men and education agencies, so that colored boys and girls might become interested in the service and maintain the proportion of racial employment therein. Methods were outlined by him for restoration of colored employes to the office of assistant chief clerk in the offices of the Second and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.

Trezzvant Anderson, of Washington, will participate tomorrow in a spirited election for editor, running against J. B. Brown, of St. Louis, and Percy Hines, of Chicago.

H. C. Stewert Dies On Trip to Norway

Former Geographic Society Auditor Was 73.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Henry Clay Stewert, of the Connecticut Apartments, Connecticut avenue and M street, in the Red Cross Hospital at Trondheim, Norway, whence he had gone on a vacation.

Mr. Stewert, 73 years old, was an auditor of the National Geographic Society and a director of the National Savings & Trust Co. He retired 10 years ago, and spent most of his time traveling. His fatal illness began seven weeks ago, when he was on a voyage to Iceland with his wife.

A native of Washington, Mr. Stewert was a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1884, and president of the Princeton Alumni Club here. He also was a member of the Chevy Chase and Metropolitan Clubs.

His widow, Mrs. Mirah Ross Stewert, survives.

W. H. Cordell Rites Arranged Today

Funeral services for William H. Cordell, 74, will be held today at 2 p. m. at his home at 602 Thayer avenue, Silver Spring, Md. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Cordell, who was in the contracting business in Washington for many years, died Monday at Homeopathic Hospital. He had been in ill health for over a year.

A native of Franklin County, Pa., Mr. Cordell came to Washington 50 years ago and in 1925 moved to Silver Spring with his family. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lucy J. Cordell, and the following sons and daughters: Bertha A. and William E. Cordell, of Washington, and Talmadge R. Cordell, J. Paul Cordell and Mrs. J. H. Timmons, all of Silver Spring. Three sisters, Mrs. James Bryan, Mrs. Joseph Newell and Miss Georgia Cordell, all of Baltimore, also survive.

Vandoren Rites Are Set Today At St. Thomas'

Pallbearers to Include Prominent Friends of Attorney.

Funeral services for Lucian Vandoren, prominent lawyer, chairman of the District Boxing Commission and World War hero, will be held today at 9 a. m. at St. Thomas' Catholic Church. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Vandoren died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Alice Vandoren, at 2726 Connecticut avenue, of a heart attack. He had been suffering from the excessive heat and the effects of poison gas inhaled during his service with the Marine Corps in France in 1918.

Honorary pallbearers for Mr. Vandoren will be H. Winship Wheatley, William E. Leahy, Col. Clifton Cates, Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, Fred Buchholz, George D. Horning, jr., James C. Wilkes, John H. Burnett, Jerome C. Barnard, Harold Marsh, Paul E. Leah and Joseph A. Rafferty.

Honorary pallbearers representing the District Bar Association, of which Mr. Vandoren was a former vice president and director, will include Justice Adkins, W. W. Millan, Henry A. Schweinhaut, Francis W. Hill, District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett and John E. Laskey.

Active pallbearers will be Maj. Harvey L. Miller, Lieut. Comdr. Don S. Knowlton, Maj. Chauncey G. Parker, jr., Capt. Ralph B. DeWitt, Lieut. Wilfred J. Serpas and Lieut. William J. Burrows.

Italy to Attend League Council Parley Sept. 4

'Dynamic Military Policy' Will Be Demanded to Aid Her in Africa.

Copyright, 1935, by the United Press.

Rome, Aug. 20.—Italy will attend the September League council meeting and demand that Geneva view the Italo-Ethiopian difficulty "in the light of a more dynamic military policy," it was reported tonight.

Premier Benito Mussolini's delegate will remain firm in his position that the covenant and treaties already have been violated and that hence Italy must reserve freedom of military action.

Il Duce's League policy was revealed within 48 hours after collapse of the three-power Paris peace conference — throwing next international action to prevent war into the Geneva council, due to meet September 4.

Gold Reserves Cut.

The revelation followed closely disclosure that mounting war costs already have begun to make an appreciable cut into Italy's gold reserves. The weekly condition statement of the Bank of Italy showed a drop in gold reserves of more than $16,000,000 during the week ended August 10.

Since there has been no free movement of gold since the lira was stabilized during 1926-27, there is little doubt that the metal is being used abroad to purchase foreign exchange for payment for war materials.

The ratio of reserves to combined note circulation and sight liabilities on August 10 was shown to be 36.7 per cent, compared with 37.9 in the week ended July 31. Mussolini foresaw the heavy war drain and on July 23 suspended the regulation requiring 42 per cent gold backing of the lira.

The Bank of Italy statement revealed that gold stock on hand August 10 totaled 5,057,034,000 lire ($415,182,491), against 5,257,634,000 lira ($431,651,751) on July 31.

Note Circulation Up.

Note circulation in the period increased to 13,941,489,000 lire ($1,144,596,000) from 13,856,153,000 lire ($1,137,590,000), while the aritio of gold stock to note circulation fell to 36.27 from 38.66.

Foreign balances were 362,205,000 lire ($29,737,000) against 356,416,000 lire ($29,179,000) and total sight liabilities 818,657,000 lire ($67,211,000), compared with 929,455,000 lire ($76,308,255).

The war department decided to permit foreign correspondents to attend the maneuvers of 500,000 troops in the Alps next month.

A decree was published increasing the personnel of the air force to 500 officers, 1,800 noncommissioned officers and 10,988 privates.

Anne Arundel Gets $100,000 Old Taxes

Third of Properties on Sale List Are Saved.

By the Associated Press.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 20.—Approxiamtely 1,000 of the 3,056 pieces of Anne Arundel County property recently advertised for sale because of delinquent taxes had been struck from the list today through the owners meeting their tax payments.

C. Albert Hodges, former county treasurer, first advertised the properties on August 8 for taxes delinquent in 1934 and prior years. The sale will be held October 14.

Ever since the first advertisement appeared property owners have been crowding Hodges desk in the courthouse, checking up on their bills and paying them off. Hodges said that more than $100,000 had been collected.

Reich Pondering Catholics' Future

the conference secret all public addresses were cancelled. During previous years various bishops spoke daily in public.

Extraordinary secrecy apparently was desired to avoid irritating the Nazis and because a pastoral letter after last year's conference was forbidden when Nazis discovered the contents before publication.

Leaders of various Catholic organizations, especially youth societies, arrived, indicating the problem created by Nazi dissolution of Catholic youth groups is one of the principal ones the bishops are debating. These leaders are waiting to be called before the conference.

The church, it was said, is not fighting national socialism as such, but more especially the pagan faith movement led by Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi philosophic dictator.

His books have been proscribed by the Vatican.

Another important topic is expected to be the concordat with the Reich, which church leaders have charged the Nazi government with violating.

Warsaw, Aug. 20 (U.P.).—Mrs. R. H. S. Stevenson, several times British woman chess champion, was killed today when she walked into the propeller of an airplane at Posen Airport. She was en route from Berlin to Warsaw to participate in the women's chess championships, starting tomorrow.

Full Text of Senate War Neutrality Resolution

Text of the resolution agreed upon yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to assure the neutrality of the United States in the event war breaks out abroad was as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that upon the outbreak or during the progress of war between, or among two or more foreign states, the President shall proclaim such fact—and it shall thereafter be unlawful to export arms, ammunition, or implements of war from any place in the United States, or possessions of the United States, to any port of such belligerent states or to any neutral port for transhipment to, or for the use of, a belligerent country.

The President, by proclamation, shall definitely enumerate the arms, ammunition or implements of war the export of which is prohibited by this act.

The President may, from time to time, by proclamation, extend such embargo upon the export of arms, ammunition or implements of war to other states as and when they may become involved in such war.

Heavy Penalties Fixed.

Whoever in violation of any of the provisions of this section, shall export, or attempt to export, or cause to be exported arms, ammunition, or implements of war from the United States, or any of its possessions, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both, and the property, vessel, or vehicle containing the same shall be subject to the provisions of section 128, inclusive, title 6, chapter 30 of the act approved June 15, 1917 40 Stat. 223-225 (title 22, sections 238-245, inclusive U. S. C.).

In the case of the forfeiture of any arms, ammunition or implements of war by reason of a violation of this act, no public or private sale shall be required, but such arms, ammunition or implements of war shall be delivered to the Secretary of War for such use or disposal thereof as shall be approved by the President of the United States.

When in the judgment of the President the conditions which have caused him to issue his proclamation have ceased to exist he shall revoke the same and the provisions thereof shall thereupon cease to apply.

Arms Control Board.

Section 2. That for the purpose of this act:

(A) The term "board" means he National Munitions Control Board, which is hereby established to carry out the provisions of this act. The board shall consist of the Secretary of State, who shall be chairman and executive officer of the board; the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of Commerce, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, or some member of each committee whom the chairmen of the respective committees may designate. Except as otherwise provided in this act or by any other law, the administration of this act is vested in the Department of Sate.

(b) The term United States," when used in a geographical sense includes the several States and territories, the insular possessions of the United States (including the Philippine Islands) the canal zone and the District of Columbia:

(c) The term "person" includes a partnership, company, association or corporation, as well as a natural person.

Dealer Registration.

Within 90 days after the effective date of this act, or upon first engaging in business, every person who engages in the business of manufacturing, exporting or importing any of the arms, ammunitions and implements of war referred to in this act, whether as an exporter, importer, manufacturer, or dealer, shall register with the Secretary of State his name, or business name, principal place of business, and places of business in the United States, and a list of the arms, ammunition, and implements of war, which he manufactures, imports, or exports.

Every person required to register under this section shall notify the Secretary of State of any change in the arms, ammunition and implements of war which he exports, imports or manufactures, and upon such notification the Secretary of State shall issue to such person an amended certificate of registration, free of charge, which shall remain valid until the date of expiration of the original certificate.

Every person required to register under the provisions of this section shall pay a registration fee of $500 and upon receipt of such fee the Secretary of State shall issue a registration certificate valid for five years, which shall be renewable for further periods of five years upon the payment for each renewal of a fee of $500.

It shall be unlawful for any person to export, or attempt to export, from the United States any of the arms, ammunition, or implements of war referred to in this act to any other country, or to import, or attempt to import, to the United States from any other country any of the arms, ammunition, or implements of war referred to in this act without first having obtained a license therefor.

Reports to Congress.

Licenses shall be issued to persons who have registered as provided for, except in cases of export or import licenses where exportation of arms, ammunition, or implements of war would be in violation of this act or any other law of the United States, or of a treaty to which the United States is a party, in which cases such licenses shall not be issued.

The board shall be called by the chairman and shall hold at least one meeting a year.

SENATOR NYE, leader in the neutrality legislation fight.

No purchase of arms, ammunition, and implements of war shall be made on behalf of the United States by any officers, executive department, or independent establishment of the Government from any person who shall have failed to register under the provisions of this act.

The board shall make an annual report to Congress, copies of which shall be distributed as are other reports transmitted to Congress. Such reports shall contain such information and data collected by the board as may be considered of value in the determination of questions connected with the control of trade in arms, ammunition, and implements of war. It shall include a list of all persons required to register under the provisions of this act, and full information concerning the licenses issued hereunder.

Embargo on Vessels.

The Secretary of State shall promulgate such rules and regulations with regard to the enforcement of this section as he may deem necessary to carry out its provisions.

Sec. 3. Whenever the President shall issue the proclamation provided for in section 1 of this act, thereafter it shall be unlawful for any American vessel to carry any arms, ammunition, or implements of war to any port of the belligerent countries named in such proclamation as being at war, or to any neutral port for transhipment to, or for use of, a belligerent country.

Whoever in violation of the provisions of this section shall take, attempt to take, or shall authorize, hire or solicit another to take any such vessel carrying such cargo out of port or from the jurisdiction of the United States, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both; and, in addition, such vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture, equipment, and the arms, ammunition, and implements of war on board shall be forfeited to the United States.

When the President finds the conditions which have caused him to issue his proclamation have ceased to exist, he shall revoke his proclamation, and the provisions of this section shall thereupon cease to apply.

Bonding of Arms Ships.

Section 4. Whenever, during any war in which the United States is neutral, the President, or any person thereunto authorized by him, shall have cause to believe that any vessel, domestic or foreign, whether requiring clearance or not, is about to carry out of a port of the United States, or its possessions, men or fuel, arms, ammunition, implements of war or other supplies, to any warship, tender or supply ship of a foreign belligerent nation, but the evidence is not deemed sufficient to justify forbidding the departure of the vessel as provided for by section 1, Title V, Chapter 30 of the act approved June 15, 1917, 40 Stat. (Title 18, section 31, U. S. C.) and if, in the President's judgment such action will serve to maintain peace between the United States and foreign nations, or to protect the commercial interests of the United States and its citizens, or to promote the security of the United States, he shall have the power and it shall be his duty to require the owner, master, or other person in command thereof, before departing from a port of the United States, or any of its possessions, for a foreign port, to give bond to the United States, with sufficient securities, in such amount as he shall deem proper, conditioned that the vessel will not deliver the men or the cargo, or any part thereof, to any warship, tender or supply ship of a belligerent nation; and, if the President, or any person thereunto authorized by him, shall find that a vessel, domestic or foreign, in a port of the United States, or one of its possessions, has previously cleared from such port during such war and delivered its cargo or any part thereunto to a warship, tender or supply ship of a belligerent nation, he may prohibit the departure of such vessel during the duration of the war.

Curb on Submarines.

Section 5. Whenever, during any war in which the United States is neutral, the President shall find that special restrictions placed on the use of the ports and territorial waters of the United States, or of its possessions, by the submarines of a foreign nation will serve to maintain peace between the United States and foreign nations, or to protect the commercial interests of the United States and its citizens, or to promote the security of the United States, and shall make proclamation thereof, it shall thereafter be unlawful for any such submarine to enter a port or the territorial waters of the United States or any of its possessions, or to depart therefrom, except under such conditions and subject to such limitations as the President may prescribe. When, in his judgment, the conditions which have caused him to issue his proclamation have ceased to exist, he shall revoke his proclamation and the provisions of this section shall thereupon cease to apply.

Section 6. Whenever, during any war in which the United States is neutral, the President shall find that the maintenance of peace between the United States and foreign nations, or the protection of the lives of citizens of the United States, or the protection of the commercial interests of the United States and its citizens, or the security of the United States, requires that the American citizens should refrain from traveling as passengers on the vessels of any belligerent nation, he shall so proclaim, and thereafter no citizen of the United States shall travel on any vessel of any belligerent nation except at his own risk, unless in accordance with such rules and regulations as the President prescribes; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to a citizen traveling on the vessel of a belligerent whose voyage was begun in advance of the date of the President's proclamation, and who had no opportunity to discontinue his voyage after that date, and provided further that they shall not apply under 90 days after the date of the President's proclamation to a citizen returning from a foreign country to the United States or to any of its possessions. When, in the President's judgment, the conditions which have caused him to issue his proclamation have ceased to exist, he shall revoke his proclamation and the provisions of this section shall thereupon cease to apply.

Restricted Invalidation.

Section 7. In every case of the violation of any of the provisions of this act where a specific penalty is not herein provided, such violator or violators upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

Section 8. If any of the provisions of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

Section 9. The sum of $20,000 is hereby authorized to be appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated to be expended by the Secretary of State in administering this act.

Pacifists Seek Boycott by U. S. Against Italy

By the United Press.

New York, Aug. 20.—A committee of American pacifists and friends of Ethiopia, claiming support of 28 American pacifist and religious organizations, was formed tonight to combat Mussolini's proposed invasion of Ethiopia and attempt to persuade the United States to declare an economic boycott against Italy.

Unofficially directed by Consul General John H. Shaw, sole Ethiopian representative in this country, the committee will send three delegates to Washington tomorrow to begin immediate lobbying for the boycott.

The delegates were confident they could obtain passage of a congressional measure giving the President discretionary power to declare an embargo if war begins, despite announcement of a Senatorial filibuster.

The group will consist of Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, chairman of the new "American Committee on the Ethiopian Crisis" and educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund; Dr. Sydney E. Goldstein, chairman of the commission of social justice of the North Central Conference of American Rabbis, and Dr. George E. Haynes.

Simultaneously the League of Nations Association, claiming a paid membership of 10,000, lined up against Italy. National Director M. Eichelberger announced the association was attempting to obtain congressional action to allow an American delegate to sit with the League Council next month when it makes final attempts o stop Mussolini.

tion projects affecting Egypt and Sudan are under way there.

In addition to mapping strategy for the League council session, the cabinet is expected to raise the ban on arms shipments to Ethiopia and vote on a proposal to strengthen forces in adjacent British colonies. Sikh troops are expected to be sent to guard the British legation at Addis Ababa.

Economic Ban Weighed

By the Associated Press.

London, Aug. 20.—Great Britain's foreign experts, an authoritative source indicated tonight, have agreed to recommend to the cabinet Thursday adoption of proposals for economic sanctions by members of the League of Nations against Italy if she fights Ethiopia.

This far-reaching decision, it was said, was reached by Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations' affairs.

Joint economic and financial sanctions would prevent goods, cash and credit from reaching Italy.

Smaller powers and France, it was said, would support the British government should it urge Geneva to adopt this course.

Italian Challenge Seen.

If the League fails to act, Britain must then determine upon its own unilateral steps in the face of what it regards as an Italian challenge of England's prestige and dominance of the Mediterranean and Africa.

After Hoare and Eden conferred in the stuffy foreign office, there was every indication the government is trying to postpone the fateful day when it may have to face a decision of a unilateral character in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

If League powers do not agree to follow the program mapped by Britain, then the whole crisis will be dumped back into London's lap.

Ethiopians to Fight Sham Battle Today as Emperor Seeks Loan

Ruler Pushes Defense Measures; Caches of Food and Arms Placed All Over Country; Ready Money Problem Becomes Acute.

By the Associated Press.

Addis Ababa, Aug. 20.—Emperor Haile Selassie, thin and careworn, rapidly pressed defensive measures today against a possible Italian invasion.

He ordered foodstuffs and munitions deposited at strategic points throughout the country and forbade the army to draw upon the population, which is impoverished.

To demonstrate the efficiency of the newly trained Ethiopian soldiers, a sham battle will be staged tomorrow near the imperial palace under the direction of the emperor. Reports from the interior said natives are becoming restive because Haile Selassie continues to work for peace instead of starting hostilities.

The National Banking Society, which is French, dispatched all its hides, skins and other stocks to Djibouti, French Somaliland, for safekeeping. Insurance companies increased their war risk insurance rates and accepted risks only for three months. The National Bank imposed severe restrictions on money leaving the country.

Ethiopia Seeks Loan.

Paris, Aug. 20 (U.P.).—Following breakdown of the three-power peace conference, Ethiopia tonight redoubled her efforts to find a loan in European markets.

The efforts appeared to be meeting with indifferent success as Ethiopia never has established an international financial position. The black empire has no budget and its wealth is concentrated in the treasury of the emperor and native princes.

So far Emperor Haile Selassie has paid his bills with gold, supposedly from the once fabulously rich mines of King Solomon. Other sources of revenue for Haile Selassie are the regional rases, or princes. There is no fixed system of tribute or taxation, but when the emperor feels his treasure is running low, he summons the leaders to him. By tradition each must donate a gift worthy of his station. If the ras is stingy the emperor keeps him at court until the prince decides his station warrants an additional contribution.

Weddings, coronations and anniversaries are a fertile source of revenue. They call for a special tax called "backchick."

Little Ready Money.

The country possesses little ready money. It still uses a minted thaler bearing the portrait of the eighteenth-century Austrian Empress Maria Theresa because the natives like it. There are 40,000,000 Maria Theresa thalers in circulation. There also were coined about 200,000 thaler bearing the portrait of the great King Menelik, but the blacks like Maria Theresa better and sell Menelik thaler at a discount.

Of course Ethiopia can offer development concessions in exchange for financial assistance, but history records most of these in the past as failures. The Imperial Company, backed by British capital, had a gold and platinum concession, but failed in 1896. The Abyssinian Corporation, British, capitalized for a million pounds, went bankrupt in 1920. A Belgian alcohol concession collapsed in 1925 with loss of 10,000,000 francs.

Only the Japanese have made anything out of Ethiopia. During the first six months of 1935 they sold 20,000,000 francs worth of cotton goods to Ethiopia and purchased 1,032,000 francs worth of coffee.

Haile Selassie holds one-fourth of stock of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railroad and might sell that for about 25,000,000 francs. But the cost of modern warfare comes high and Mussolini's Italian legions may have poverty as an ally.

2 Hurt in Plane Crash On Road to Recovery

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 20.—Leslie Patrick, pilot, and Luther Alpaugh, a passenger, both of Manassas, Va., who were seriously hurt when their plane crashed at Port Conway, Va., on August 11, are recovering in Mary Washington Hospital here.

Alpaugh, at first believed more critically hurt than Patrick, may recover before the latter, it was said. Alpaugh was hurt internally, called up Attorney General Homer Cummings to recommend Amos C. Crounse, of Arlington, according to the Associated Press. The delegation was headed by W. Thomas French, of Clarendon. Crounse is a practicing attorney at Arlington Courthouse. He lives at Lyon Village.

The delegation was the ninth to call upon the Attorney General, and at least one more is scheduled—a group to urge appointment of District Attorney Sterling Hutcheson in an engagement today.

Bone Filibuster For Neutrality Measure Wins

would be resumed. There were indications this threat would be carried out.

This surprising eleventh hour move to force action on neutrality legislation at this time came as State Department attaches were seriously disturbed at the turn which the Italo-Ethiopian controversy had taken. Many of them regarded the breakdown of the Paris tripartite conversations and Benito Mussolini's intransigeant attitude as precipitating a real crisis in world affairs.

Although the department's European experts were exploring every aspect of the situation, this Government's policy has not yet been determined. Three things, however, may be said regarding the activities of the State Department in reference to the Italo-Ethiopian affair.

The first is that this Government has not discussed with any power or its representatives the question of applying sanctions.

Secondly, the State Department is not giving serious thought at this time to invoking the Kellogg Peace Pact, because hostilities have not yet occurred.

Thirdly, this Government's approach to the question, if any action is taken at this time, would most likely to be an effort to give moral support to the League of Nations Council through the issuance of a statement containing strong language.

Neutrals Want Guarantees.

As the State Department struggled with the problem of deciding what this Government might do to prevent war and save the world's peace machinery, the Senate neutrality group turned to the realistic task of seeking a method of keeping this country out of the war when it comes.

For five weeks the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has worked on this thorny problem and a compromise measure was agreed on yesterday morning. At the time, however, it was regarded as doubtful that such legislation would be enacted in the few days remaining before the scheduled adjournment this week.

This was the situation until about 2 p. m. when Senator Homer T. Bone (Democrat), of Washington, suddenly stepped into the debate over the coal bill and gave notice that he intended to jam the legislative machinery until assurance was given that Congress would be given an opporeunity to vote on neutrality legislation.

At the same time Nye, off the Senate floor, echoed Bone's words while Senators Huey P. Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, Bennett C. Clark (Democrat), of Missouri, and Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, indicated they were fully sympathetic with such tactics to force neutrality action.

Bone Talks 3 Hours.

Bone talked for three nours. Robinson called attention to the action of the Foreign Relations Committee and outlined the proposals agreed on. But Bone would not yield. Finally word was sent to Chairman Key Pittman, of the Foreign Relations Committee, to get the neutrality measure before the Senate as quickly as possible.

Pittman and his associates on the committee worked unceasingly during the afternoon to draft the new measure, which he carried to the Senate floor late in the day. Although the neutrality bloc will be pleased if they can get action on the committee's compromise, many are not satisfied with its present form.

Grade Crossing End Is Urged In Montgomery

Kensington Overhead Is Plan of Board; Other Items Up.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 1111 Oak Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Elimination of the grade crossing at Kensington as soon as funds are available for the construction of an overhead bridge will be recommended in a letter to the Maryland State Roads Commission, it was decided yesterday by the Board of Montgomery County Commissioners at their weekly meeting in Rockville.

This action was taken at the request of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce, which has agitated for several years for this improvement. The Kensington crossing has been the scene of several fatalities.

This was the first item of a 12-point program presented to the commissioners by the chamber. Another point, the elimination of the nuisance created by abandoned street cars of the old Kensington Railway Co. at Norris Station, will be dealt with by a letter to R. H. Phillips, president of the company, requesting removal of the nuisance.

Other items in the program, except those which depend directly upon the construction of the overhead bridge, were referred to Commissioner Paul M. Coughlan for direct action.

Improvement of the most heavily traveled portions of Brickyard road, between Potomac and Conduit roads, near Potomac, was given tentative approval, provided that funds could be made available from the State Roads Commission in the fall.

A delegation of six from the Potomac Valley Citizens Association, requesting the improvement of Valley road and Potomac drive in Brookmont, said to be unsafe for traffic, were promised that cinders would be laid on Valley road and that Potomac drive would be studied by a roads engineer with a view to improvements.

A request that the Commissioners rebuild a long flight of steps comprising a "lane" between Ridge drive and Potomac drive to provide easy travel by pedestrians from the valley to Conduit road was denied the delegation, which was headed by Samuel G. Hamilton. C. W. Abernethy, president of the newly organized association, also was present.

The commissioners also voted to write the State roads commission requesting erection of a stop sign at the corner of River road and Falls road, at the request of F. J. Doering, of Potomac.

The board of supervisors of elections will consider installation of voting machines in Bethesda and Wheaton election districts Monday afternoon. Mrs. Clara Holmes is chairman of the board.

Policeman of Montgomery County will receive a week's vacation this summer as a result of action taken yesterday by the Board of Montgomery County Commissioners.

Mass for Mrs. Arline C. M. Pettis, 60, of Glen Echo Heights, Md., who died yesterday at her home, will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Our Lady of Victory Church, Conduit road. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

She is survived by 11 sons and daughters, all of Washington and vicinity.

Directors of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau yesterday adopted a resolution petitioning the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation to inquire into the reasons back of the resignation of Dr. Raymond A. Pearson as president of the University of Maryland.

According to J. W. Jones, president of the county farm bureau, the directors feel that Dr. Pearson was valuable to the agriculturists of the State and that some explanation of his resignation should be made.

Reuben Riggs, of Rockville, past president of the Rockville Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, addressed a meeting of the Germantown Grange last night at the Izaak Walton League Lodge at Violet's Lock, Md. Riggs asked that the grange back the league in its efforts to protect and feed the game in Montgomery County, stating that the league would do everything possible to restock the streams and fields with game.

Albert A. Ady, assistant county agent for Montgomery County, also addressed the meeting with reference to the Avian tuberculosis-control work which is being carried on in the county. James D. King, master of the Germantown Grange, presided.

With approximately 50 charter members, the Young Men's Democratic Club of Silver Springs, Md., organized two weeks ago and laid plans at a meeting Monday night for fall activities.

Nomination of officers will take place September 8, instead of the regular meeting date, which falls on Labor Day, with the election of permanent officers taking place at the following meeting. Temporary officers are James Heizer, president; W. Edwin Warfield, secretary, and Edward C. Holmead, treasurer.

Townley E. Gamble has been appointed chairman of a committee to submit designs for an emblem to the club. The group will meet alternate Mondays in Jesup Blair Community House, drawing its membership from the Thirteenth Election District, with the exception of Takoma Park. An age limit of 35 years has been set and the members must be registered Democrats.

Plans for development of the 45-acre strip of the Luke I. Wilson estate near Bethesda, donated to the Public Health Service for a $100,000 research laboratory, will be discussed at 8 p. m. today with the board of directors of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce at the County Building.

According to Dr. Lewis A. Thompson, assistant surgeon general, who will attend the meeting with Dr. R. E. Dyer, assistant director of the Public Health Service, the building is expected to be of two-story colonial fieldstone construction. It is expected to be ready for occupancy next summer.

Dr. Thompson added that later plans call for the possible construction of four other buildings on the property, so that a large proportion of the service's research work can be carried on at the Rockville pike property.

School Board Picks Principal For Jefferson

H. R. Richardson Appointed to Head Institution at Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU. 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Howard R. Richardson, of Waverly, Va., has been appointed principal of the Jefferson School, succeeding Robert W. Eaves, resigned to accept a position in the Washington schools. The appointment was announced yesterday by Superintendent T. C. Williams following a meeting of the school board.

Mr. Richardson, who will assume his new duties September 4, comes to Alexandria from Suffolk, Va., where he was principal of an elementry school, comparable in size to the Jefferson School. He is a graduate of William and Mary College, and has had six years of teaching experience.

The vacancy which has recently occurred in the Lee School, in the fourth grade, has been filled by the appointment of Mrs. Louise Goshen, of Alexandria, who has had four years of experience in this grade.

Julia E. Pritchett has been appointed principal of the new school for colored children, in the old remodeled silk mill, which was purchased and turned into a model and up-to-date school and will be opened for classes for the first time in September. There are 10 available classrooms in this building, which will relieve the congestion which has existed for several years in the Parker-Gray School. It will accommodate approximately 300 colored children, up to the sixth grade, living on the south side of Cameron street.

Aubrey Matter, grand marshal for the parade to be staged tonight advertising the donkey baseball game of the Alexandria Lions Club, for the charity fund, has announced the following line-up:

First, a police escort; next, the grand marshal and staff; the Alexandria American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps; Jack Doniphan and Louis De Moll, in a Paul Revere ride on donkeys; a comic section, and the last section will be the members of the Lions Club in automobiles, carrying red flares.

The game will be staged at 8:15 o'clock tomororw night, and will be attended by members of the Washington Lions Club, headed by Representative Hamilton Fish.

Man Held in Garage 47 Days By Partners in Arson Plot

Owners Hire Accomplice to Burn House, Then Imprison Him.

By the Associated Press.

Canonsburg, Pa., Aug. 20.—Pale and weak, Marco Jurcevich, 39, told police today how he had been held captive and half starved in a small sheet-metal garage for 47 days after firing a house in an arson plot.

The man, who lives in Columbus, Ohio, was rescued from the stifling hot garge-prison last night. He was so weak that it was not until today that he could tell his story, implicating Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kuervich, 40, of Hendersonville, a few miles from this Washington County town.

Assistant State Fire Marshal F. P. McCallister, of the State police, quoted the man as confessing that the Kuervichs persuaded him to burn their home for $200. He said he set it afire on the night of July 4 while the family was in a nearby town.

Jurcevich was further quoted by McAlister as saying that when he asked for his money Kuervich led him to the garage, and locked him in. The fire marshal said the man told him:

"They said they were just holding me there until they got the insurance money for the house. Then they said they were going to kill me."

The place was insured for $5,500. The insurance company became suspicious over the fire, which also destroyed the adjoining home of Mrs. Mary Godish, a widow with seven children.

Police started an investigation which culminated with the discovery of the prisoner last night.

McAllister said Kuervich and his wife admitted the story was true.

The three were given a hearing before Squire Morgan McClelland, of Washington, Pa., on arson charges this afternoon. They were held for the fall term of court, and committed to jail.

Stout Teacher Takes Job Battle to Court

New York, Aug. 20 (U.P.).—Rose Freistater, 5-feet-2, 180 pounds, and 26, today forsook reducing exercises for the law courts in her fight to teach school here.

The board of education considers her too "ungainly" to teach Manhattan kids.

All summer, at a resort near Ithaca, she rode a horse three times a week, played tennis and hiked 8 to 10 miles a day, she said. And she still weighs 180 solid pounds.

So today she hired Harry Mabel, an attorney, to take her case to court.

"I'm not going to ruin my health trying to get thin," she said.

Stanley R. Morgan Promoted by Army

Radio Operator Recovered Bodies of Rogers, Post.

The promotion of Technical Sergt. Stanley R. Morgan, Signal Corps radio operator stationed at Point Barrow, who recovered the bodies of Wiley Post and Will Rogers following the airplane accident last Friday, was announced at the War Department yesterday.

Sergt. Morgan will become a master sergeant, the highest noncommissioned grade in the Army. A native of Utah, Morgan is 35 years old. He has been in the Army 15 years. Six months ago he was commended when an influenza epidemic struck Point Barrow. Although infected with the disease, he remained at his radio post summoning aid, which came by dog sled.

After seven years in the Far North Morgan has earned a year's leave. It is expected that he will return to Seattle next month. He has requested reassignment to Point Barrow on the expiration of his vacation.

Man Held as Forger.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fairmont W. Va., Aug. 20.—Charged with forgery in Preston County and also in Garrett County, Md., Herman Billmeyer is under arrest here, and will be returned to Kingwood to be arraigned on a warrant issued on complaint of James F. Hamilton. Officers say Billmeyer served part of a 10-year penitentiary sentence and is now on parole.

Jahncke Buys Tract.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 20.—Ernest L. Jahncke, assistant secretary of the Navy under President Herbert Hoover, has purchased a 66-acre tract of mountain land from the estate of the late Lancelot Jacques, sr., of this city and is having erected a large log cabin. The Jahncke land adjoins that owned by Lawrence Richey, secretary to former President Hoover, at Catoctin Furnace, Frederick County, Md.

Fatal Auto Crash Holds Girl Driver

Capital Resident Accused of Recklessness.

Vivian Chapman, 20, of 526 Somerset place northwest, was charged with reckless driving by Hyattsville police last night in connection with an auto accident Monday night in which Charles Kenneth DeMarr, 18, of Berwyn, Md., was fatally injured.

Three machines figured in the accident, the car in which DeMarr was riding with Amos M. Bagley, 20, of Berwyn, turning over three times.

Miss Chapman, driver of one of the machines, was released on $1,000 bond. Howard Snyder, operator of the third auto, and Bagley posted $500 each for appearance at an inquest August 26.

DeMarr was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. DeMarr. Services will be held in the Gasch funeral home in Hyattsville tomorrow at 1 p. m. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Labor Relations Board Asks Strike Arbitration

By the Associated Press.

Arbitration of differences in the three-week strike at the Pelzer Manufacturing Co., at Pelzer, S. C., was proposed yesterday by the Textile Labor Relations Board to the mill's management and the United Textile Workers Union local there.

In a telegram to J. F. Blackmon, mill superintendent, and Paul Ross, head of the Pelzer local, the board suggested the strike be called off immediately, with all strikers except those who have been charged with unlawful violence returning to work in their former positions.

County Parley Of Arlington's G. O. P. Slated

Convention Tuesday Night With Delegate Naming Planned Monday.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington County Republican committee announces that the county convention will be held next Tuesday night at the Lyon Park Community House to select candidates for county offices to be elected at the November election.

According to County Chairman Grayson Ahalt, the convention will consist of one delegate for each 50 votes cast for President in 1932.

The number of delegates to be selected from each of the eleven precincts are as follows:

Arlington, 8; Ballston, 6; Carne, 5; Cherrydale, 6; Clarendon, No. 1, 5; Clarendon, No. 2, 8; East Falls Church, 2; Glencarlyn, 2; Lyon Park, 6; Rosslyn, 4 and Virginia Highlands, 5. A like number of alternates will be selected.

Precinct chairmen have been directed to call mass meetings to name delegates and alternates.

The meetings will be held next Monday night at the following places:

Arlington, the community house; Ballston, J. T. Myers store; Crane, Ruby Lee Minar's real estate office; Cherrydale, J. R. McCormick's store; Clarendon, No. 1, C. W. Clever Building; Clarendon, No. 2, the Moose Hall; East Falls Church, O. J. Channer's real estate office; Lyon Park, the community house; Rosslyn, Bryan Gordon's law offices; Glencarlyn, the Library building, and Virginia Highlands, the firehouse.

Starting a year ago with installation of the $2,500,000 county-wide sewerage system, reports from the office of the county manager reveal that there have been 4 of the 18 contracts completed and rapid progress is being made on the remaining 14.

Those sections where the lines have been completed include Barcroft, Alcova Heights, South Lyon Park, Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills.

It is estimated that the remaining 14 contracts will be completed within the next 12 months.

On September 11 bids will be received for construction of the disposal plant to be located at Four Mile Run; three lift stations along Military road in Cherrydale and a force main in connection with the lift stations.

In addition to the sewer contracts to be opened on September 11 others for resurfacing of approximately 60 miles of county roads, along which sewers have been installed, are due.

Action on all of these contracts is expected by the county board at its meeting on September 14.

The Arlington Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting will be held tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Treasure Hunt Backers Freed By Grand Jury

Use of Socialite's Name Brings Arrest of Ticket Sellers.

The District grand jury yesterday freed Philip Schoenberg and Alvin Reiss, who were arrested last week in connection with the operation of the "Grand National Treasure Hunt" when police raided an office in I street northwest, where the name of Mrs. Oliver Harriman, New York social registerite, was found on the door.

In a special report to Justice Jesse C. Adkins, the jury reported an "ignoramus" against the pair. Maj. Thomas G. Lamphier, noted war pilot and a member of the executive committee of the National Conference for Legalizing Lotteries, said Schoenberg and Reiss were without authority to use Mrs. Harriman's name.

Mrs. Harriman is president of the lotteries conference. Maj. Lamphier said Schoenberg and Reiss were ticket salesmen.

In arresting Schoenberg and Reiss, police seized a large quantity of tickets which entitled purchasers to enter a contest to select the most appropriate titles for eight cartoons. The tickets also would entitle the holder to admission to the Grand View Amusement Park, Singac, N. J.

The treasure hunt was advertised as a benefit for American charities. Its backers claimed to have $35,000 on deposit in a New York bank to pay off contest winners.

Those indicted by the grand jury yesterday were:

Joseph H. Taylor and Frank R. Kulick, joy riding; John Sturtevant, housebreaking; Lee Bryant, Arthur Bayne, Thomas Hardy, Albert Davis and Douglas Walker, housebreaking and larceny; Clarence Swint and Floyd J. Robinson, grand larceny; Claude Jefferson, John Jones, James Haines and James Pierce, robbery; William Harmon, assault with a dangerous weapon; Odith Turner, William Peace and Frank Studwood, second-degree murder, and Clayton B. Sherwood, violation of section 833, D. C. code.

Those the grand jury ignored charges against were: Monroe Harbin and Glen W. Knighton, joy-riding; Joseph Butler and John H. Quinn, grand larceny; Allen Malloy, assault with a dangerous weapon; Walter Newton, assault with a dangerous weapon, and Phillip Shoenberg and Alvin Reiss, violation of section 863, D. C. code.

Piston displacement vs. Armur Kolinsky and marcasite or why can't a woman buy a USED CAR

Why is it that men feel so smugly confident that the knowledge of automobile terms is beyond the comprehension of "mere" woman?
In her every day shopping women find it necessary to familiarize themselves with such terms as "Armur Kolinsky"—"Marcasite"—the "influence of the Rennaisance"—"oil tempered coil springs" and thousands of others that they have mastered through the constant reading of the advertising columns of The Post and National magazines.
The same diligent shopping of the USED CAR advertising on the page opposite the comics, in the classified section of The Post, will give you a speaking acquaintance with what a 1932 Packard should cost, and why it is a good buy at the price it is advertised.
Make a daily habit of shopping the page opposite the comics—

Chamber Head Lists Chairmen Of Trade Units

Fairfax Committee Leaders to Name Members of Commerce Groups.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-M.

Wirt Ferguson, newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County, Va., has appointed committee chairmen for the year, each chairman to name the other members of the committees.

William J. Cleveland of Seminary is chairman of the finance committee; John W. Brookfield, of Springfield, zoning committee; Wells A. Sherman, of McLean, agricultural committee; Joseph M. Patterson, of Franklin Park, public utilities; Herbert Williams, of Vienna, education; C. H. Powell, of Baileys Cross Roads, highways; Mrs. J. E. Staub, of Burke, membership; Thomas P. Chapman, jr., of Fairfax, publicity, and Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, program.

W. J. Cleveland and J. T. Blincoe, of Burke, were named a special auditing committee and Martin T. Webb, of Annandale, was named chairman of the special committee to co-operate with citizens and organizations of Arlington County in connection with the completion of the Lee boulevard. Each of the committees will take charge of at least one of the monthly meetings during the year.

The September meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the proposed school building program, and the question of borrowing funds for the construction of new school buildings. W. T. Woodson, county superintendent of schools, will be the principal speaker and explain the program as proposed by the county school board.

The Improvement Association of Merrefield plans to conduct an investigation of the rates charged for electric current in that section of Fairfax County, as compared with other sections of the State and surrounding States. At the next meeting a schedule of the rates charged for the various classes of electric service in that section will be considered.

Celebrating the installation of all new equipment in the kitchen of the community hall, the association will hold a community supper Friday night in the hall for members and their families only.

A total of 310 deeds, deeds of trust and contracts were recorded during that month, which is an increase of 104 over July, 1934. It is also 4 more than were recorded in June of this year.

Beginning this year the clerk's office had 163 recordations in January and the number has steadily increased each month, which has been classed as an unusual situation. In February 170 papers were recorded, in March 240, in April 254, in May 285 and in June 306. May of 1934 was the highest of the first seven months of that year, when 218 papers were recorded.

It is reported that building activities throughout the county are running high with each section reporting new construction work, indicating that real estate transactions will continue to climb. An unusually large number of small farm sales have been reported.

Harrisonburg's Chief of Police Taken by Death

Frank L. Dovel, 58, Headed Force for 23 Years; Leaves 7 Children.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 20.—Frank L. Dovel, 58, chief of police of Harrisonburg for 23 years and a member of the force since 1903, died this morning at his home here of heart disease. His condition had been critical since a stroke of paralysis last Saturday.

Chief Dovel was widely known among Virginia Elks. He was past exalted ruler of the Harrisonburg lodge, an active committeeman for years, and a delegate to several national conventions. For years as city charity officer he was in charge of the Elks' charity fund.

A native of Alma, Page County, Chief Dovel came to Harrisonburg 33 years ago. He is survived by his wife and seven children, all of Harrisonburg. Funeral services will be conducted at the Presbyterian Church at 3 p. m. Thursday. Interment will be in Woodbine, with services in charge of Elks. Harrisonburg policemen will act as pallbearers.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Mercersburg, Pa., Aug. 20.—Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow for Charles W. McLaughlin, 60, hotel owner here, who died Monday after an extended illness. Services will be in charge of the Rev. J. G. Rose, with interment in Fairview Cemetery.

McLaughlin operated the Hotel Mercer here for many years and was an active Republican in this section.

He is survived by the widow, and the following children: Dr. J. S. McLaughlin, at home; Mrs. George B. Stoner, Washington, D. C.; J. M. McLaughlin and Tad L. McLaughlin, of Mercersburg; two brothers, W. H. McLaughlin, Greencastle and E. F. McLaughlin, Waynesboro, and a sister, Mrs. William Eley, Quincy, Pa.

Dr. Irvine Stith.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 20.—Funeral services for Dr. Irvine Stith, Blackstone dentist, who died at Petersburg Hospital Sunday night, were conducted at Blackstone this afternoon by the Rev. John B. Winn. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Meade Stith, of Blackstone, and a hister, Mrs. E. F. MaGee, of Danville.

Mrs. Nannie R. Logan.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Nannie R. Logan, 70, died Sunday evening of heart disease while riding in an automobile near Hollywood.

She had been spending summers in Hollywood for a number of years. Her body was sent to her home in Baltimore for burial.

Henry T. Barncord.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 20.—Funeral services for Henry Thomas Barncord, 40, of Corriganville, a Western Maryland Railway employe, who was killed Saturday when struck by a passenger train, were conducted this afternoon at the home, with interment in Rose Hill Cemetery.

In addition to the widow, Mrs. Olive Barncord, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Price Barncord, of Corriganville, and by the following brothers and sisters: Norman, in Montana; Raymond of Corriganville; Mrs. Della Hausman, of Connellsville, Pa.; Mrs. Katherine Dobbin, Miss Freda Barncord of Denver, Col., and Francis Barncord, at home.

Jerry M. Ballard.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 20.—Jerry M. Ballard, 75, widely known farmer and orchardist of Crozet, was buried this afternoon in the cemetery at Mount Moriah Methodist Church, at White Hall. Services were conducted at the Crozet Methodist Church, by the Rev. F. O. Briggs.

The widow survives with two sons, Broaddus and Homer Ballard, both of Crozet. He also leaves three brothers, Charles F. Ballard, of Crozet; W. S. Ballard, of Baltimore, and W. P. Ballard, of Ivy, and one sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Moss, of this city.

Thomas H. Phalen.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 20.—Thomas H. Phalen, 74, retired Baltimore & Ohio Railroad conductor, who as a youth helped build the Valley Railroad between Harrisonburg and Lexington, died at his home here yesterday afternoon after several years of ill-health.

Capt. Phalen was retired in 1929 after having served as conductor on the Harrisonburg - Lexington branch of the railroad since 1896. He previously served on the Brunswick, Md., division.

Surviving are: William L. and Thomas P. Phalen, Harrisonburg; John J. Phalen, Lexington; Timothy B. Phalen, Strasburg; Daniel M. and James A. Phalen, Harrisonburg; Robert F. Phalen, Strasburg; Mrs. A. M. Brown, Harrisonburg, and Misses Annie and Ella Phalen and Mrs. Marcella Reamer, at home, and one sister, Mrs. Maria Kenny, Brunswick, Md.

Years ago, when thousands of bison roamed the West, naturalists frequently found these usually timid animals engaged in savage fights with other beasts. They discovered that the herds were battling over possession of salt licks to which instinct led them for elements absolutely essential to animal life.

He'd fight ANYTHING for what's in Budweiser

For nearly three quarters of a century, the world has acclaimed BUDWEISER as the very finest of beer—wholesome, smooth, sensible and sociable.

Brewed from Nature's choicest ingredients by flawless methods, BUDWEISER retains those natural elements absolutely essential to life and health. Among them are potassium, magnesium, sodium and calcium in the form of alkaline salts—and they're in every bottle of BUDWEISER you drink.

When people perspire freely they lose these salts. When the loss is too great, severe fatigue and even heat exhaustion may result. To replace these elements, nothing is more essential than a balanced diet. Top it off with wholesome BUDWEISER!

At The Watergate.

Weather permitting, a notable experiment will reach a triumphant outcome tonight, when Dr. Hans Kindler steps on the podium to conduct the last of the summer concerts of the National Symphony Orchestra. Undertaken with high hopes that the music lovers of Washington would welcome their first opportunity to enjoy symphonic programs in the open air during the torrid season, the series of twelve concerts has proved successful beyond the utmost expectations of the sponsoring association. The public response, overtaxing the generous seating capacity, has set at rest all doubts regarding the musical appreciation of the National Capital.

No other urban site for orchestral concerts of a similar nature can rival the symbolical significance which the Watergate affords. Audiences gathered on the bank of the historic Potomac sit at the base of the stately memorial to Abraham Lincoln and face the Virginia hill where stands the former home of Robert E. Lee. Rich in associations of the past, the location is eminently fitted for concerts by an orchestra which represents not only the cultural growth of the City of Washington, but also the Union of the States in an indivisible Nation. No more suitable spot could be found for the promulgation of that American music to which it is to be hoped that many future "Sunset Symphonies" will be devoted.

The summer concerts have demonstrated afresh the notable development of the National Symphony under the guidance of Dr. Kindler. During the current series it has undergone the severe test of playing under seven guest conductors, and adapting itself to their differing personalities and methods of direction. To pass such a test competently requires a firmly integrated organization and a strong esprit de corps. That the National Symphony, only four years of age, should have come through with flying colors is a matter for congratulation to all concerned.

In the programs offered, a high standard of quality has been maintained. But it may be suggested that the standard has been possibly a little too high, considering all circumstances. Listening attentively to music of major import, or unfamiliar background, demands a degree of concentration difficult to attain when the chief desire is for restful recreation. That is the mood which midsummer days in Washington develop, and which the "Sunset Symphonies" have done much to encourage, both pleasurably and healthfully.

The Right To Death.

News of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman would have attracted widespread attention even had she not taken her own life. She was an outstanding citizen, one noted for her long devotion to women's suffrage and to industrial and social problems. The fact that she deliberately chose suicide rather than to impose herself as a burden on family and friends, coupled with the remarkable rationalization of her action, testifies to the fine selflessness and clear direction of her thinking.

"Human life consists in mutual service," she wrote. "No grief, pain, misfortune or 'broken heart' is excuse for cutting off one's life while any power of service remains." Her own life, she was persuaded, had reached the end of its utility. It was, then, the "simplest of human rights" for her to choose a "quick and easy death in place of a slow and horrible one." Thus she preferred chloroform to cancer. Abstractly, it is impeccable logic.

But to exercise an objectivity sufficient to enable one to evaluate one's precise worth to society demands a degree of intellectual integrity reserved for the very few, of which Mrs. Gilman was one. Last year in this country some 18,000 persons died by their own hands. This was somewhat lower than the record for any year since 1928, leading statisticians to conclude that the psychological disturbances of the depression are on the wane. Yet it can not be that each of these 18,000 was competent to judge his own "power of service." In the majority of cases it is probable that death was sought in a hysterical and altogether unnecessary effort to escape from the specters of a mind temporarily deranged.

Mrs. Gilman looked forward to the day when the public would view suicide in a more sympathetic light. Far more heartening if she had been able to predict from her careful observation the coming of a breed of men that would not brook the thought of self-destruction.

Democracy Vs. Dictatorship.

It is insufficiently realized that in every major test which the League of Nations has confronted the challenge to its authority has come from a dictatorship.

The result to date has been that two of the principal autocracies—Japan and Germany—have withdrawn from the organization which has sought, however feebly, to exercise a collective control over their individual wills. A third autocracy, that of Italy, is now obviously ready to sever all connections with Geneva. And the only apparent exception—Russia—really proves the rule. For the Soviet dictatorship, which for years reviled the whole theory behind the League experiment, has taken membership therein primarily because it sees at Geneva useful support against its chief potential enemies: the dictatorships of Germany and Japan.

Every student of the origins and development of the League knows that this cleavage between democracies and dictatorships, now thrown rudely to the foreground by Mussolini, is no accidental matter.

From the outset of the Paris negotiations which framed the Covenant, President Wilson urged that acceptance of the principle of popular self-government should be a prerequisite for membership in the League. "The express recognition of the principles of democracy should find place in the Covenant," he told the Peace Conference Commission on the League of Nations. The eventual decision made mere self-government—instead of popular self-government—the criterion of League membership. But there is no doubt that Mr. Wilson correctly anticipated the difficulties which would arise from trying to force democracies and dictatorships into a single political setting.

The reason for these difficulties is not far to seek. Much more than the untried device of sanctions, public opinion was relied upon as the League's chief weapon by those who drafted its Covenant. Under a dictatorship, however, there is no such thing as public opinion. The Italian people today know little or nothing of the world reaction to the arbitrary policy of Il Duce. They live in a fool's paradise of blaring nationalism from which only unconcealable national disaster can bring them back to earth. Few Italians have any realization that Mussolini is threatening the entire structure of civilization. All they are told is that their leader is re-creating for them the grandeur that was Rome.

Public opinion has ceased to exist as a check against an aggressive dictatorship. So the League, originally designed as a grouping of co-operative democracies, is now forced to consider the dangerous recourse of sanctions, provided in its Covenant but heretofore never employed. Not merely individual national interests, but ultimately the very existence of the democratic form of government, are at stake if the individual dictator is to be allowed to go on playing fast and loose with a fragile international order. Realization of this explains why France, reluctantly but inevitably, is lining up with Great Britain to bring effective pressure upon Italy. It explains why the foreign ministers of those stalwart Baltic democracies—Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden—are meeting on Sunday to formulate a common policy in support of the League.

One great democracy, and only one, will have no official voice in the historic showdown now shaping up between these two antagonistic systems of government. But while free from the commitments of the Covenant, and determined not to be embroiled in the territorial rivalries of Europe, there is no doubt where American sympathies lie in the fundamental issue. As it becomes clear that the basic test is whether the principles of dictatorships shall ride roughshod over those of democracies there will be no question of the side of the scales into which America's weight will be thrown.

The crisis launched by Mussolini has evolved slowly. Its most acute stage is not yet here and there is no occasion for the Administration to take any action before the evolving situation clarifies further. Only one obvious step is necessary before the Congress adjourns. That is prompt passage of legislation akin to the McReynolds resolution, authorizing the President to take various steps designed to keep the United States out of war, but permitting the Administration a flexibility of procedure and a degree of discretion without which no intelligent policy can be formulated in time of crisis.

Such legislation, which the Senate yesterday properly discussed ahead of everything else, should be mandatory in establishing neutrality as our general policy. But, in view of the unpredictable future, it must leave to administrative discretion a selection of methods which may well involve co-operation with other democracies to the extent that such co-operation can be effective in preserving world peace.

A Discreditable Chapter.

Inspector Headley's application for retirement is welcome as the closing chapter in the so-called "gentlemen's agreement." For many years the inspector has rendered valuable service to the Police Department. It is therefore doubly unfortunate that the closing years of his career should have been clouded by political scheming which was—in the language of the Crime Committee report—"to say the least, prejudical to the best interests of the department."

The only extenuating circumstances in Mr. Headley's elevation to the post of assistant superintendent, after the high-pressure tactics of Congressman Blanton in his behalf had been exposed, was the reported understanding that he would retire at the end of this month. The inspector's resort to political influence and his evasiveness before the Crime Committee are a demoralizing influence upon the force so long as he continues in a position of high responsibility. By terminating his active service the Commissioners will not wipe out the effect of their acquiescence in the "gentlemen's agreement." But they can write finis to a discreditable chapter in the history of the Metropolitan Police.

Mr. Headley's intimation that he would like to continue in active service should be given no weight. He may consider himself extremely fortunate to be retiring with the extra compensation resulting from the substitution of a reward for the Crime Committee's justified censure. The best the Commissioners can do now is to carry out their former intention of abolishing the post of assistant superintendent of police, so that this sinecure will offer no inducement for invoking further political pressure.

Having Learned Nothing.

In its dash toward adjournment Congress has adopted a new railroad pensions bill which violates the basic principle on which the entire social security act rests. A carelessly drafted measure on this subject was enacted under high-pressure methods last year, only to be invalidated by the Supreme Court. Apparently Congress has learned nothing of value from that experience. Some precautions have been taken to avoid another adverse court decision, but the new bill is a dangerous encroachment upon the most important legislation passed at the current session.

Before finally accepting the social security act, leaders on Capitol Hill debated for weeks over the Clark amendment, designed to preserve private pension systems. The Senate finally accepted the measure without this provision, but Senator Harrison announced that a study will be made with the object of securing an amendment at the next session. As the law now stands employers would be required to participate in the national old-age pensions system without regard for any private annuity plans they may have built up.

In spite of this decision, Congress has now voted to set up a special pensions system for railway employes. Our legislators are not willing to permit private retirement plans already in existence to continue functioning—even under supervision of the Social Security Board. But they have illogically exempted railroad workers from the national plan and provided special old-age benefits for a single industry.

This flagrant disregard for consistency might be overlooked, except for the adverse effect of this bill both upon the railroads and the social security program. The reason for establishing a Nation-wide system of annuities was to bring about the widest possible pooling of risks. In this way strong, growing industries will help to carry the burden of pensions for industries that can not themselves afford this luxury. With all other employers included within the national system, it is utterly unfair to impose a special burden upon the railroads. If this measure were to become a precedent, it would undermine the very basis of the social security program.

Moreover, the form in which the bill passed is acknowledgement of its weakness in another respect. Pensions would be paid out of a $50,000,000 Treasury appropriation. A separate tax measure designed to raise the necessary fund is still pending in the Ways and Means Committee, with little chance of enactment at this session. There is some question as to its constitutionality. Yet unless that or a similar bill is passed before the pensions proposal takes effect, annuities for railroad employes would come directly from taxes, present or future.

It is significant that the Administration advised against any attempt to patch up the invalidated railroad pensions act at this session. Now, to avoid another serious blunder, the President has no alternative to use of his veto power.

Register another triumph for those who maintain that heredity is more significant than environment. Our front page reports that the President's son has been caught in a speed-trap.

Such a result leaves no doubt as to the weariness of the British people with war. It explains the unprecedented devotion of the British government to the League of Nations in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, and the extremes to which the British government has been going, almost single-handed, to move Mussolini from his determination.

No Mourning.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
I read in the papers that the "Nation is mourning the death of Will Rogers." I do not think this would be a bit pleasing to Will. I think he'd a lot rather know that they were indulging in a good hearty laugh over something he has said.

Can't you just hear him saying, "Fellers, if you want to mourn over somethin' dead jus' mourn over the Senate. I ain't dead—why, I passed through death so quick I didn't feel it. Why, death ain't nothin' to be skeered of—it can't hurt you!"

Will is all right and he knows now and has always known a lot more than "what he reads in the papers."

Neglected Music.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
In taking to task such a fine musician as Mme. Yolanda Mero for not having eliminated hackneyed programs from the series of broadcasts under her direction, Ray C. B. Brown's open letter published in The Post of August 18 is thought-provoking and challenging.

Here then is the challenge: radio listeners who are real music lovers would most assuredly like to hear some of the unknown scores out of "our immense heritage from the past and the output of composers still living," to quote from your critic's letter. Works abound in every period of musical literature that never reach the ears of the public, and I imagine that the majority of living composers—American composers, at least—find it next to impossible to have an opus played. With our first-rate orchestras loath to perform novelties and our only lyric stage almost bankrupt, how is the talented composer of today to get a hearing?

The radio could not only introduce new compositions to the public but also widen the musical culture of the Nation at the same time. It is my suggestion that one or two hours a week be devoted by broadcasting stations having staff orchestras to what Mr. Brown so aptly terms "neglected music."

Theory And Practice Of Relief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
In his first thoughts on the militant program advocated by the "Fighting Transient," Philip McCray expressed a wavering perplexity. But now his doubts are resolved. He voices definitely, in his rejoinder to my previous comment, his rejection of their policy. And, lest his criticism be taken amiss, he is anxious to make known his profound sympathy for the plight of the unemployed.

In all deference to your correspondent's apparent sincerity, it must nevertheless be stated that sympathy, like the lavish promises of demagogues, is as ineffectual as it is cheap. Beleaguered heads of families on relief have not yet, to my knowledge, succeeded in persuading hard-headed landlords and merchants to accept sympathy in lieu of cold cash. The bitter problem of mass unemployment will ultimately be settled, not on those calm heights where Mr. McCray's charitable sentiments sit enthroned, but rather, in the embattled sphere of political and economic struggle.

But Mr. McCray deprecates struggle. He counsels, instead, a patience and resignation worthy of the early Christian martyrs. He "does not propose," like the "Fighting Transient," "to strike for higher wages or yell for a better job." This, he thinks, is introducing a new idea in labor relations. It is. It is so old and forgotten that only people of Mr. McCray's cherubic innocence are ready to take it for new again. The veriest tyro in the history of industrial legislation knows that the existing statutes designed to temper and humanize the exploitation of labor were achieved only after fierce and unremitting struggle. The legal limitation of the working day in England, and later in Czarist Russia, came about as a result of strikes and disorders among the workers. If he is content with the microscopic compensation which he says he now receives, he owes a debt of thanks to the protesting proletariat who have kept it from being still less.

The intensive rationalization of industry in a contracting world market makes Mr. McCray's hoped-for return of prosperity and increasing employment a fantastic illusion. It is this which demonstrates the growing incapacity of the employing class to provide jobs for workers. These latter are therefore obliged to turn, in ever greater numbers to the Federal Government for succor. And notwithstanding the $28,000,000,000 debt which is causing your correspondent so much insomnia, the Administration can bring forth this succor. The growing pauperization of the population is inexcusable in a land whose natural riches permit the highest material and cultural standards.

JULIUS DAVIDSON.
Washington, Aug. 18.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
In his letter of August 15 Philip McCray naively persists in the illusion that relief is temporary; yes, even when Government officials and social workers are beginning to realize that it is a permanent feature of our decrepit economic system—one growing all the time.

We know as well as McCray the meaning and implication of the word "relief." Says he (and many shortsighted social workers) "it cannot be expected to be permanent or fully adequate."

That is it exactly. We are tired with relief as defined by McCray. Long enough have we lived like cattle. At 3 Canal street in an old warehouse 350 men sleep in double-deck cots all on the same floor. On warm nights the odor of human bodies is enough to knock you over. Violation of health rules by crowding the sleeping quarters is admitted by the relief officials. But they are powerless.

McCray claims he got a job after being unemployed two months; he admits he gets little more than WPA subsistence wages. No doubt somebody left that job or got fired because of the low wages. There are many men on relief who could go out and scab, thus breaking down wage levels and purchasing power, and drive us all into slavery.

Plenty Of "Gimme" Boys.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
Replying to Gov. Talmadge's letter, from Georgia, in regard to President Roosevelt's Administration, he says the "gimme" boys are about the only supporters the Administration has left. I want to tell Mr. Talmadge that we will have millions of those "gimme" boys in 1936 and there will be enough of them in South Carolina to sweep that State for President Roosevelt just the same as they will in his own State.

What we want in this country is prosperity and if the people as a whole would back up this man we have in the White House, we would soon have prosperity back in this Nation.

Mr. Talmadge knows good and well what the poor people of his own State were getting for their produce in 1930, 1931 and 1932—hogs selling for 3 cents per pound, and cotton 3 and 4 cents per pound. Just look at the difference in the price today—hogs selling for 12 cents per pound and cotton selling for 12 cents per pound. Well, what caused the big difference in the price from 1931 and 1932 up to 1935? It all came about by the way President Roosevelt has handled the affairs of this Nation.

If the NRA could have been carried on today we would not have these corporations lengthening hours and cutting wages, trying to drive the poor people back to the days of 1931. I say if it takes changing the Constitution to carry out such organizations as the NRA, let's have it. I think Mr. Roosevelt ought to be nominated in 1936. He is a great man. W. L. MADDOX.

Appreciation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
We in the Department of Playgrounds have the habit of looking to The Post for discriminating and intelligent interpretation of our playgrounds and the objectives of our recreational program.

I want especially to thank you for the good article in The Post of Sunday, August 18, Section VIII, "D. C. Children Ask Places for Play," by Raymond D. Beauchamp. The author has recognized the values of much that is being done and has given a fresh and convincing presentation of the argument for improvement of our recreational facilities.

This is one of many effective articles and editorials which The Post has contributed to the drive for additional play opportunities and leadership. In behalf of our Washington boys and girls, thanks to The Post.

Peace Suggestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
Wars are probably often due to nationalistic pride and governmental fear regarding economic prospects of citizens. Most plans and decisions for wars are made by men unlearned and without long experience in producing and selling necessities and conveniences of life. They are not qualified to know right acts in economic crises as are the best merchants in England, France, Italy and here. Perhaps one of these or a group would contract for a specified state of prosperity in Italy if Mussolini agrees to follow advice given. Possibly Secretary Hull and his three embassies would be interested in this suggestion.

The Post Impressionist

AFTER ALL, WHICH WINS?

Post Office, Wednesday.

HAVE we indeed excited a bit of rancor by our recent comparison between the rewards of the revived William Dean Howells and the forgotten Hall Caine?

What we intended was merely to suggest a problem in literary values—to imply that there are both Howellses and Hal Caines writing today, and that their respective gains and losses are relatively the same.

In 1902, the lighter sort of "literary columns" were filled by interviews with popular authors in their highly decorative homes: Hall Caine had built his Manx palace through profits from "The Christian." Just then there trembled over the wires a little newspaper paragraph to the effect that Howells, after 40 years as the father of American realism, had secured enough money to buy a modest house in New York.

Henry James once said that if he hadn't come in for a small patrimony, he, for his part, would have starved to death in devoting himself to literature. There were then—there are now—more than a few Hall Caines who would undoubtedly have starved to death had they done the same thing. Instead, they wisely chose to write the books that they were best fitted to write.

We don't imply that their stories haven't a legitimate place in life. We don't mean that the Howellses, past or present, are flawless. But we do stress the point that, whereas the novels of the latter sort of writers are literature and the books of the former are not, the one type of writer requires two score years of hard work to approximate the reward which the former type gains by one year's writing and six months' exploitation. And we do intend to inquire whether it is by such comparisons that literary rewards are to be judged.

There are two kinds of popularity called, for the sake of ease, literary.

There is the popularity evolved along about 1891, whereby many novels have sold to the extent of 100,000 copies and more—a popularity in considering which, if we reckon upon only a 10 per cent royalty, we see what snug fortunes accrue to the writers.

And then there is the other popularity—the appreciation of the fewer and finer minds, the faithful and unfickle minds, whose taste is sane and sound from father to son, and to please whom means a steady though small sale for year after year.

To a second-hand bookshop, take a ten-year-old novel having that sort of popularity and see what, if it is in reasonably good physical condition, you will be offered for it.

Then take a book only twelve months' old from the pen, or machine, of one of those writers who pleased as Caine pleased. You will be told that it isn't wanted at all!

What, one wonders, becomes of such books? Nobody reads them a second time. Nobody buys them a year after their appearance. They are so dependent upon the freak of passing fashion as to seem utterly absurd, or to be utterly incomprehensible, to the succeeding generation. Whatever the author is to get out of them, for himself or his family, he must secure at once.

Well, is that more, you say, than the genuine artist gets out of his books in all his forty years of work.

It is. But the question still remains whether the genuine artist has not the advantage.

Whatever his rival may think, the conscientious artist will be sure of the answer.

We are speaking, of course, of the first-rate men—romantic, realistic, or what you will; the conscientious artists to whom their art is per se important—in contradistinction to those ephemeral writers whose names are most evident on the lists of ephemerally large sales; the writers who trim their canvas to monetary airs.

* * *

The first-rate man, never having set up money as an end, will be able to review his life's work at its close and derive, if not from the work's income, yet from the work itself an ultimate satisfaction. He will prefer to leave his children a name which will be long honored, books which will be long read, rather than a name remembered, if at all, as that of a man who wrote books which have become unreadable and absurd and who—at times more or less unscrupulously — made money from those books by preying upon tastes cheap and sensational.

Finally, so far as he himself is concerned, the conscientious artist will be content to pass to his account with the high knowledge that he has been loyal to his own ideals—that he has never betrayed his literary trust—that, in the finest sense of the phrase, he has, with infinite care, with infinite pains, against every opposition and in the teeth of every material discouragement, always and in every particular, kept the artistic faith.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

Mr. Capone's Raw Deal.

A RECENT alumnus of Alcatraz Island, that bleak and often fogbound retreat where Al Capone abides, brings word to the outside world that this noted American is ill at ease under close restraint, his soul nibbled by resentment and his sense of fairness outraged. Mr. Capone is serving 11 years for neglect to yield the Government's rightful share of the wages of infamy.

To be quite honest about it all, Mr. Capone is indeed the victim of a raw, though expedient, deal.

In the first place, 11 years is too harsh a sentence for so common and amiable a fault as the one of which he was convicted. If the same fierce justice were imposed on all offenders against the exacting and highly complicated schedules and sections which apply to affairs as prosperous and involved as his were the late leader of the prohibition revolt would have for company in his exile many of his former clients. The fact that he has not the spirit of compromise which has marked the adjustment of similar oversights on the part of citizens in the respectable brackets suggests that in Capone's case the United States Government, unable to convict him of his major errors, determined to get him anyway. In fact, there is no doubt about that.

THE country owed Capone a debt of gratitude for his efficient opposition to the rule of Scott McBride and Bishop Cannon, but because he had found it necessary to use firm methods there was also a great popular impatience. He had become rich, and with wealth came arrogance, and it seriously annoyed honest toilers, including editorial writers, to observe their partner in crimes against the eighteenth amendment and the gambling laws so comfortably fixed. He was guilty of many incidental fractures of the peace, including, according to the gossip of his day, some routine homicides which removed unimportant and very undesirable citizens.

But he was tried at last on the charge of evading his income tax, and the prosecution was conducted in the waning days of a national Administration which was in a sullen mood toward him, Mr. Hoover's reign had elected to stand or fall on the issue of prohibition, and Capone had contributed much to the final repudiation of the eighteenth amendment and Hoover. Mr. Hoover's Administration saw this repudiation coming and took it all out on Capone, even though it was necessary to put the United States Government in the position of silent partner in all his vices.

IF he had been convicted of bootlegging, murder or extortion and the judge had thrown the book at him, as the saying goes, on each count of the indictment he would have had no legitimate complaint and the Government would have had a much more respectable status in the case.

It is contended that his particular method of violating the income tax law was so defiant as to call for extreme punishment. On the contrary, Capone's violation was covered by extenuating circumstances. He didn't report his income at all. Ordinarily this is a serious offense which should be rebuked more vigorously than mere technical violations of the kind which noted financiers resort to. But had Capone reported his income he would have had to incriminate himself in the returns, giving full details as to the source of every dollar.

THE law generally holds that a man may not be compelled to testify against himself, but the income tax is a great gossip with an insatiable curiosity, and the records are available as evidence against the subject should he pay his honest dues. It is poor sportsmanship to accept a share of a criminal's criminal earnings and then send him to prison in return for his honest citizenship. And the department which sent Capone to prison for refusing to give up is the same which recently sent to prison a kidnaper's attorney for accepting a share of the ransom money for his fee.

Personal sympathy with Mr. Capone your correspondent has none, deeming it a great convenience that he is now removed, but a matter of regret that of all the crimes which could have been laid against him the whole United States was unable to prove so much as a drunk and disorderly charge. This excepts, of course, the year which he spent in a Pennsylvania jail house for carrying a pistol, which is commonly understood to have been a cooling-out period at a time when he was "hot."

Like the gold clause decision, the victory over Al Capone is more a confession than a boast.

Hilton's First Novel

By William Lyon Phelps

I HAVE repeatedly spoken in this column of my towering admiration for the two latest novels by James Hilton, which are indeed universally known; I mean, of course, "Lost Horizon" and "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

Well, I have now read every one of his 13 novels. They vary in value, but not one is dull; each has a real story in it that holds the attention. The man is a born novelist; and he must have always known it.

• • • •

The first novel he wrote is the last one I have read; I have just finished it, and I am enormously impressed. I think he is wise in refusing to republish some of his earlier books, because a few of them are of interest mainly to those, who, like me, are following his career seriously; for the general public, some of these earlier books are certainly unimportant.

But when he told me that he was not ashamed of his first novel, I knew it must be good; because he seems to have a remarkably accurate power of criticism of his own work, a rare quality in any author. Therefore I rejoice that he has just seen fit to allow his first book to be republished; and I advise all of the three or four hundred thousand people who have read "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Lost Horizon" to read the author's earliest novel, which is called "Catherine Herself."

This novel was published in 1920, before the author was 20 years old; it was written while he was an undergraduate at Cambridge, at the ages of 18 and 19. Such a novel at such an age is astounding.

Of course there are some marks of intellectual and artistic immaturity; but they are more than balanced by the ability to invent and manage a real plot, to create and develop real characters, and to describe the common sights and sounds of everyday life with astonishing accuracy. When it appeared, a reviewer said that it was "a very remarkable first novel. It would be equally remarkable if it were a last novel by a novelist in the first rank. The characters are illuminated from within."

• • • •

Poets and music composers begin early or not at all; but for a man to write such a novel as "Catherine Herself" while in his teens is almost unprecedented. I am filled with amazement.

The League After 20 Years

Council Meeting September 4 Will Determine Worth Of Peace Machinery.

By Stephane Botchev.
Special Correspondence of The Post.
Geneva (By Mail).

THE great result which came out of the World War, there is no doubt, and history already begins to recognize it, was the league to preserve peace — the League of Nations. Now that 21 years have elapsed since the explosion of the World War, what is the political situation in Europe, and what is the position of the League created to prevent further wars? If facts are to be faced as they are, it is apparent that Europe is embarking on a course which, in the long run, can lead only to war. If that is so, the League of Nations experiment has failed.

The year 1935 may be considered as the time in which the tendencies towards failure of the League system became evident. At first sight there seems no very striking evidence on which to found such an affirmation. The League has suffered many serious setbacks. If one were to pick the date of a striking failure, one would be tempted to choose, for example, the Manchurian affair in 1932. But this would be inaccurate. Indeed practically everyone is agreed that even though this affair seriously compromised the authority of the League, it did not destroy the system itself.

For the League is preeminently an institution for the preservation of Occidental peace, more specifically European peace. The League may therefore be considered to have survived, to a certain extent, the failure in Manchuria. As to the Chaco case, there again an excuse may be found: the Monroe Doctrine. Besides, peace reigns again in that corner of the world and the settlement of peace accepts most of the propositions from Geneva. Whence the disputes: was it a scoring point or a failure for the League?

IT is certain, I believe, that the League would not suffer greatly if there were only those two setbacks. And the third, the one which Signor Mussolini is preparing in Africa, is really of the same type. One must not consider the very essence of the League system compromised if it does not function in situations such as the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, which, after all, is an affair of colonial expansion. The fact that the League is threatened with terrible failure goes deeper than any of these cases.

At first glance Geneva seems to be running on quite as usual, the huge administrative mill of the secretariat continues to grind, commissions continue to meet, and the council is soon to be convened again to deal with the Ethiopian question. Better still, in a few months the enormous new buildings, one of the most gigantic constructions of the world, will be completed and at the beginning of the coming year the League will move in. Therefore, outward signs suggest good health.

But, as is often the case in serious illnesses which threaten the very life of man, the fatal symptoms are not immediately apparent. What essentially is the League of Nations? It is a collective system of security and peaceful settlement of international conflicts. It presumes the abolition of alliances and the progressive disarmament of Nations in favor of the system of collective guarantees. It also presumes the effective possibility of settling conflicts peaceably. It is in the nature of the League to assure the pacific evolution of these situations which are in danger of creating international conflicts.

THUS the League is the collective system. And what has been going on in Europe this year indicates the end of the collective system, and, therefore, the end of the League. We are witnessing an open return to the policy of military alliances. We are witnessing the beginning of an unprecedented armament race. Franco-Russian political and military alliances; political and military alliances between Russia and Czechoslovakia; the rearming of Germany; the response of France, Great Britain and the Little Entente by increasing their own armaments; all this signifies, if one does not want to close one's eyes to reality, the end of the collective system.

Each state thinks of itself alone, and counts only on its own strength. And, since one never finds one's own strength sufficient, and it can not be increased indefinitely, the state begins to look about for alliances, which are easy to find since each state is in the same boat. It is, therefore, to the policies and atmosphere of prewar times to which Europe has returned. And such policies can only lead in the end to war. History shows it, reason proves it.

How, in fact, did the World War come about? The assassination of the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary by a fanatical Serb was the incident which let loose the hostilities. Nevertheless, it is agreed that it was only the provocative incident needed to touch off a situation which had already become untenable. Europe, in 1914, even before Sarajevo was in a state of war had become a huge arsenal. From 1908 on, a general feeling of insecurity had spread all over the continent. It was felt that the latent conflicts, accumulated for years, were about to find an outlet and that this would inevitably be violent. The masses who little understood the portent of contemporary events, nevertheless instinctively felt danger drawing nearer.

• • • •

IN this general atmosphere of insecurity the network of alliances tightened; armaments were further increased. Europe was caught in a vicious circle; new armaments increased the feeling of insecurity. This insecurity increased and stimulated further increase in armaments, which in turn, intensified the general feeling of fear. From 1910 to 1914 many military budgets doubled. But as to security, every one felt that it was growing less. And even as early as the end of 1913 observing diplomats warned their governments that war was impending and that it was inevitable. The immediate cause of the war was this insecurity, brought about and intensified by armaments and the military alliances.

But how did Europe fall into such a state of insecurity, and what was the cause of her division into two opposing groups of states? The sequence of events emerged from a situation similar to the present.

Manchuria And Chaco Seen As Inadequate Tests Of Geneva's Value.

So much has been written about the causes and the origin of the World War, that the main outlines of this picture are in danger of being lost from view under the welter of details. In reality the question is very simple.

In the picture three parts are to be distinguished: The explosion set off by a mere incident. Behind that, the period of tension and insecurity which led up to the explosion. Lastly, in the background of the picture, the accumulated unsettled conflicts which brought about the alliances and the armaments. It is from this background of conflicts to be settled, which are the underlying cause of every great war, that one must start if one is to understand the sequence of events. The settlements in European affairs of 1871 and of 1878 left many discontented. So did those of 1918.

IT would seem that the period in which we are is the background of a future war. To the dissatisfactions left over from the last war are being added fresh ones. The accumulation of conflicts to be settled is well under way, the alliances are beginning and so is the arms race. This same movement has already once led to war. What reason is there to believe now that the same result will not again take place?

To this query one should have been able to answer: The League of Nations. But one can not. The League exists no longer as a collective system of security. In face of rebuilding of the alliance system, the League must even be considered as virtually dissolved. And on the other hand it is becoming evident that the League is totally incapable of solving the great conflicting interests. The final test in this connection will come when the Council, on September 4, is at last brought squarely face to face with the Ethiopian dispute.

The League Council in action.

Baptist Association To Convene Today

The annual sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Perry R. Stubbs, pastor of Bethlehem Church, in Essex County.

Architect Ends Life In Leap Off Liner

R. Henry Peters Jumps in Sea Near the Capes.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—R. Henry Peters, 46, Grand Island, Nebr., architect, leaped to his death early today from the liner City of Baltimore, 400 miles off the Virginia capes, Baltimore Mail Line officials were advised by wireless.

Commander Francis E. Gross, captain of the liner, wirelessed that his vessel was 24 hours out of Norfolk when the Nebraskan went overboard. The City of Baltimore will dock at Norfolk tomorrow morning and arrive here the following dya.

The ship was halted for two hours, but the body was not recovered. The missing man booked passage from Europe at Havre, mail line officials said.

Foreign Exchange.

New York, Aug. 20 (AP).—Continental gold currencies eased in world foreign exchange dealings as nervous holders moved funds to London as a result of the Italian crisis. The dollar was offered in greater volume in London in connection with U. S. Treasury silver purchases.

The French franc declined .00½ of a cent in New York to 6.63½ cents; Holland guilders yielded .05 of a cent at 67.83 cents and Swiss francs were .03 of a cent lower at 32.74 cents. Italian lira improved .01 of a cent at 8.22, following the rapid decline of the previous day.

The British pound sterling was ¼ of a cent higher in New York at 4.98¼ and the dollar was lower in London at 4.98⅞. The dollar was a trifle higher in Paris at an equivalent of 6.635 cents to the franc.

Dead in the murky tundra . . .
The friend of millions,
Companion of all men,
Killed in the desolation of
A forbidding Arctic outpost! . . .

• • • •

Yesterday you were laughing,
Spreading homespun humor,
Brightening lives in hut,
Hovel, home and palace . . .
Even now your face grins at us
From the silver screen
Which you made wholesome,
Clean and endurable.

• • • •

An Eskimo runner, breathless,
Gasps the news . . .
"Will Rogers dead!"
The cry of astonishment,
Of abiding grief
Rises from the homes of
The mighty and the meek,
From village and metropolis . . .

For you were understood
In flop house and in castle,
In the bread lines and at
The banquet tables.

Public Philosopher Number One!
That was you, Will . . .
You were no buffoon . . .
There was wisdom and truth
In every utterance . . .
Hoboes and potentates
Saw more clearly through
Your rural logic.

I'll bet you went smiling, Will,
To that Last Round-up . . .
A few moments of horror, yes,
But no declining years
Of power and health . . .
No wasting illness,
No deathbed agonies to erase
That great smile.

You went smiling because
Under the cap and bells
Was a fine courage . . .
It took you from ranch
To the big cities,
From tent show and
Vaudeville to stardom . . .
From obscurity into
The hearts of all men!

You knew the perils of the air . . .
Death has been close often,
But it never stared you down . . .
In that last terrible moment
You looked the Dark Angel
In the eye and grinned!

Now you're coming home as
You would want to,
Through the skies with Wiley . . .

• • • •

Dead?
Not to us, Will . . .
But alive and smiling,
Chewing away and twisting
That old lariat
Forever and forever,
Down through the ages.

Welcome home, Will!
Welcome home, Wiley!
Happy landings through

FREE — A RECENT NOVEL HAILED THE WORLD OVER AS ONE OF THE MASTERPIECES OF OUR TIME

An experiment to show you how often you miss books you promise yourself to read

THE FORTY DAYS OF MUSA DAGH

BY FRANZ WERFEL

EIGHT months ago the five judges of the Book-of-the-Month Club selected The Forty Days of Musa Dagh as the book-of-the-month. Over 50,000 of our more than 100,000 members elected to take it. In addition, within a few weeks, it became a national best-seller. The praise it received from critics all over the country was extraordinary. Without doubt you read about this book, heard it praised on all sides, and in all probability you said to yourself, "That is a book I surely want to read." But did you ever read it?

Time and time again (is it not true?) you miss notable new books, like this one, which you are extremely anxious to read. Have you, for instance, as yet read Life With Father, by Clarence Day; or Paths of Glory, by Humphrey Cobb; or Road to War, by Walter Millis; or National Velvet, by Enid Bagnold—to mention only a few of recent books-of-the-month that have been widely praised by critics, and which you probably promised yourself to read. And over the past few years there have undoubtedly been scores of books, which you were very anxious to read at the time, but which you would confess sadly you simply never "got around to."

This perpetual failure to "get around to" the new books you most want to read would never happen to you if you belonged to the Book-of-the-Month Club. That is what we want to prove to you, and at the same time to demonstrate the many material advantages of joining—for instance, the very valuable "book-dividends" distributed, free, among members, close to $1,000,000 worth every year.

By special arrangement with the publishers of The Forty Days of Musa Dagh, we have obtained the rights to give away up to 10,000 copies of the book in this experiment. And what we here propose is this: mail the inquiry below, and a copy of this great novel will immediately be put aside in your name, and held until we hear whether or not you care to join. In the meantime, a booklet will at once be sent to you outlining how the Club operates.

Study this booklet at your leisure; have the members of your family do likewise; you may be surprised, for instance, to learn that belonging to the Club does not mean you have to pay any fixed sum each year; nor does it mean that you are obliged to take one book every month, twelve a year (you may take as few as four); nor are you obliged, willy-nilly, to take the specific book-of-the-month selected by the judges. You have complete freedom of choice at all times.

If you are interested, it is advisable not to delay in mailing the inquiry coupon, in view of the limitation of copies placed on us by the publisher in this experiment.

A starving Armenian peasant in the days when the Turks were trying to wipe out the race wholesale; not very heroic in looks,—but it was a little group of men like this fighting for the preservation of their race, who in this novel warm one's blood-fever heat by the last-ditch courage.

FRANZ WERFEL

A FEW TYPICAL COMMENTS OF THE CRITICS:

JOHN CHAMBERLAIN, N. Y. Times—"Will invade your senses and keep the blood pounding. Once read, it will never be forgotten."

HARRY HANSEN, Harper's—"The story grows on one, the whole dark, useless tragedy born of racial and religious differences, is indelibly impressed upon the memory."

R. M. GAY, The Atlantic Monthly—"So full of suspense and excitement, so majestic in its presentation of the tragedy of a whole people . . . one cannot fail to find it remarkable."

HORACE GREGORY, N. Y. Herald Tribune—"Unequalled in modern history . . . I know of no contemporary novel where historical incident is given such complete reality."

Envoy, Wife Will Depart For France

Prince Eugene de Ligne Back From Visit in New York.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. de Laboulaye left Washington last evening for New York, to sail this morning aboard the Normandie for France. Upon their arrival there they will go to their country home, where they will join their sons and daughters, who have been spending the summer there.

The Ambassador and Mme. de Laboulaye, accompanied by their family, sailed for Europe early in April, where they spent some time before returning to this country in time to meet Mme. Lebrun, wife of the president of France, who arrived in this country aboard the Normandie for a week's visit.

The De Laboulayes will return to Washington the latter part of September, accompanied by their two daughters, Mlle. Marie Theresa de Laboulaye and Mlle. Agnes de Laboulaye.

The Charge d'Affaires of Belgium, Prince Eugene de Ligne, who spent several days in New York, has returned to the Capital.

The Financial Counselor of the Rumanian Legation, Mr. George Boncesco, who had been spending some time in Rumania, arrived in New York Monday aboard the Normandie and was met by Mme. Boncesco, who had been visiting the West and the Middle West. They will be at the Ritz Carlton Hotel until tomorrow, when they will return to Washington, where the former will resume his duties.

The First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation and Senora de Lozado have as their guest in their apartment at the Alban Towers the latter's sister, Senora Mercedes Bustemante, who arrived from her home in Bollvia to spend several weeks.

Senor Don Lozado will return from New York today and will leave Washington the latter part of the week for Niagara Falls for a visit. He will be accompanied by Senora de Lozado and Senora Bustemante.

Lillian Willett On Motor Trip

Aunt Accompanies Her on Visit to Relatives' Home in Chicago.

Miss Lillian Hathaway Willett, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Edna Mathews, will leave today to motor to Chicago to visit at the home of her uncle, Mr. H. T. Willett.

Mrs. Matthews has been the house guest of her sister, Mrs. E. Jean Willett, for several weeks. Many parties were given in her honor.

After a short visit at the Willett home in Chicago, Mrs. Matthews will return to her home in Kansas City.

Mrs. Willett will be joined in Chicago by her brother, Mr. Billy Willett, of Los Angeles, and they will motor back to the Capital together.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 20.—Samuel Bigelow, of Washington, has been named an usher for the wedding of Miss Helen Neilson Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Horner, of New Haven, and Charles Ray Peck, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Darius Peck, of Morristown, N. J. The marriage will take place September 14 at Trinity Episcopal Church here. Betsy Keith, of Warrenton, will be maid of honor. John Flint, of Boston, will be best man for his cousin. The couple will make their home in Washington.

Sylvan Theater Play Deferred Until Tonight

The Summer Festival Committee's presentation of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" with the Barnfield Players, scheduled for the Sylvan Theater last night, was postponed until tonight because of wet grounds.

Tomorrow at 8 p. m. the United States Marine Band, under direction of Capt. Taylor Branson, will give the grand opera festival concert. The concert will feature three soloist, Anne Yago McGuffey, Justin Lawrie and Robert Frederick Freund.

Tickets for the events are available at the AAA Ticket Bureau, the Washington and Willard Hotel newsstands, or at the Sylvan Theater at the time of the festivals.

Mormon Choir to Sing.

The Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Church choir, directed by Edward P. Kimball, will present a program of sacred music at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow in First Congregational Church. Dr. B. B. James, who is national organizer of the Calvin Coolidge Men's Bible Classes, will speak on "Joseph Smith—the Mormon Prophet."

Sailed Recently for European Sojourn

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. ERNEST A. FALLER,
who has sailed with her husband for Europe, where they will spend the coming two months.

Mary Cottman Starts Journey For the Orient

Miss Mary Clare Cottman, whose betrothal to Mr. Brice Goldsborough, of Peiping, China, was an interesting recent announcement, left late Sunday from her home in Baltimore for the West Coast from where she plans to sail tomorrow for the Orient.

Miss Cottman is being accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Warrington Cottman, and by Miss Anna R. Follis and Miss Virginia P. McIntosh, of Baltimore to Peiping where the marriage will take place. The ceremony will be solemnized in the United States Embassy in Peiping soon after Miss Cottman's arrival.

The forthcoming marriage will be of interest to Washington society as Mr. Goldsborough is the son of the former Senator and Mrs. Phillips Lee Goldsborough, of Maryland.

Miss Cottman has been a frequent visitor in Washington, as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John H. Russell, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, and as the guest of Miss Laura Tuckerman, who has just returned to the Capital from a farewell visit with Miss Cottman in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Young, of Bloomington, Ind. are at the Dodge.

Mrs. Elliott Corby, of New York City is at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Parisians Throng Wedding Scene; Pershing, Mrs. Longworth and Daughter Are Among Few to See Altar Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Mlle. Jose Laval, comely daughter of Premier Pierre Laval, paused half a minute on the veranda of a church fronting a quiet little square today, greeted friends, then slipped her hand under her distinguished father's arm and entered the church—to emerge 45 minutes later as the Countess de Chambrun.

This time she clung to the arm of her husband by virtue of two ceremonies (there was a civil marriage yesterday). The husband is Count Rene de Chambrun, descendant of the Marquis de Lafayette and therefore, by American law, an honorary citizen of the United States.

The pair entered one of three waiting automobiles and rode to the Laval residence, in the ministry for foreign affairs, where a buffet luncheon was served to a small but distinguished group of guests, members of the Laval and de Chambrun families, cabinet ministers and diplomatists. After the luncheon and reception, the count and countess stole away to an unannounced honeymoon destination. Members of both families refused to divulge where they will spend their time before they leave on a projected longer trip to Canada and the United States.

Religious Rites Are Simple.

In deference to the wishes of Premier Laval, who wished no unnecessary display at a time of economic stress, every effort was made to keep the religious ceremony simple. There were no bridesmaids, no groomsmen, no flowers.

But the throng of statesmen, prelates and other notables made the wedding brilliant. Outside the Church of Ste. Clothilde, police had to restrain crowds of interested Parisians. Inside was the brilliantly lighted altar, the Papal Nuncio, Mgr. Maglione, seated on the dais. Stained glass windows glowed like the contents of a jewel box.

The bride wore a simple white crepe wedding gown with a short train that lay less than a yard upon the floor. Her veil of white tulle covered her face and was held back by a garland of small white flowers. She wore short white gloves.

The men of the wedding party wore morning coats and striped trousers. The bride's mother was in simple black.

But the favored few who inspected the bride's trousseau, itself simple, saw plenty of color. Her favorite color, blue, was prominent. There was one evening gown in sapphire velvet, one long evening wrap in rooster red horseguards' cloth and a honeymoon traveling coat designed on double-breasted military lines fastened with four padlocks. There was also the green velvet dress which figured in yesterday's civil ceremony.

Brilliant Wedding Gifts.

There was more brilliance in the wedding gifts. Premier Laval's political family, the cabinet, presented 24 silver Empire plates. The diplomatic corps gave the bride a great silver dish with four smaller ones. Mlle. Jose received as many as 52 lamps and there were so many tables of household ornaments the bride must spend hours writing thank-you notes.

Today's marriage service was read by the master general of Dominicans, the Rev. Martin Gillet. Afterward, mass was celebrated by Canon Verdrie.

Among the distinguished persons present was Gen. John J. Pershing, long a friend of the family, who, with Monsieur L. Dernis, a Paris lawyer, witnessed the ceremony on behalf of the Laval family. The De Chambrun witneses were:

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth and her young daughter, Paulina, were in the pews. Her husband, the late Nicholas Longworth, was an uncle of the bridegroom.

Hogans Return Following Stay At Pacific Post

Naval Officer and Wife to Spend Late Summer in Maryland.

Lieut. Bart W. Hogan, U. S. N., Medical Corps, and Mrs. Hogan, with their young son, Bart, have returned to the East Coast from Honolulu, where Dr. Hogan had been on duty for the last two years.

Dr. and Mrs. Hogan will make their home for the remainder of the summer and early autumn season at Valley View Farm, Emmitsburg, Md., the country estate of the latter's mother, Mrs. J. Ledlie Glonginger, of Emmitsburg and Pittsburgh, Pa.

They will then come to Washington, where they will make their home for several years, as Dr. Hogan has been assigned to duty at the United States Naval Hospital.

Davenport Whites Visit in Greenwich

Son Will Join Parents for Tour of Mountains.

Dr. and Mrs. Davenport White are stopping at Greenwich, Conn., for a fortnight, awaiting the arrival of their son, Kearny Carr White, who is returning from a trip to Siberia, Alaska and Canada.

Mr. White will join his parents in New York and the party will then take a motor trip through the White Mountains.

Miss Rebecca Namiot Gives Cocktail Party

Miss Proctor is spending some time in Washington as the guest of Mrs. Blanche H. Cooper.

Mrs. Edith Elmore Weds Dr. Bloedorn

Justice and Mrs. George Sutherland announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Edtih Sutherland Elmore, and Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, at the home of Col. and Mrs. Crandall Mackey, at Mackey Hill, Va., at noon Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Bloedorn will be at home in Washington early in September.

First Lady Returns, Is Luncheon Guest

Mrs. Roosevelt has returned to the White House for a short stay after spending the past several weeks at the Roosevelts' summer home, Campobello.

Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt was the ranking guest at the luncheon given at the Willard Hotel by the National Youth Administration for State directors of the administration who are in Washington for a two-day meeting.

Nancy H. Work, Morgan Macy To Be Married

Parents of Bride-Elect Well Known in Washington Society Circles.

Of interest to many members of Capital society is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Nancy Harlan Work, of Ingleside, Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y., to Mr. Morgan Macy, son of Mrs. Susanne Morgan Macy, of Raceway Lodge, Caledonia, N. Y., and the late Maj. Sylvanus Jenkins Macy.

Miss Work is a descendant on the paternal side of William Bradford, who came over on the Mayflower and was governor of the Plymouth coloney for 31 years. On the maternal side she is a direct descendant of Maj. Andrew Allicott, of West Point, who, with Maj. L'Enfant, laid out the city of Washington from 1791 to 1793. Miss Work's mother is the former Miss Mary Lang Davis, of Philadelphia.

The bride-elect, who was to have made her debut this season, attended the Lawrence School at Hewlett, Long Island, and Rosemarie Hall, Grenwich, Conn.

Mr. Macy is a grandson, on the maternal side, of the late Dayton Samuel Morgan. He is a nephew of the late George Macy, father of Mr. W. Kingsland Macy. He attended Ridley College, Ontario, Canada, and the University of Virginia, from which he was graduated in 1927. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and of the Genesee Valley Hunt Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Work have frequently been hosts to members of Washington society both in their charming home and aboard their yacht, which is anchored off the Lawrence Yacht Club.

Y. W. C. A. Official Visiting in Capital

Miss Ruth Woodsall to Take Geneva Post Sept. 1.

Miss Ruth F. Woodsmall, newly elected general secretary of the World's Council of the Young Women's Christian Association, will take up her international post September 1, in Geneva, Switzerland, watching over the interests of women and girls in 50 countries. Miss Woodsmall has been associated with the Y. W. C. A. since the days of the World War when she was assigned to a Y. W. C. A. hostess house at Camp Pike, Ark., through the national board in New York.

She was later sent to France, then to Germany, and subsequently made surveys and conducted work abroad in Poland, the Baltic and Balkan states, and was stationed for eight years in the Near East. In 1928 she was granted a leave of absence to study the changing condition of Moslem women in the Near and Far East under a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship. In 1930 she was appointed a member of the Laymen's Foreign Missions Inquiry, which made a survey of India, Burma, China and Japan. For the last two years Miss Woodsmall has been connected wtih the national board in New York.

She is the author of "Eastern Women Today and Tomorrow."

Professional Woman Who Has Housekeeping Worries Cannot Do Justice to Her Job

Rinse Checks Graying Hair, Returns Sheen

By Ruth Anne Davis.

SILVER THREADS among the gold, or black, or brown may have a special significance for poets or sentimentalists but they're just dread time tellers to many of us. No woman wants a record of her years kept by the graying of her hair, and no woman wants her youth belied or her age publicized in this manner. So? The answer to her problem, at least one very excellent answer, lies on the counter in a downtown store. It's a large-sized bottle filled with a colorless, odorless water, crystal clear. Just to look at it you'd never dream it had any connection with the fountain of youth. It has, though. There's no legend about this. You may prove it to yourself in a few minutes. Rinse your hair in this liquid, and if you have streaks of gray or a generous all-over sprinkling of white hairs, you will find they may be easily banished, and your hair restored to its natural color.

Don't fear that this beauty wonder does drastic and unpleasant things. Not at all!

It's perfectly safe, and many times tried and tested. Change the color of your hair? Yes, it does do that. But in such a subtle natural manner that only the gray hairs seem to be eliminated, and your coif in general has become softer and more glossy.

So many people have a dread of anything comparable to a hair dye, and rightly, too. Those old dyes use to do pretty awful things, and leave one's hair in a highly conspicuous state. This coloring is as far removed from such dyes as electric lights are from the old-fashioned kerosene lamps. It's purely scientific, easy to use and certainly a real need in a modern age when women regard perennial youth as their birthright.

Fall Bags Available for $1.

SHOPPING for fall handbags is downright thrilling if you do your shopping at the bag-bargain counter of a downtown store. Here there are bags and bags—"scads" of them! The uniform price is $1, and believe it or not, this includes two attractive initials.

But wait, there's more to hear! Be warned before you shop! Resolve to be "choosey" and buy your bag through the process of elimination. You see, there are so many bags, and, of course, not all of them are just top-notch, but you pick around and you'll find bags that meet all the A plus style requirements.

Close-Out Powder Sale.

SPEAKING of bargains—and who isn't these days?—have you heard about the powder sale in a downtown store? If you know the inside story of this sale then you know that right now is your chance to score with wise buying. You see, a certain nationally known beauty authority is closing out one of her special powders. "Flower powder" it's called. A fine textured powder blended in six charming shades. For years, this product, recognized far and wide because of its superior quality, has retailed for $1.75. Now it's only $1.15, a large, beautifully designed box of it.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of The Washington Post, National 4200, Extension 305, for further information, or write, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

The business or professional woman will get the most out of life if she has a home, and the best solution of her double job is the "right maid." So believes Miss Mary Anderson, above, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

Office Efficiency Impeded by Distraction of Disorderly Home.

That "woman's work is never done" is truer today than ever before. The office worker more often than not is also a homemaker. How can she successfully carry on two jobs and at the same time not suffer frayed nerves and a split personality? The following article is the first in a series discussing this problem.

By Emma Perley Lincoln.

"WHAT THE PROFESSIONAL woman needs more than anything else is a 'wife,'" says Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the Woman's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor. "For judging from my own experience and that of many friends similarly situated, the job comes first and the home life afterward. Yet since woman's strongest instinct is for homemaking, her business or professional life will run smoothly in ratio to the harmony in her home."

Once get the mechanics of the home organized and operating, Miss Anderson believes, and you will function 100 per cent better on your job. Asked for the best means of a busy woman like herself accomplishing this, Miss Anderson, who has actively kept house during her long career, says that the first thing to do is to find the right maid, then turn the house over to her and forget it. Leave your house and its worries in her hands.

Sounded Optimistic.

We thought Miss Anderson sounded extremely optimistic in the matter of maids, and that her experience with them as later revealed seemed almost too good to be true. She says she has been lucky in always having perfect jewels. We privately wondered if this did not indicate a special genius in selecting helpers and more than average genius as an executive.

One maid in particular, Miss Anderson remembers with great affection, and according to her belief, only a home which has known such a paragon can appreciate what it means to the happiness of all concerned.

During the regime of this maid Miss Anderson's house ran like a clock, yet there were no protests when the routine was upset by bringing unexpected extras for meals, or when unavoidable delays put the dinner off schedule.

The maid did the marketing, paid the bills, took complete care of Miss Anderson's wardrobe, kept the establishment in apple-pie order, and, in fact, did everything imaginable to keep life pleasant for her employer.

Miss Anderson confesses it is not easy to find a well-trained maid with all the other necessary requisites of temperament and disposition, for unless a servant is self-effacing, thoughtful, cheerful and neat, there is still much to be desired.

Convinced that all women are natural homemakers, Miss Anderson admits they are not always housekeepers in the best sense of the word.

"Women are not all possessors of orderly minds," Miss Anderson said, "and this shows in the way their houses are run. Some are more adept than others, finding short-cuts to accomplishment. Others seem never to be contented unless the house is a veritable whirlwind of cleaning and transition.

"It would be distinctly irritating to me," she went on, "to think that my home was upset. It would be in my consciousness all day long, and I am positive it would interfere materially with my work. I have always felt the greatest sympathy for men who have this problem in their homes, and I feel that a man's career is often thwarted and arrested mainly because the mechanics of his home are not well oiled. A man who goes home at night, after a hard day at business and does the work of a housemaid cannot be expected to do his best in his chosen field, though strange to say, men are frequently found better housekeepers and cooks than the women in their families. But a man obliged to turn to such petty details is sure to lose in his own accomplishment.

Men Love Order, She Asserts.

"Men love order as a rule, even though they do not know best how to accomplish it by themselves. They like to be unconscious of what makes the order with which they are surrounded. The successfully managed home is the one in which the machinery doesn't show. Some women have the ability to carry on such establishments, making no noise about it whatever, and that of course is the ideal way, and makes the best setting for happy family life."

Going back to her first remark that professional women need "wives," we asked what good they would be be, if the wife had a job herself as most of them now have, and incidentally inquired what would happen to the world if women did not step back into the home where they belonged.

"Back in the home," said Miss Anderson, "Fiddlesticks! Woman has never been out of the home. She is in it now, always has been and always will be now more than ever, because she is helping earn the money that keeps it going. Often the woman with a job is doing a bigger and better stint of homemaking than her sister who has nothing else on her mind."

Job Held Sign of Domesticity.

If she has a husband and children and also a job, it's with the best interests of the home in mind, according to Miss Anderson. Because the economic situation is such that maintaining that home, educating the children and providing the modest extras which make life sweet, are more than the average man can shoulder by himself.

If unmarried and working, a woman is nine times out of ten providing a home for an aged parent, or giving a lift to other dependent members of her family, leaving other relatives free to carry on their more normal lives of establishing their own nests. And her interest in that home is just as vital, as in the case of the woman with a husband and children. So, no matter what the circumstances, Miss Anderson is sure that every normal woman will provide herself with a home and will manage her working life accordingly.

For the first time in her life, Miss Anderson is not concerning herself with the woes of housekeeping. Happily ensconced with her friend, Dr. Estelle Ford Warner, in Alexandria, in a charming, old house, Miss Anderson admits being so contended that she cannot imagine herself yearning again for her own vine and fig tree.

Yeast Causes Disease Like White Plague

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

THE yeast plant is a parasite, and its value in the household lies in the fact that it grows and reproduces at a rapid rate in the presence of moisture, heat, and starch.

The ordinary household yeast is not disease producing, but there is a type of yeast called monilia that will also grow upon sugar and starch and produce carbon dioxide gas.

Infection of the lungs and bronchi with monilia has been known for several years, but the condition is probably far more common than is generally understood. Not infrequently a diagnosis of tuberculosis is made and occasionally that of cancer of the lung, although neither condition is present. Later it may be found that the symptoms are due to an infection of lung tissue with this parasitic plant.

The onset of plant parasitic infection (monilia) may be characterized by what appears to be an attack of influenza. Occasionally a sharp pleuritic pain will be the initial symptom. Other cases have been reported in which hemorrhage from the lungs was the advance notice to the patient that he was ill.

The infection is nearly always accompanied by a severe cough which is occasionally paroxysmal in character and particularly troublesome when lying down. There may be no loss of weight, although this is quite likely to occur. The patient complains usually of shortness of breath and weakness—in fact, most of the cardinal symptoms of tuberculosis will be present. If X-ray plates are taken, evidences of the disease may be seen in the lower lobes of the lungs.

Fortunately, if the diagnosis can be made reasonably early, heavy doses of potassium iodide will rather promptly destroy the infection and restore the patient to health.

If early detection is possible, the remedy is simple and effective and recovery is well nigh spectacular. In cases of long standing, however, where failure to recognize the infection has permitted deep seated destruction of lung tissue to take place, the outlook is not hopeful.

Whether the infection gains entrance to the bronchi and lungs via the mouth or along some other avenue has not been definitely proved. At any rate, good mouth hygiene is always in order. It will help to guard against monilia and a score of other possible infections.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Is it better to be married on love and little else besides faith and hope and a determination to make a success of it? Or to pat love gently on the head and tell it to wait patiently until we can afford it and it is no longer a luxury?

This is the problem facing my fiance and me. We both have jobs and our present combined salaries are not at all bad, but we have no real financial security nor much promise of any—but who has in these days? We're very much in love, and more than that, we have a perfect understanding; we never quarrel; and we have much in common.

• • • •

We've discussed our marriage from all angles and are agreed that it won't be easy to make the sacrifices that are necessary, but we're each convinced that the other is sport enough to "stand the gaff." We've counted the gains and the losses, and to our minds the gains stand highest.

• • • •

However, my parents, who have made a real success of their marriage (financially as in all other ways) want us to wait until we can start on what I call a predepression basis: good job, money in the bank, smooth sailing ahead. They are advocates of the old adage, "when poverty comes in, love flies out." On the other hand, another couple, very close to us, has made just as much of a success of their marriage as my parents, on little or no security and almost no money in the last few years, and are as much in love after many years as any two persons could be.

• • • •

Our plan is to save together until we can furnish a small apartment, take a short trip, have a little left over and then take what comes, "for better or for worse."

• • • •

Yet they want us to wait, placidly enjoying our engagement, disregarding our impatience to get started in our home, until I have my trousseau and my linens bought and until my fiance has money in the bank and a job with a dependable future (if there is such a thing). We don't agree with that. Too much can happen, too many plans go awry and we'd rather have our happiness now. Do you think we are just headstrong and unwilling to profit by valuable advice?

PUZZLED.

Use Common Sense.

DEAR PUZZLED: Under the circumstances as you describe them, I believe you and your fiance can well afford to launch your matrimonial bark in life's mid-stream once you have the small apartment furnished (and the furnishings paid for) and enough additional money saved to finance a short wedding trip and have a little left over.

• • • •

It's apt to be true, as your parents declare, that when poverty comes in the door, love flies out the window. But there's a vast difference between actual poverty and the necessity of living within a modest budget. Your reasoning, as revealed in your letter, is so sound and suggests so conclusively that both you and your fiance are able to think and plan for yourselves, that I'm sure you need no better advice and guidance than the dictates of your mutual common sense.

D. C. Woman Among Few To Win High Bar Honor

Miss Clephane Recently Named to Council of the District.

By Dudley Harmon.

Harris & Ewing.

MISS BEATRICE CLEPHANE.

MISS BEATRICE CLEPHANE, young Washington lawyer recently elected a member of the District Council of the American Bar Association, is one of few women in the country to receive this honor.

Elected at the national convention of the association last month in Los Angeles, Miss Clephane is the only woman on a board of five here in the District. The main duties of the council, of which there is one in every State, are to promote interest in the association.

Miss Clephane is also part-time director of the Legal Aid Bureau, a member organization of the Community Chest. Here she supervises the work of 12 attorneys and 12 student assistants.

"The purpose of the Legal Aid Bureau," explained Miss Clephane, "is to render legal assistance to those who would not otherwise be able to afford it. It renders a most valuable service in this respect.

"For example, take the divorce question. It has always been somewhat taken for granted that divorce is a privilege of the wealthy, and that if two mismated people had the misfortune to be poor, they must remain together for lack of funds to separate.

"However, if a social worker advises a destitute woman to divorce a shiftless or alcoholic husband, she is now able to do so, thanks to the legal aid bureau.

"We also assist in settling wage claims and suits between landlord and tenant where an applicant cannot afford to hire an attorney. The fact that we gain about 125 new clients every month will give you some idea of the great demand for this kind of service."

Since graduation from Wellesley College and the George Washington Law School, Miss Clephane has been associated with her father in the firm of Clephane & Latimer. She confines her practice entirely to civil cases, as distinguished from criminal.

Noise Natural With Children, To Be Tolerant

By Alice Clarissa Richmond,

Associated Press Staff Writer.

NOISE is inevitable where there are children. It is as natural for them to be noisy as for dogs to bark or birds to sing, and the parent who objects to shouts and yells and loud sounds has a choice of putting his children away or taking refuge in a sound-proof room.

The child who is subdued into quiet when at home is an unnatural and miserable creature. As soon as he is relieved from supervision, he is very apt to be the wildest and loudest of the crowd. For the rest, the quiet child is generally a sick child.

The dog bays at the moon probably because he has a vague feeling of discomfort and loneliness in the unfamiliar aspect of night illuminated. The boys and girls shout and sing for the same reason. Noise makes them feel at home and supported by the crowd.

To this is added the shyness of youth about expressing emotion. A crowd of young people together would feel foolish and self-conscious silently taking in the scenery.

Dead Line in Post's Recipe Competition Is Set for Sept. 30

ONLY six more weeks are left in which to win a Sunbeam Mix Master, a G. E. Hotpoint coffee maker, or a Dominion sandwich grill offered by The Washington Post and the National Electrical Supply Co. as the grand prizes in the recipe contests that will be conducted until the end of September.

Anyone winning a prize in the weekly recipe contest is eligible for one of the grand prizes. Each week The Post offers 12 $1 prizes for the best recipes submitted in its weekly contest.

Cold pudding is the topic of the current week's contest. Of all the puddings you serve, surely there is one that is the family's favorite. Submit it. You may be a winner.

All recipes must be received no later than Saturday morning, so send your recipe off at once to Dorothea Duncan, in care of The Washington Post.

The names of the winners and their prize-winning recipes will be published in next Tuesday's edition of The Post, and at the same time the new contest subject for next week will be announced.

Drawstring Neckline Pattern For an Indian Summer Frock

Pattern No. 864.

HERE is the smart drawstring neckline frock in a pattern that is so easy to sew that the complete novice can make it! You can take your choice between short, pleated sleeves or full ones of just-below-the-elbow length. The cut above the waistline gives a pleasantly "flat" effect.

Ever so many fabrics would be right for this design—flat crepe, rayon, or a heavy sheer for the warm days of Indian Summer. The pattern is cut in sizes 14 to 42. Size 18 (36) requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Peaches Make Many Delicious Dishes

Clever Housewife Will Use Fruit Every Way That's Possible.

NOW that peaches are in season, the clever housewife will use them every day in every way she can. The peach, a native of either Persia or China, has found its best growth in America. The fruit itself has been cared for and cultivated so extensively in this country that we now produce the finest varieties found anywhere.

Peaches are divided in two groups—"freestones," with fruit pulling free from the stone, and "clingstones," with fruit adhering to it. In addition to their consumption as a fresh fruit, vast quantities are canned, dried and evaporated by many housewives each year. The best type for canning are clingstone peaches—chiefly because of their evenness of color, and generally finer, firmer texture, while freestones are used for drying.

Peaches should be consumed or preserved as speedily as possible, for they deteriorate quickly. When purchasing this fruit make sure that you buy tree-ripened ones as they are far superior in flavor to those from the same tree plucked hard to mature in storage or store. Peaches should not be eaten raw unless thoroughly ripe, but in that condition they are counted among the most wholesome of fruits.

Raw, cooked, in jelly or jam, its luscious flavor is a universal favorite. When served as a salad on a hot sultry day it is unbelievably delicious. Here is an excellent peach salad recipe:

Peach Puffs.

1 cup mayonnaise
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
12 large peach halves, peeled
¾ cup almonds, finely shredded

Fold mayonnaise into egg white gently but thoroughly. Pile in centers of peach halves. Sprinkle with almonds. Toast under broiler for one minute, or until delicately browned and puffed. Cool. Serve on crisp lettuce with additional mayonnaise. This recipe serves 12.

To successfully prepare the following peach pudding, the cook must see that the water is boiling violently when the pudding is placed over it and must not allow it to fall below the boiling point at any time while the pudding is cooking.

Steamed Peach Pudding.

3 cups peaches
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together, rub in the shortening and add the milk. The result will be a dough too soft to roll out. Peel and stone the peaches and cut them into rather thick slices. Place the sliced fruit in a greased pudding dish, spread the dough over the fruit and set the dish in a steamer over a kettle of rapidly boiling water, covering the steamer tightly. Steam for one hour. Turn the pudding out without breaking. This brings the peaches uppermost, when the pudding is sent to the table. Serve with hard sauce or any liquid sauce.

Clingstones Are Better as Preserves; Dry the Freestones.

Another excellent way to utilize peaches is to make preserves and store them away for the winter. You will find that the children will relish bread and butter and peach preserves when they come home from school and are so hungry they can't wait until dinner is served. Preserved peaches are prepared this way:

Peach Preserves.

Three-fourths pound sugar and three-fourth cup of water to each pound of prepared fruit.

Clingstone peaches are better than freestone, for they keep their shape better. Wash, peel, and remove the stones if desired. If the stones are to be removed, cut the peaches in quarters. Boil the sugar and water for ten minutes. Skim, add the fruit and cook rapidly until it is transparent. Seal in clean hot jars.

Army Flanks 20-Mile Line In 'Fighting'

Infantry, Artillery, Cavalry and Air Corps on Move.

Peaceful Mount Gretna Farms Assume a War Face.

By Phil Austensen.
A Staff Correspondent.

Camp Reckord, Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 20.—Intensive training in battle practice continued the chief order of the day for the Third Corps, which is in camp at Indiantown Gap. Every unit, both regular and National Guard divisions, is undergoing training for the corps maneuver next week.

This maneuver, while undertaken in accordance with the lines of the first Army maneuver at Pine Camp, is a separate affair with its own problems and plans, although theoretically it is the second line of defense in the Nation's greatest peacetime concentration of troops.

Cover 20-Mile Area.

Troop maneuvers are spread the entire distance of more than 20 miles along the front and included infantry, artillery, cavalry, aviation, and allied services. The area, ordinarily a peaceful Pennsylvania farming and resort section, has taken on a martial atmosphere reminiscent of the early days of the World War. Soldiers are everywhere—on the road, in the towns and villages and in the various camp areas.

Artillery and truck movements clutter the roads, while the usually calm atmosphere is rent by a monotonous barking of rifle, machine gun and heavier ordnance fire. Almost every road turn hides an attacking or defending force or its reserve.

The Twenty-ninth Division, pride of Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, but with chiefly Maryland troops in the field because of the ban on District and Virginia troops imposed by the Pennsylvania State health department, entered more complicaed war problems today.

Move Into Attack.

Having completed training yesterday in battalion attacks, the Twenty-ninth moved into regimental attacks on a strongly placed battalion defending the same railhead attacked yesterday.

The offensive was supported by artillery and aviation units, as was the defense. The Second Battalion, First Infantry, commanded by Maj. Harry Flook, of Cumberland, Md., assumed the defensive in the problem, while Col. Frank A. Hancock, Baltimore, commanded the attacking regiment, the Dandy Fifth, of Baltimore.

Col. Beverly Ober, commanding the 110th Field Artillery, Baltimore, assigned a battery of his outfit to the defense unit of Maryland's fighting First and a full battalion to the attacking force. Each force was assigned one plane from the 104th Observation Squadron, of Baltimore, commanded by Maj. Charles A. Masson.

Hold Chemical Schools.

Division staff officers inaugurated today their special schools of instruction in the technique and tactics of chemical warfare. Seventy-five men began a course in that branch of warfare under direction of Lieut. Col. Carey Jarman.

Col. John C. Pegram held a meeting today at Indiantown Gap of all press representatives in that area and in the Mount Gretna area.

Continuing problems in combat firing, begun yesterday on the rifle range, units of the Fifty-eighth Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Washington Bowie, today studied methods of defense against hostile artillery and machine gun fire. Units engaged today were the First Battalion, First Infantry, Maj. W. B. Harward, and Third Battalion, First Infantry, Maj. Stephen B. Fuller.

Rain Deluges Camp

Strasburg, Va., Aug. 20 (AP).—Emulating the historic ride of Sheridan, the 111th Field Artillery tonight rode 30 miles to Winchester.

Rain descended on the guardsmen's Powell's Fort Valley encampment in torrents. By strenuous efforts, the equipment of the men was kept fairly dry and new bedding issued.

Much of the training was curtailed by successive storms. But special schools and lectures scheduled for subsequent days were held. Lost field drills will be made up.

Col. William H. Sands, regimental commander, ordered frequent inspections by the medical officers during the day as a check against colds.

Three long convoys carried the guardsmen to Winchester, where a band concert was held. The men were allowed four hours in the city, the first to offer its hospitality to the organizations prevented from participating in the first Army maneuvers by the health officials of Pennsylvania and Maryland. As a consequence Strasburg, Winchester and Luray will be the points where a $50,000 pay roll will be spent by the 700 officers and men next week.

Regular training programs will be followed by the batteries tomorrow.

Reorganization Would Help All, Officials Say; Case Set Sept. 5.

By the Associated Press.

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 20.—Hearing on the petition to throw the Harford Pure Rye Distillery Co., of Havre de Grace, into receivership today was postponed until September 5.

The petition was filed by the National Central Bank, of Baltimore, as an aftermath of the finding of a $226,000 shortage at the bank. It alleges that funds used to construct the distillery secured the postponement on the ground that books of the company were being held by United States District Attorney Bernard H. Flynn, and that the distillery could not present its case properly without use of the records.

Four former employes of the bank, including Harry H. Hahn, former vice president, are under bond in connection with the case.

At the opening of the hearing today before Judge Walter W. Preston in Harford County Circuit Court Broadnax Cameron, counsel for the bank, stated its case. He read the bill of complaint, which charged that "through the connivance of its former cashier and vice president, Harry H. Hahn, and entirely without the bank's knowledge or consent," the distillery had overdrawn its account by $226,000.

Attorney Archer, in briefly presenting the case for the distillery, made these points:

That its assets would be dissipated and everyone concerned would suffer heavy loss if the receivership is granted.

That a reorganization of the distillery would benefit all concerned.

That the distillery held sales contracts on grain prices to assure a profit but that, under terms of the contract, if the firm went into bankruptcy, $50,000 would be assesed from the liquid assets.

That major creditors are willing to wait for their claims but that the company which installed the machinery on a conditional sales contract would remove it if the receivership is granted.

Hahn was present today. His attorney, Edward L. Ward, informed the court that Hahn would not testify in this action on ground that he might incriminate himself.

Wedding Cleric Fights Elkton's Ban Upon Signs

Minor Charges Invasion of His Constitutional Rights.

By the Associated Press.

Elkton, Md., Aug. 20.—Charging the ordinance violates the Constitution of the United States, the Rev. Edward Minor, one of Elkton's "marrying parsons," today sought an injunction to restrain the town council from banning roadside signboards.

The ruling, which took effect August 4, deprives him of the right of conducting marriage ceremonies for certain persons and, threefore, causes him loss of income, the injunction petition charges.

Minor argues the ordinance violates the constitutions of the United States and Maryland, and contends it will continue to work a hardship on him unless he is allowed to maintain his roadside signs as he did prior to August 4.

The petition was filed in Cecil County Circuit Court through the clergyman's attorney, William J. Bratton. No date was set for a hearing.

The parson asserted the council's new law is "unreasonable, arbitrary, oppressive and an abuse of any sound discretion which may lawfully have been reposed in the President and commissioners of Elkton."

County Asks Railway Line Continuance

Anne Arundel Officials Move to Have State Restore Service.

By the Associated Press.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 20.—The State public service commission was requested today by the board of Anne Arundel County commissioners to take steps to continue full operation of the South Shore branch of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway.

With operation terminating at midnight over the main line between Annapolis and Baltimore and Washington, the commissioners held operation of the South Shore branch was a "public necessity."

The commissioners acted after they had been notified that with operation of the main line and the South Shore branch terminating, George Weems Williams, railroad receiver, would have no further responsibility in bridge maintenance.

The public service commission also notified the commissioners that the Peninsula Transit Co. had been given permission to operate bus service from Annapolis to the District of Columbia Line, via Bladensburg over the Defense Highway.

Bus Franchise Asked

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is expected to file an application with the Public Service Commission tomorrow asking permission to establish a bus line from Jessups Station into Fort George G. Meade.

Service of the line will not start for several days, however, so residents of the Fort will have no transportation service tomorrow, due to the cessation of the present bus line operated by the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad.

Establishment of the new line means that only two sections of the old W. B. & A. system will have service maintained on them. They are the bus line and North Shore Division between Annapolis and Baltimore.

The Red Star Bus Line has filed petitions asking for a franchise to serve part of the South Shore division, but the Public Service Commission has not acted on it.

Girl Killed, 2 Youths Hurt in Auto Crashes

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—A Hopewell girl was killed and two Petersburg youths were severely injured today in two accidents on the Petersburg pike.

Miss Alice Jones, 17, died of a broken neck when the car in which she was riding with a Richmond man crashed on the Richmond-Petersburg trolley line near Falling Creek at 8 a. m. today. Jessie Crumpler, 21, and John Mayo, 15, of Petersburg, were injured this afternoon when their light truck and an oil transport truck collided three miles from Petersburg.

Youth of 200 Bone Fractures Breaks More in Auto Mishap

By the Associated Press.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 20.—Suffering fractures of both arms, a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries, Thornton Palmer, 19, was in a serious condition today at the Annapolis Emergency Hospital as the result of an automobile accident.

Dr. George C. Basil reported members of the youth's family stated he had suffered 200 fractures during his life. The physician said that Palmer, who lives near Riva, has an ailment causing fragility in his bones.

Palmer was riding last night in a machine which, police said, was driven on the Riva road by Frederick L. Gollard, of Eastport. Near the South River bridge, Goddard's car and a machine driven by R. M. Fickin, of Washington, sideswiped, Goddard's machine going off the road and turning over.

State Patrolman J. C. Gates charged Fickin with operating without a license and reckless driving. He was released in $1,000 bond by Police Magistrate Joseph M. Armstrong pending the outcome of Palmer's injuries.

17 New Cases Of Paralysis Hit Virginia

Albemarle County Is Again Invaded by Disease.

Some School Boards Postpone Opening of Fall Term.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—Infantile paralysis attacked Albemarle County with renewed vigor and invaded two counties hitherto free of the disease today as 17 new cases were reported to the State health department, whose record showed 220 cases had been registered in Virginia since August 1.

Dr. Sidney B. Hall, superintendent of public instruction, revealed that some local school boards were postponing the opening of public schools because of the prevalence of poliomyelitis, but said State school authorities were not receiving formal notice of postponements and noted no indication of widespread apprehension.

Of the 11 cases reported today from Albemarle, 6 were in the county and the others in Charlottesville. Others were reported as follows: Amelia, 1; Arlington, 1; Buchanan, 1; Nottoway, 2, and Warren, 1. Buchanan and Warren counties had not previously reported a case. Franklin County reported its first case yesterday.

Dr. C. H. Eller, Albemarle health officer, pointed out that the large totals reported from that county in the last two days reflected an increase over the week-end.

Sees Decline Near

By the Associated Press.

Dr. R. C. Williams, of the United States Public Health Service, forecast yesterday the peak of the infantile paralysis siege in Virginia should be reached within the next week or ten days, and indicate a definite decline in the number of cases in the State should be noted within the next two weeks.

The service chart on which is plotted the rise in the number of cases in comparison with that of other years was said by Dr. Williams several weeks ago to indicate definite decline might be expected to begin late in August.

Health Meeting Called

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 20.—Garland R. Quarles, Handley High School superintendent, announced today that a meeting of the board of health will be held about September 1 to determine if the infantile paralysis threat definitely is removed. It previously had been announced school would open September 9. A committee has been named by the Board of Education to meet the health officials.

Walton to Contest Primary Election

State Senate Candidate Files Notice in Court.

By the Associated Press.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 20.—H. H. Walton, of Louisa, defeated candidate for the State Senate from the Twenty-seventh District in the August 6 Democratic primary, today filed notice in Spotsylvania County Circuit Court that he would contest the election and ask to have the result set aside.

State Senator George Allen, of Richmond, counsel for Walton, is expected to present a motion to invalidate the election before Judge Frederick W. Coleman in the September term.

S. Bernard Coleman, Fredericksburg attorney who won the nomination over Walton by a margin of 14 votes, according to the official tally, made no comment when notice was served on him today. The district comprises Fredericksburg and Louisa, Orange, Spotsylvania and Stafford counties.

Mount St. Joseph Art Teacher Celebrating His Golden Jubilee

Brother Constantine Will Have Several Graduates About Him Today.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—Brother Constantine, C. F. X., professor of art at Mount St. Joseph's College here, tomorrow will celebrate his golden jubilee as a parochial instructor with several of the hundreds of men he has launched on careers.

Visits from his former students are among his greatest pleasures, the teacher says.

"Eighty of my boys came to a reception at Richmond last month. They used to remind me of all the things I used to do," chuckled the old schoolmaster. "My, how they rub it in."

Brother Constantine, who has spent most of his years of teaching in Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia, has won recognition for painting. He studied under the famous Duveneck years ago in Cincinnati.

Perhaps his greatest work is a copy of Hoffman's "Agony," which hangs in the Sacred Heart Novitiate near Old Point Comfort, Va. At St. John's Preparatory School, Danvers, Mass., is his copy of "Treason of Judas" and an original, "Christ Revealing Himself to Two Disciples."

In 1911, boys of his classes at old St. Mary's School in Norfolk, Va., posed for his painting of the "Assumption of the Blessed Virgin." When the picture was put on exhibition the "angels" were recognized.

Brother Constantine first taught in this section when he was assigned to St. Peter's School in Richmond. During his 11 years there he had among his students many who have become prominent doctors, lawyers and business men.

BROTHER CONSTANTINE.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, Brother Constantine came to this country when he was 3 years old. He was an instructor at Leonard Hall, Leonardtown, Md.

During the World War he was commandant at a military school in Wheeling, W. Va. Years later he returned to West Virginia to take a post at St. Mary's in Clarksburg.

Virginia Sewer System Urged; Cost 8 Million

Plants Around Hampton Would Aid Oyster Growth in Area.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—Expenditure of $8,370,000 on a coordinated sewerage system for the Hampton Roads area, designed to relieve bacterial pollution in oyster beds and recreational and residential development on the water front, was recommended today by engineers of the United States Public Health Service.

Six plants were proposed in the report, compiled by sanitary engineers H. R. Crohurst and E. C. Sullivan, who advocated formation of a single sanitary district to finance, construct and operate the systems.

The localities included in the scope of the suggested system would include Norfolk, Portsmouth, South Norfolk, parts of Norfolk County on the South Shore, Newport News, Hampton, Phoebus and parts of Elizabeth City and Warwick counties on the North Shore.

An immediate expenditure of $7,616,000 for construction was recommended, and $754,000 for completion of collecting works.

Treatment at the six plants, three at Norfolk, two at Portsmouth and one near Salters Creek, would consist of screening, grit removal, plain sedimentation and chlorination, according to the Federal engineer's plan, except for the suggestion that chemcial treatment in addition to sedimentation might be advisable at two of the plants.

The experts also recommended that sludge be disposed of in the deeper waters of the Chesapeake or at sea, or by incineration as an alternate method.

Named to Bench.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Preston Innsley, of Hollywood, has been appointed a member of the Juvenile Court Board of St. Mary's County.

Peery Puts Off PWA Decisions On University

$950,000 Library Proposal and Hospital Project Awaiting Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Aug. 20.—The University of Virginia's plan to build a new $950,000 library with PWA funds was referred to Budget Director J. H. Bradford for further study today by Gov. Perry after a delegation headed by President John Lloyd Newcomb had discussed the proposal with the Governor.

A request that the institution be authorized to apply for some $61,000 from the PWA to defray part of the cost of erecting a new addition to the university hospital was held up by the Governor until the State budget committee visits the school on its tour next month.

Though the Governor did not committ himself on the proposal for a 55 per cent loan and a 45 per cent grant to finance the construction of the library, pending a report from Bradford, he term it "an opportunity that won't come again."

The proposed new building would be of fireproof brick construction, varying from two to five stories because of its position on a slope on the north axis of Monroe Hall.

Should the $61,000 for the hospital addition be obtained, Dr. J. C. Flippin, dean of the medical school, said, it would be added to $75,000 donated by Paul G. McIntire for the purpose, making the total cost approximately $136,000. The new wing would provide two floors to be used for hospitalization of mental patients.

The delegation headed by President Newcomb included Lewis Williams, Richmond attorney and member of the board of visitors; Hollis Rinehart, of Charlottesville; Dr. C. C. Lentz, superintendent of the University of Virginia Hospital; Dr. Flippin; Arthur Jones, State public welfare commissioner, and Dr. J. S. DeJarnette, head of the Western State Hospital. The latter two were interested in the hospital project.

Bi-Partisan Parleys Plan Of Gov. Nice

Desires Legislators to Hold Hearings on Tax Proposals.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—A series of pre-legislative conferences and hearings to pave the way for the special session of the General Assembly next February is being planned by Gov. Harry W. Nice.

The Governor, discussing his plans today, said he would ask presiding officers of the House and Senate to designate the money committees of each House as special groups to hear tax proposals. Republican floor leaders would be included in the special committees.

Nice's Statement.

The special session is necessary to provide State funds for relief and old-age pensions. The Governor's decision to request the January hearings is an enlargement on a suggestion previously made by Senator Raymond E. Kennedy (Democrat), Fifth District, Baltimore.

"Toward the latter part of the year, when our future needs will be more clearly visible," Gov. Nice said, "I expect to confer with President Lansdale G. Sasscer, of the State Senate, and Speaker Emanuel Gorfine, of the House of Delegates, and ask their co-operation in arranging the hearings, to be held in Baltimore.

"This special sub-committee could invite any and all delegations with tax proposals to appear before it. It could devote a week to listening to their proposals, whether these be for a continuance of the present 1 per cent gross receipts tax, a 2 per cent consumers' tax, commodity or luxury tax, or any other form of taxation.

Time Saving Envisaged.

"A week of hearings would leave three weeks in which the sub-committee could decide upon and prepare legislation. I am sure that its recommendations would carry weight with the Legislature. Such procedure ought to result in the special session doing all its work in half the time of the constitutional limitation of 30 days."

The Governor said he would ask that Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor and the Board of Public Works also sit in on the hearings. The Board of Public Works is composed of the Governor, Comptroller William S. Gordy, jr., and State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles.

Giant Army Airplane Will Undergo Tests

Baltimore, Aug. 20 (AP).—The new giant high-speed bomber turned out by the Glenn L. Martin plant here probably will take off tomorrow for Dayton, Ohio, to undergo United States Army tests in competition with other new ships.

Bad flying weather delayed the departure of the all-metal midwing monoplane, officials of the Martin factory said today. W. K. Ebel, assistant chief engineer for Martin, will be at the controls on the Dayton flight.

There Seems to Remain the One Simple Question, Do You Wish "Smilin' Thru"?

Revival Hinges On Public View Press Receives

By Nelson B. Bell.

This business of shall-we-or-shall-we-not revive "Smilin' Thru," in its talking version, starring Norma Shearer, is proving a source of considerable conflicting opinion.

There are, to be sure, potent arguments on both sides—insofar as they have expressed themselves to this column through the mails. There is, for example, the note from Loretta Scott, 518 District Bank Building, which, no doubt reflects the point of view of an appreciable segment of the picture-loving public. Miss Scott writes:

Dear Mr. Bell: The beauty and charm of "Smilin' Thru" is still fresh in my memory, but please don't revive it. This may seem like a paradoxical request, but it really isn't.

Even in three years the motion picture industry has made great strides forward, technically. It would be something of an anti-climax to see again a picture that thrilled as did "Smilin' Thru" and have it seem flat because it is not up to par, mechanically, with present day pictures.

From a commercial standpoint, I have heard that the revival of a picture is seldom a success. Would it be wise to suppose "Smilin' Thru" an exception?

"Smilin' Thru" brought smiles and tears to us all. It will not soon be forgotten.

Let's keep it a lovely memory in our gallery of favorite pictures. Yours truly, (Signed) LORETTA SCOTT.

There does seem to be a slight accretion on the deficit side of the ledger when even the best of the major productions have attempted to revive something of their pristine glory in reanimation.

But then, too, there is the viewpoint of the person who never saw "Smilin' Thru," when it was a current release, to be taken into consideration. Miss Flora B. Gill, 3011 Rodman street northwest, has this to say:

Dear Mr. Bell: The household began coughing violently as two weeks worth of prancing dust bounced off a typewriter, recalled from oblivion, into eyes and throats. I had just read the latest column of the erudite (sic) Mr. Bell.

The whole affair fascinated me strangely. It has been only a few years since first I started bewailing having missed "Smilin' Thru." But bewailing even with such an interesting subject to bewail, does get boring after a while—one craves action. Now, having taken a hasty consensus of people's opinions, I am all set for the approaching hop to the local theater bearing the "Smilin' Thru" placard.

I can afford to be definite; I have had a vision! Mr. N. Bell sprawling, buried under 93,234 letters, all pleading, "'Smilin' Thru,' by all means!"

There is no reason why he shouldn't be. People go to see Miss Shearer by herself; they would rush to see Leslie Howard without another person in the picture, and it certainly takes few extra trimmings to lure the fans to a Fredric March film. With all three of them together, then, the only question would be whether to call it Utopia or Paradise! It has also been confided about these United States that such other little items as story, dialogue, plot, etc., have not been so sadly neglected. Even if Hero Howard does die in the end, I'm on my way!

Coming to the End of the Trail Note: I will take pity upon a poor, suffering columnist and leave out the other dozen or so reasons for revival.

When some appreciative persons want to see it still again, one would be a pretty poor specimen who wouldn't care to view it for the first time. This creaking typewriter will gather lots more dust ere another such opportunity comes along. My ticket is practically bought! Yours very truly, (Signed) FLORA B. GILL.

Thanks for the pity, but while I am plenty poor, I am not suffering. With you-all writing a column for me like this? Don't be silly!

But to get along to the third and seemingly prevalent group who have seen and remember "Smilin' Thru" and wish to see it again. Typically representative of this palpable majority, I offer you the point of view of Mr. Frank Ford Burnet, 1449 Fairmont street northwest who, at times, even has contrived to annoy the usually complacent Miss Isabelle M. Parks. Mr. Burnet:

Dear Mr. Bell: Yes, I should like to see "Smilin' Through" again.

The appeal of this picture was universal. Critics and public alike praised it, and I believe Washington would like to see it again. Its like has not been produced since.

I liked "Smilin' Through" because it was a fine and beautiful romance, without the eternal triangle or cocktail-and-kisses nonsense. It was straight goods, all wool and a yard wide.

The power of love as a moving, unearthly force in the lives of men and women was well illustrated. It was never permitted to descend to the usual level of sex appeal; throughout the picture we felt that here was love and tenderness incarnate; this spirit pervaded every scene.

This mystical quality was lifted to great heights in the final scenes when the spirit of his own sweetheart returns to the hate-filled Leslie Howard and brings to him anew the old conscious-ness of love. Here is adequate testimony that "it's love and love alone that can repay." Very truly yours, (Signed) FRANK FORD BURNET.

So there you have a cross-section of public opinion, individually expressed—the "I've-seen-it-and-don't-wish - to - be - disillusioned" group; the "I've-never-seen-it-and-want-to" minority, and the "Yes-I've - seen - it - and - wish-I-could-again" crowd.

Now do you want to see Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Thru" revived at a local theater, or do you not?

I have nothing to sell—I merely am asking.

When the RKO-Radio picturization of Booth Tarkington's "Alice Adams" is presented as major screen feature at RKO-Keith's, beginning tomorrow, with Katharine Hepburn in the title role, the companion attraction, instead of another short subject dealing with the Dionne Quintuplets, will be an RKO-Radio short reel depicting the actual broadcasting of "Major Bowes Amateur Theater of the Air," heard regularly over the NBC network. Major Bowes appears with his proteges and lends the feature all of the appeal of an actual appearance before the microphone.

Roofers Are Praised.

If you must read all of our mail, there is another letter to hand—that would be in addition to the bills—from Edith Mabel Monro Hunter, 5504 Fourteenth street, which pays high tribute to the Willard Players, who are presenting "East Lynne" nightly in the auditorium of the National Press Club. This particular enthusiasm runs something like this:

Dear Mr. Bell: To my way of thinking, there is no better entertainment offered in Washington these days than that of the Willard Players. Last Thursday evening I witnessed for the first time the magnificent acting of this sterling group of players. Unfortunately, I did not see them in "The Drunkard" last year: I have never before so thoroughly enjoyed an evening as I did when I sat informally munching pretzels and sipping ice-cold beer while the sad, sad tale of "East Lynne" was unfolded!

The riotous fun and nonsense were perfect—simply perfect—entertainment for a hot summer evening. And that gifted master of ceremonies, Mr. Isham Keith, with his joyous, enthusiastic smile, would make anyone forget the troubles of the day and swing right along with him in the community singing * * * I did not mean to bore you with a long letter, but I just have to "let off steam" in my appreciation of those very excellent players and the hilarious evening they offer.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) EDITH MABEL MONRO HUNTER.

These words of praise are approximately what I have heard from every source concerning the merits of the Willard Players' "East Lynne" as it is being performed at the Press Club. Had not unpropitious circumstances prevailed last Saturday evening I should have been perched at a ringside table with my beer and my pretzels and my other impediments as the guest of Miss Myrtis Morgan, that gracious lady who has had a finger in so many recent local theatrical enterprises.

It has been practically a lifelong wish that my luck might change. In time, no doubt, it will. I can look ahead with utter confidence as to the nature of the change. It will get worse!

Reverting momentarily to the screen revival of "Smilin' Thru," starring Norma Shearer, it seems that balloting is going on with astonishing regularity at Loew's Columbia Theater. Since last Friday, more than 1,000 patrons have voted on the matter and an overwhelming majority are in favor of bringing back this excellent subject. It may be reiterated here that there are a $5 cash award and five pairs of guest tickets for readers of this paper who advance the most interesting reasons why "Smilin' Thru" should be seen here again. This column is the sole judge. All letters, to qualify, must be in the hands of this writer not later than Saturday morning.

How They Rate.

There is some voting going on also at Loew's Palace, where a rowdy little item known by the name of "China Seas" is occupying the screen. Patrons lending their attention to this daring bit of recklessness are requested to express which star in the film they enjoy most.

So far, according to latest tabulations from the adding machines of Lou Brown, who has such matters in hand, Clark Gable is the front runner, as we say over in the back stretch, with a total of 1,832 votes; Lewis Stone, second, with 1,498 votes, and Lean Harlow, third, with 1,216.

Wallace Beery, strangely enough, is a deep fourth, with 1,090 votes, and Bob Benchley, the funniest individual in the entire goings-on, is trailing with 598.

This voting might be conservatively construed as pretty nearly down to brass tacks. It represents a huge slice of Washington's picture-going public, for "China Seas" has attracted phenomenal week-end business.

According to old Col. Angie Ratta, the distinguished major factotum of the magic lantern emporium at the corner of Thirteenth and F, 34,614 persons paid admission to see this picture over the three-day period of Friday to Sunday, inclusive.

"Annapolis Farewell" has received the official "O. K." of the United States Navy Department. That admirable picture, therefore, will be accorded a gold-braid and white-shoe world's premiere in the Metropolitan Theater on Thursday night of this week, opening its regular engagement on the screen of the Warner Brothers' Earle Theater next day. This is the opus to which the drama desks of the Capital contributed suggestions of a talented and pulchritudinous nature when the film was "in work" down at Annapolis. The drama desks and their embryo stars are invited to a preview of the fillum in the projection room in the Earle Theater Building today at 1:30, by General Zone Manager John J. Payette, of the Warners' local organization. It should be fun, if they are the proverbial "faces on the cutting room floor"—which I am given to understand they are not.

Dots and Dashes.

The Hedgerow Theater of Rose Valley, Pa., 13 miles outside the city limits of Philadelphia, will close its doors on Saturday, October 5 . . . And the following Monday morning 16 of its acting company will start on a 20-State tour of the country in a repertoire of nine of the theater's 113 plays . . . This is one of the most famous and most successful of the "roadside" acting groups and boasts Ann Harding as one of its graduates . . . And speaking of "Roadsiders," interested spectators at the Roadside Theater's production of "Murder in the Red Barn" recently, were Ethel Barrymore Colt and Douglas Rowland, of the Jitney Players . . . It was the Jitney outfit that first revived "Murder" about six years ago . . . Its two young practitioners, daughter of the revered Ethel Barrymore, and Mr. Rowland, simply could not stay away . . . Ethel the second originally played the role now impersonated by Janet Coon . . . The last pictures made of Will Rogers and Wiley Post at the take-off of their tragic flight, are on view on the screen at the Warner Brothers Earle Theater as clips in the Universal Newsreel, enunciated by Graham McNamee. . . . One forgets so many things at a deadline hour . . . And how strangely appropriate that term seems, in the circumstances . . . It could have been recalled, in yesterday's piece, for example, that Will Rogers was an ardent booster at all times of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, although ostensibly—and actually, for the matter of that—a Democrat . . . Never did he miss an opportunity to pay tribute to Teddy's Americanism . . . What fred the late President Harding was Will's crack from the stage of "The Follies," somewhere about war time, that there was no use talking about an American expedition to Mesopotamia . . . Even if we knew where it was, we wouldn't know how to get to it . . . And the late President Coolidge objected to a too faithful impersonation of that New England nasal twang in the speech . . . And when I said something about Dave Montgomery's fatal illness, I should have added that Dave never was a 50-50 partner with Fred Stone in the famous team . . . When the team drew $1,500 per week, it is reputed, Fred got the grand and Dave the $500 . . . Dave put most of his $500 in Arabian horses of high pedigree that pranced about nicely but produced no monetary dividends . . . I have been trying for days to remember the name of the stage manager of all those old "Follies" . . . It was "Bill" something-or-other, and he used to work in the "Night in a London Music Hall" business with Chaplin . . . Or maybe succeeded him as the drunk in the stage box . . . And then there was the time when Will came to town to see his daughter, Mary, act in "On to Fortune," one of last season's "floppos" at the National . . . And saw her a total of about 15 minutes . . . Then flew on to New York . . . How flying did influence the major trends in that man's life! . . . He was cracked up once or twice . . . He was pinch-hitter for Fred Stone when Fred was seriously injured in a crash . . . He took planes to all points on the earth . . . And then perished with one of the world's greatest fliers on a pleasure jaunt! . . . I could tell you about the time I sat around the Astor, where he lived in New York, and tried to persuade him that Flo Ziegfeld would sanction his coming to Washington to one of Harriet Hawley Locher's "Celebrity Breakfasts," when she was president of the League of American Pen Women . . . And how he refused. . . . Of his first use of a "double" when he had to ride, breakneck, down Pennsylvania avenue, during the making here of the film version of Charles Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" . . . Account of because a recent major operation . . . Of the personal appearance of Sam Hardy, George Marion, Sam Roark, producer; Louise Fazenda, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and many others of the cast on the stage at the Metropolitan . . . But not Mr. Rogers . . . Of his designation on that trip to the post of "Congressman at Large," by the National Press Club, at impressive ceremonies in the Washington Auditorium . . . But one forgets so much at the deadline hour.

Ain't-It-the-Truth Note.

And you think I don't need one?

The Roadside

Reprinted from yesterday's last edition.

"MURDER IN THE RED BARN." The Roadside Theater presents the anonymous melodrama in 3 acts and 17 scenes, directed by Anton Hardt, with settings by Edith I. Allen and costumes by Dorothy Croissant. Piano accompaniment by Robert Burbank. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Scarlet heinousness pursues its mad way at the red barn out on the Rockville pike.

Which is to say that the Roadside Players opened the second week of "Murder in the Red Barn" last evening, continuing to score decisively in the anonymous melodrama which last year raised them to the heights of local eminence.

Playing the drama "straight," and for all its dramatic and emotional worth, the Roadsiders have succeeded quite in topping any previous excursion into this type of production.

Eugene Kressin, as the villain, and Gail Dennis, as the "gal done wrong," are the outstanding performers, but though their roles are the dominant ones, nearly every member of the cast individually shines at one moment or another. Especially noteworthy are Janet Coon and William Phillips, carrying the comedy romance; Harold Stepler, as the aged gypsy, and Thomas Cahill, as the heroine's father.

As last year, the entr'acte, "She Is More to Be Pitied Than Censured," again is a terrific smash hit, with Miss Coon and Mr. Kressin repeating their former triumph, abetted by Miss Dennis and John Edwards, new to the present company.

Watching Pictures Made

Hollywood, Aug. 20.

"THANKS A MILLION," is in production. Fred Allen, Patsy Kelly and Dick Powell are in a bus on the set, riding through a storm, for Director Roy Del Ruth. The Yacht Clubs Boys are sitting about, chatting. Ann Dvorak is watching. Rubinoff is sitting in a chair, sleeping, and making the most noise.

Rubinoff, of course, doesn't talk any more in this flicker than he does on his radio programs. His speeches will be said for him. However, as on the radio programs, all the gags on the set concern Rubinoff. Fred Allen says a few words which leads to the cue for Rubinoff to get his violin and start fiddling. He says to Director Del Ruth: "Couldn't I have a little more dialect to get out the fiddle?"

Then, while Rubinoff is playing, Allen says to him: "Get hot." Rubinoff again looks to Director Del Ruth and says: "Can't Allen say, 'Get hot, Rubinoff.'"

The only thing Fred Allen has to say is that when "Thanks a Million" is released in Europe, because of the rate of exchange, it will be called "Thanks a Thousand."

* * * *

Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray are playing a scene in "Hands Across the Table," with Director Mitchell Leisen giving the instructions.

It is a love scene, with snappy chatter, and played on a couch. Miss Lombard is to catch MacMurray with his pants off. Carole has on an evening gown. Fred is wearing his coat and a pair of shorts. His trousers are being pressed. Now "Hands Across the Table" can continue, for the story hinges on this scene.

* * * *

JOE PENNER, Lynne Overman and Ned Sparks are in beds, playing a scene in the flicker, "Collegiate." Jack Oakie enters the bedroom, says a few words to the sleeping beauties, and starts to prepare for bed. Penner, Overman and Sparks are three comedians with their special brands of comedy. You should see them sleeping. You never saw such mugging, even while sleeping.

Jack Oakie is no slouch at mugging. He has his own tricks to steal scenes and take the attention away from the other performer. Now, Oakie admits he is up against keen competition.

When he enters the bedroom, Oakie insists that no one is aware of the fact that he has come into the room. The attention is centered upon the three sleeping comics who are doing their antics. Therefore, to let an audience know he has entered the room, Oakie makes his entrance by banging the door and starting to rattle the drawers of the dresser.

* * * *

While Director Ralph Murphy has his camera focused on Oakie's entrance, Lynne Overman actually falls asleep in his bed. Overman later admits that he likes this role very much, for he is catching up on lost sleep.

Practically all these performers have played in "Collegiate" before. It is another adaptation of "The Charm School." It was also the musical comedy, "School Belles," the flickers, "Some One to Love" and "Sweetie."

"Collegiate," the flicker with all the beds, is the one Peggy Hopkins Joyce is to play in.

* * * *

DIRECTOR JOSEF VON STERNBERG has started work on his flicker, "Crime and Punishment," with Peter Lorre. It is a good wager to bet that Von Sternberg will click with with this one. He is again directing a male star, Lorre, instead of Emil Jannings. All the pictures he made with Jannings were box-office winners.

Von Sternberg appears to be more at ease directing Lorre than he was directing Marlene Dietrich. He seems more certain of himself. He works faster. In one day last week he completed 32 set-ups. This is rapid work for any director; remarkable for Von Sternberg, who is usually exacting. A new set-up is another arrangement of camera lights, and sometimes scenery. When working with Marlene Dietrich there would be 32 takes of the same scene.

While directing a scene between Mrs. Pat Campbell and Peter Lorre, Director von Sternberg, politely, would say: "Now, Mrs. Campbell, we'll play it this way." He wondered why Mrs. Pat Campbell was becoming annoyed.

* * * *

Von Sternberg doesn't know she dislikes to be called Mrs. Campbell on the set. She wants to be called Stella. She says to him: "If you call me Mrs. Campbell I'll call you Jock." Von Sternberg answers: "You may call me anything you wish."

The first couple of days Von Sternberg appears on the set wearing a pair of overalls and sandals. He claims he wore overalls because people are always afraid of him, and he wanted to show them that he was one of the crowd.

Girl, Mother Granted Delay In Murder Case

Judge Yields to Plea for Time in Maxwell Trial; Funds Sought.

By the Associated Press.

Wise, Va., Aug. 20.—Because of difficulties in raising defense funds, Miss Edith Maxwell, pretty country school teacher, and her mother, Mrs. Anne Maxwell, today were granted a postponement until October of their trials on charges of killing their father and husband, Trigg Maxwell, in a family quarrel.

Although granting the plea of the two women's attorneys for additional time, Judge H. A. W. Skeen would not allow the continuance on the ground that strong feeling against the defendants here would prevent a fair trial.

The young woman, who was quoted by Commonwealth Attorney Fred Greear after her arrest as saying that she struck her father with a high-heeled slipper when he endeavored to spank her for "staying out late," will come to trial first in October.

One of her attorneys, A. A. Skeen, who is prosecutor for the neighboring mountainous county of Dickenson, asked for separate trials for the 21-year-old girl and her mother. Greear immediately asked and received permission to try Miss Maxwell first.

The girl, who was returned to her cell in the Wise County jail after the brief court proceeding, has consistently maintained that her mother had no part in the nocturnal family strife in which her father was fatally hurt. Mrs. Maxwell, who is 48, was released again under bond.

Spectators, eager to hear details of the manner in which the blacksmith died, jammed the little Wise County courtroom an hour before the brief proceedings began.

Teachers' Pensions Seen in Collapse

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., August 20.—The State teachers' pension plan has broken down, the public relations committee of the Virginia Education Association asserted here today in urging adoption of a retirement law, to be financed partly with a yearly $500,000 State appropriation.

The contention that the pension plan for State teachers has broken down was substantiated by a claim that retired teachers are now receiving only 50 per cent of the proposed annuities.

Under the proposed law, the teachers would contribute a part of their salaries, and the State a like sum. Provisions would be made for the approximately 1,000 now on the retired list.

Discovering America

With Maxine Davis

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 20.—Mr. August Zinch thinks nothing of the rural rehabilitation program.

Mr. Zinch comes from Grand Island, Nebr., most recently, but I met him outside a great machine manufacturing plant here in Rockford. Mr. Zinch's waistline wasn't exactly corpulent, and he needed to go to the dentist a long, long time ago. But his dinner pail was shiny and new, and Mr. Zinch carried it with the arrogant air of a man who knows it will be filled each morning.

A skilled workman is Mr. Zinch, but born on a farm. Here's his story, and why he doesn't think much of Mr. Tugwell's prospects:

In the fairy-tale days before 1929, Mr. Zinch had been working in a big factory in Chicago. He and his family of five tow-headed little Zinches lived in one of those frame cottages that line street after street of Chicago's west side. They were buying the house. While Frau Zinch worked in their vegetable garden in the mornings, August took the two oldest by the school on his way to work.

Next Chapter Well Known.

The next chapter we all know. The factory went bankrupt. The bank closed. The mortgage was foreclosed. Jobs became fewer and fewer, until there was none. Finally, August packed his family into the now aged and wheezing Ford, and started out to look for greener pastures. But the job drought had blighted everything. They wandered all the way to California, camping here and there until their savings were all gone. Then transient shelter help, with Ma getting a more and more jaundiced attitude toward the questionnaires and the case workers, and the kids out of school, and picking up goodness knows what bad ideas. They'd gotten back to Nebraska when somebody offered them a house and a plot of ground in a rural rehabilitation project. It was a place to stay awhile, a place to send the children to school, and to work. August Zinch was born on an Austrian farm, and so was his good wife. They worked on a farm when they first came to this country. They looked like good material.

"Such foolishness!" expostulated August to me. "In that country, they sin't but one man could make a garden grow. And him not good. His horse, he got it in his basement. His vegetables, they feed the horse almost."

The People Gossiped, He Says.

"The people that lived there, they talked on the relief colony. The kids they said our Madchen and Hans and Emmy was relief kids. I says to Mr. Harmon who is next to us I say I ain't going to bring my kids up as relief kids. Just when I get a job somewheres I'm going to get it. And I don't give a damn what I signed.

"So I got a cousin in Rockford. He says the factory needed good men. I aint forgot how to work. Come with me, Miss, I give you a knock-down to Mrs. Zinch. She come last week."

It's true that a good many of the people of the rural resettlement colonies I talked with are there with their tongues in their cheek. They aren't as enthusiastic as they might be, for the most part.

And it's true that the Rockford factories need men. This is the grandest thing I've heard. Once only a furniture factory town, Rockford is now a heavy industry city. And there's something very like a boom. July reports from 25 factories showed 5,660 men on the pay rolls. That's back to July of 1930. Every skilled workman in town is at work. One factory had an order for a third of a million dollars, for milling machines, in a hurry, and had issued a call for another 100 men. Every No. 1 workman was on the job, and more were needed. The relief load was down, from a peak of 8,000 families to 6,000, and the optimism among the business and working men was only equaled by their vigorous dislike for the Roosevelt Administration and all its works!

Beauty Contest Starts Tuesday At Lake Resort

By Chanticleer.

The Mayfair Restaurant may have Miss France, Miss Germany, Miss Italy and a few others * * * but Chevy Chase Lake is going out for a Miss Washington. And Miss Washington, whomever she may turn out to be, will be sent to Atlantic City with much horn-tooting and siren shrieking.

Yes, sir, Lee Field and the boys in the band and little Leigh Wyndham are in for a little competition now 'way out there on Connecticut avenue where the young folks go for their dancing.

The preliminaries for the contest will be held next Tuesday and the finals next Friday.

* * * *

If I remember correctly, it has been some time since the District has sent a Miss Washington to Atlantic City for the Beauty Pageant. And now some Washington girl has a chance to become Miss America and get a lot of prizes, broadcast tests, trip to Europe and a movie contract.

All you have to do, my little pumpkins, is to send your entry to WOL, at the Annapolis Hotel. And then make the grade at the Chevy Chase Lake preliminaries and the finals.

* * * *

You never can tell what an innocent old lady can do to an orchestra. Now there's the case of Buddy Harmon and his boys at the Mayflower Lounge. They've been busy for weeks compiling a list of songs—every song they could think of. And they thought they had pretty well covered the field when the i. o. l. came in and requested "Pony Boy." Buddy looked in the book. "Pony Boy" wasn't there. Nevertheless the orchestra played the request, it being one of those perennial ditties that every musician knows, one way or another. But it's becoming a swell game, trying to catch the band in a number they don't know. It's a free for all and you can try it, too, any time you're at the lounge.

* * * *

One good chorus of dancing gals deserves another, and the Lotus Restaurant accordingly has brought to its floor the Mildred Drewe Dancing Gems, a scintillating line of little opals, diamonds and pearls who tap and syncopate all over the place. And then there's the Malinoffs, exponents of ballroom dancing in five different languages—that is, in five different styles ranging from the United States to Germany and France. Arline Burke, long, tall girl from the South (South New York, as Master of Ceremonies Norton will have it) sings a throaty ditty in indigo motif, and Pat and Clarice O'Neil meet the customers' approval with a rhythm dance number.

* * * *

Frank McNey is back from his vacation and simultaneously I note a great deal of activity at the Hi Hat—hammers pounding and saws buzzing and all that sort of thing * * * Peter Macias' band is featuring the new tune from "Top Hat" at the Powhatan Roof these evenings.

* * * *

Food note: The Levy brothers announce they have acquired a new policy and a new member of the Hangar Club personnel. The new policy is evening dinners, with emphasis on sea food of all kinds. The new member of the firm is—Oscar. Oscar, according to the Levys' is the best lobster and crab fixer-upper in these parts and he's come to the Hangar Club as head chef.

* * * *

What you probably didn't know last Saturday night late * * * when you had tried several places and found them all dark and the folks all gone * * * was that Bill Merriam was having open house for the night spot fraternity. When Barnee and Al Norton and Moe Baer and the rest of the town's maestros and masters of ceremonies had packed up their bass fiddles and put the covers over the pianos they swept in on Merriam Manor for a little playing of their own. Jimmy Bright and Sammy Marks were there, from the Club Habana * * * Judy Ellington from the Lotus * * * Moore and Revel from the Fox Theater * * * Carr Van Sickler and Sid Cowan from the Mayflower * * * Jack Reynolds from the Mayfair * * * Bob Dunnington from Maryland Club Gardens * * * and, well, everyone was on hand. Just like a motorman riding a street car on his day off, you might say.

* * * *

Remember Marjorie King, who made such a hit at the Fox last week in "Going Native?" Of course you do. She's at Maryland Club Gardens this week, with Charlie Mayer, and Bob Dunnington and his accordion, and Al Barkey and the New Yorkers. And somewhere else on this page you'll see the likeness of the very attractive Mary Chrysler, modernistic dancer, who has been held over for a second week at the Gardens. And that fare, with a generous serving of Maryland Club Gardens fried chicken, is as good an evening as you'll ever want.

* * * *

Speaking of the Mayfair, as was the case a moment ago, brings to mind the plan for next week. Each day will be dedicated to a different country, which blends in with the decorations (both of the mural and waitress variety) and the menus even will follow the plot. For example, chop suey on China day, spaghetti on Italy day, corn beef and cabbage on Ireland day. Nice, what?

* * * *

Dick Butler, Hamilton's new boss, has been doing a little statistootics. He's discovered that the campaign at Hamilton's Alexander room and more recently, of course, in the rainbow room to put the Tom Collins where it ought to be in the public affections, has made progress. He reports that 37,000 8-inch 14-ounce Tom Collinses have been dispensed to a thirsty public since July 8. That would be, according to Boss Butler, enough Collinses, if laid end to end, to extend 4½ miles.

* * * *

St. Clair and Day have been held over at the Shoreham Terrace for a second week * * * and Barnee celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday Saturday night by cutting a huge cake out on the terrace. Barnee's musicians serenaded him with "Happy Birthday To You," and then succeeded in getting him to reciprocate vocally by singing his inimitable version of "Miss Otis Regrets." Marta Kaye returns to the Shoreham doing her "toe minuet" and Lew Hoffman performs most intricate and amusing didoes in his comedy juggling turn.

* * * *

Wonder what the Arlington really will be like when the Government moves in. Tsk! tsk! Stenographers, statisticians, big-wigs and economists (or some such line-up) on the first to top floors—and the Club Habana on that breeze-swept roof after dark. Anyway, that will go on until October 1 and if you want to go night-clubbing in a Government office you'll want to do it before then.

* * * *

Last-minute note: Hear ye, hear ye! Milt Barrett has a birthday on the twenty-eighth and so many of his friends and patrons have asked for a "birthday party" that he's decided to celberate with noise-makers, confetti and other New Year's Eve gadgets and—well, make it a midsummer New Year's Eve at the Dude Ranch. You're invited to make it a successful evening, too.

Her Dancing Popular at Club

Strange as it may seem, this comely young person in conventional attire is a modernistic dancer, and a good one, too. She's Mary Chrysler, who has been held over for a second week at Maryland Club Gardens.

ATTEMPTING to improve working conditions in the construction field, the Walsh bill, which was passed by the Senate a few days ago, provides that bidders on Government contracts must observe standards set up by the NRA. The bill is now in the hands of the House Executive Committee, which held a hearing yesterday.

Under the provisions of the bill, contracts will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder.

The main purpose of the bill is to guarantee some sort of decent labor conditions, Lee Somers, publicity director, A. F. G. E., pointed out yesterday.

Another feature of the measure is its effort to prevent unfair competition in such Government construction work as the Navy Yard and the arsenal.

The A. F. G. E. is said to have been favoring the Copeland-Connery bill, which is reported to have provided for a further guarantee to improved working conditions on Government construction projects.

Agriculture Activities.

Through the Athletic and Recreational Association, Agriculture, organized exercise and games, intra-bureau and intra-departmental, are promoted and fostered. This is probably the only department to boast of a well conceived plan and purpose of organizing employe activities on a large scale basis.

STOCKBERGER.

In discussing the Agriculture program of activity, Dr. W. W. Stockberger, director of personnel, said:

"Every normal person seeks for some form of activity apart from his daily work as a means of relaxation.

"To the many who are strange to Washington, the A. R. A., with its constantly growing list of sports and activities, and the Musical and Dramatic Guild offer a means of developing acquaintances that are of great value to the department.

"They tend to bring together employes of all levels from messenger to chief—and to develop an understanding and recognition of merit that will promote leadership and the recognition of talents, to the end that employes will be better able to paricipate in group work. These activities afford an excellent opportunity for self-expression otherwise unobtainable.

"Of great value is the fact that we can accomplish work more satisfactorily when dealing with persons we know."

Information concerning possible new or existing activities may be obtained from Joseph D. Cooper, Biological Survey.

Miss Polly Freling (C), NRA, will sponsor a luncheon and card party for a group of NRA employes at the Re-Car House Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m. About 20 girls from Division 1 and Personnel Section are expected ot attend.

Moonlight Cruise.

Dancing and other novelty entertainment will be features of the moonlight excursion on the Potomac tonight, sponsored by Treasury Post, No. 35, American Legion, and the Procurement Division, Employe Federal Credit Union. Special programs have been arranged by Jarboe's Orchestra and Handlebar Hank's Hill Billies. The cruise will begin at 8:45 p. m.

Abner H. Ferguson, prominent District attorney, has been appointed general counsel, FHA, to succeed Roger J. Whiteford, who has resigned. Mr. Ferguson became affiliated with the housing administration in December, 1934, serving until the present time as assistant general counsel.

By Dave Herman.

DEFYING the rain, the wind, a waterlogged course and other trying conditions that combined to make the 36 holes a test of both courage and shot-making ability, Bobby Riegel, 19-year-old pride of Richmond, fired a brilliant 147, 5 over par, yesterday, to win the medal by a 2-stroke margin in the National Amateur sectional trials at Indian Spring.

Riegel set a burning pace for a field of 61 aspirants, and showed the way to 13 qualifiers, 7 of them from Washington, 2 from Virginia, 2 from Baltimore, 1 from North Carolina and another from Tennessee.

Levi Yoder, the slim, black-haired Indian Spring star, late of Linville, N. C., gave Riegel a merry battle for the medal before yielding the honors with a 74—75—149.

Others in List.

Other District golfers who made the grade and will compete in the all-match play championship at Cleveland, starting September 9, follow:

Roger Peacock, of Indian Spring, 75-76—151

Hickman Greene, of Manor, 76-77—153.

Harry Pitt, of Manor, 75-79—154.

Maury Nee, of Columbia, 78-76—154.

Baltimore's successful participants out of a contingent of 12 were Don McPhail, of Baltimore Country Club, with 76-80—156, and Eddie Semmler, of Hillendale, with 79-78—157.

Fondren, Brumley Score.

Two of the five "floaters," transfers from other sections, who equalled or bettered the highest qualifying score here, and thus won places were W. D. (Dub) Fondren, of Biltmore Forest, N. C., who had 75-80—155, and Judd Brumley, of Knoxville, Tenn., who scored 77-80—157.

Riegel's rounds of 74 and 73 were considered remarkable, considering the handicap under which he labored. He, like other challengers, started out his morning round in a driving rain, accepted fives on the first two holes, went out in 37, came home in 37, and, at intermission found himself locked in a tie at 74 with Yoder and McKee, both of the host club.

Told that he needed his 4 to clinch the medal, Riegel poked a great second shot out of deep rough on the thirty-sixth hole within 6

Tops U. S. Amateur Trials Here

BOBBY RIEGEL,
Richmond youth, who shot rounds of 74 and 73 for a 147 total to lead the field in the sectional qualifying for the National Amateur Golf Tournament at Cleveland next month. Riegel was one of eleven to qualify from the Washington sector.

This Morning . . .
With Shirley Povich

ANOTHER bat is heard from in the race to lead the American League hitters, and it's high time. Jimmy Foxx, who had no business down there among the .310 class where he has been residing for weeks, climbs into the list of the First Five with his present figure of .330 and now constitutes the most dangerous threat to Joe Vosmik, who has bounded back into the lead with a .348 average.

POVICH.

To raise his average to .330, Jimmy Foxx has been averaging .400 for the past month. With four hits in eight times at bat yesterday, he finally reached the select circle and now his sights are aimed on Vosmik, 18 points ahead. Between Foxx and Vosmik are Buddy Myer and Roger Cramer with their .345 averages and Hank Greenberg with his .346 figure, but in deference to his past campaigns, Foxx rates as the betting favorite at this writing.

With the Tigers making a show of the American League pennant race, the individual batting championship is providing a saving feature for the league season. The morning glories have faded, five veterans of past batting wars are fighting it out to the finish, and each day's box scores see the leaders violently shuffled. Philadelphia has an entry in Foxx and Cramer, and baseball interest is being sustained in Cleveland and Washington by the possibilities that Vosmik or Myer may lead the parade at the finish.

They want their hits, do these batters who have a chance to finish on top of the heap. A ball player always wants his base hits, but in the case of a league batting champion it is an extremely handy asset. The man who can point to the league batting title has a powerful argument when the time comes to talk salary contracts with the club owner. The heavy artillery is on his side.

THE surprise of the race for batting honors is, of course, Buddy Myer. The doughty little Washington captain who never averaged better than .313 in any given season is sporting a .345 average that is a tribute not only to his batting eye but to his speed afoot. None of the leaders can approach Myer in the number of infield hits beaten out. A left-handed batter who breaks fast from the plate and has the advantage of batting from the side nearest first base, Myer at one point during the season boasted 15 infield hits to his credit in a span of 30 safe blows.

Myer, smallest of the men now fighting for the lead, is handicapped, of course, by his comparative lack of power. With his inability to rocket the ball through the infield with the same speed that such huskies as Greenberg, Foxx and Vosmik can impart to it, Myer sees a goodly number of his blows fielded by the infield. He may hit the ball as squarely on the nose as Greenberg, Foxx and Vosmik, et al., but the odds are always against the little fellow.

If Myer does succeed in leading the batting parade, he will be the first of the Willie Keeler type to have achieved the goal since Keeler was "hitting 'm where they ain't" when the old Orioles were that rough, tough, rootin', tootin', cuttin', shootin' diamond aggregation. For Myer is the problem child of the league's outfielders with his ability to scatter his shots to any of the three fields. And he can keep the infielders in jitters with his ability to lay down a pretty bunt.

Washington once before, only once, had a rooting interest in the American League batting championship. That was in 1928 when Goose Goslin battled Heinie Manush, then of the Browns, down to the final day of the season, winning the title by a fraction of a point when he made two hits to Manush's one.

Five Men Being Considered For Vacant D. C. Boxing Post

FIVE names are under consideration as the District Commissioners prepared to name a successor to the late Lucian Vandoren, chairman of the District Boxing Commission. The Post learned yesteray. A decision will be announced Friday.

Those being considered for the office are Dr. Robert L. Eller, a boxing judge; Henry De Sibour, another judge and local architect; Ringgold Hart, an attorney; Maj. Harry Leonard, retired Marine officer, and Kenneth Parkinson, sportsman and boxing enthusiast.

Maj. Harvey L. Miller, secretary of the commission, is not a candidate for the office. His name has been advanced with those of other possible appointees, but he stated emphatically last night that he preferred to remain in his present capacity.

All five men now being considered are avid devotees of the ring sport and are frequent spectators at shows. Hart, one of the city's leading attorneys and a close personal friend of Vandoran, and Maj. Leonard, who has had a brilliant and colorful career, are the only attorneys in the group. It is believed that Vandoran's successor will be selected from the legal fraternity.

Leonard, who lost an arm at Peking during the Boxer uprising, was attorney for Gen. Smedley Butler when the famous leatherneck leader was haled before the Senate in an international incident. He is a member of the Riding and Hunt Club and very popular in sporting circles.

While only five are being considered now it is probable that more names will be added to the list today or tomorrow.

Probable Pitchers.

American League.

Washington at Chicago—Russell vs. Phelps.
New York at St. Louis—Gomez vs. Andrews; Pamelee vs. Walkup.
Boston at Detroit—Zoldak vs. Bridges; Welch vs. Auker.

National League.

Chicago at Philadelphia—Carleton vs. Walters; Root vs. Davis.
St. Louis at Boston—J. Dean vs. Smith.
Pittsburgh at Brooklyn—Strader vs. Babich.
Cincinnati at New York—Schott vs. Schumacher.

Bid Entered By Detroit For Fight

Promoter Is Expecting to Reach a Decision by Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Although the much-discussed Max Baer-Joe Louis heavyweight war is due to be fought under the lights at the Polo Grounds, September 24, Promoter Mike Jacobs today postponed naming a definite site until he gives full consideration to a belated but nevertheless attractive offer to hold the fight in Detroit, home of the "brown bomber."

Jacobs was advised of the Detroit offer shortly before going into a huddle with the New York State Athletic Commission, at the latter's request. The fistic fathers agreed to his request for additional time to consider bids.

Decision Is Near.

Jacobs plans to go into the details tomorrow and make a final decision by Thursday, when he will pay another visit to the New York commission.

Detroit's sportsmen, according to the word reaching Jacobs, have pledged a $200,000 pool and will put up $100,000 if and when the promoter agrees to conduct the Louis-Baer match in the motor city. The site would be Navin Field, home of the Detroit Tigers, which seats around 40,000 for baseball and could be arranged to handle upwards of 60,000 for a fight.

This compares with a boxing capacity of about 75,000 at the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants. Jacobs figures the Baer-Louis match will draw upwards of $500,000 anywhere and that it might touch $750,000 in New York.

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP).—Frederic H. Schader announced today that a group of prominent citizens here would bid $300,000 to bring to Detroit the heavyweight battle between Joe Louis, Detroit's hard-hitting "Brown Bomber," and Max Baer, former champion.

Chisox Beat A's Twice To Regain Third Place

Chicago, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox climbed back into third place in the American League by batting out 13-to-4 and 11-to-4 victories over the Philadelphia Athletics in a double-header today. Luke Sewell and Al Simmons hit homers for the Sox in the opener, and Jimmy Foxx banged out a circuit clout in each game to boost his season's total to 25.

A Shot With a Kick in It at Brookline

Frankie Parker, Milwaukee sensation, puts a kick into a forehand drive in the national doubles tournament at Brookline, where he is paired with Frank Shields, of New York, who is seen standing by. Parker and Shields won their way into the third round yesterday by defeating A. C. Ingram and Leroy Weir, of Cleveland, in three sets.

Giants Defeat Reds in Ten Innings

Hubbell in Relief Role; Leiber's Homer Aid in 6-5 Win.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The New York Giants protected their three-game lead in the National League pennant race today, but they were forced to go ten innings and put in a hurry-up call for Carl Hubbell before they came through with a 6-to-5 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

The league leaders, holding a three-game margin over the Cardinals, apparently had the game well in hand when they headed into the eighth with a 4-to-1 advantage and Leroy Parmelee pitching steady ball.

Blows in Fourth.

Then almost without warning, Parmelee blew up for the fourth straight game in which he has started. Three hits, including a double by Pinch Hitter Campbell, sent two runs across the plate and Parmelee to the showers. Al Smith, his successor, was no more successful and after Sammy Byrd, batting for Sullivan, had signaled to drive in the tying run, and Riggs bunted safely, he followed Parelee to the clubhouse.

The former Phillies' hurler passed two men in the ninth, however, and Hubbell was called in from the bull pen with little time to warm up. Riggs' single over Mark Koenig and Lombardi's double gave the Reds a run in the tenth, but Hank Leiber lost no time tying the count with his eighteenth homer of the season. Then with two out and two on, Travis Jackson caught one of the offerings of Don Brennan, fourth of the Cincinnati hurlers, and drove it into short left to send Hughie Critz home with the winning tally.

Home Runs Aid Cards Down Braves

Win, 6-5, as Medwick and Rothrock Hit Ball Out of Park.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Home runs by Joe Medwick and Jack Rothrock, each with a man on base, today helped the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Boston Braves, 6 to 5, despite Wally Berger's twenty-seventh home run of the season.

The wildness of Bobby Brown, who started on the mound for the Braves, accounting for the visitors' first two runs. In the first inning the Cardinals pushed a run across the plate on two bases on balls, a sacrifice and an outfield fly. In the second inning they squeezed in another tally on a base on balls, a stolen base by Orsatti, a single by Durocher and an error by Lee.

Nats' Miscues Give Indians Game, 4-2

Special Dispatch to The Post.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—The Nats collaborated successfully with the Cleveland Indians to inflict an undeserved defeat on Buck Newsom this afternoon. Betrayed by his mates and belabored by the Indians, Newsom was forced to surrender a 4-2 decision to the Cleveland Club.

It was Cleveland's fifth victory in the six-game series with Washington that ended today. But it would not have come about had not the Nats committed a fine bit of hari-kari with three errors in the suicidal first inning that set the Indians up to a 3-0 lead. On his merits, Newsom should have recorded a 2-1 victory.

Newsom did yield 10 hits to the Indians, compared to the 7 the Nats obtained off Willis Hudlin, Cleveland right-hander, but only one of the four runs off Newsom can be catalogued as an earned run.

The errant fingers of Red Kress inspired the Indians in their three-run uprising in the first inning when he fumbled the opening blow of the ball game, a meek grounder by Milton Galatzer. Newsom was in a fair way of nullifying that bad break when he struck out Averill and forced Myer to pop to Vosmik, but Holbrook put Galatzer on third with a wild throw in an attempt to forestall a steal of second.

Johnny Stone Tardy.

Then, with two out, Newsom pitched a double to Hal Trosky, who bounced the ball off the right field wall, scoring Galatzer. Odell Hale followed with a double to the same wall that scored Trosky and

Yanks Defeat Tigers, 6-5; Rout Rowe

Get Three Runs in First and Third, Slice Lead to Six Games.

Four-Run Detroit Rally in Sixth Sends Allen to Showers.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—After being shut out in three previous encounters with Schoolboy Rowe at Navin Field, the New York Yankees struck back with vengeance at the Detroit mound ace today as they defeated the league-leading Tigers, 6 to 5, to get an even break in the four-game series. The victory cut the Tigers' margin over the Yanks to six games.

Held to three hits by Rowe Sunday, the Yankees lost no time getting to the big right-hander. They found him for three hits, including a homer by Ben Chapman, and as many runs in the first inning and then blasted him from the mound in the third when they put together another cluster of three runs on four hits.

During the remainder of the game the Yankees were held to one hit by Joe Sullivan and Elon Hogsett, but the damage had been done.

Greenberg Hits Homer.

Johnny Allen, three times conqueror of the Tigers this year, breezed along with only one run scored against him until the sixth. Hank Greenberg, the first man at bat in the frame, touched off a rally that was not squelched until the Bengals had counted four times, as he cracked his thirty-second home run of the season over the left field fence.

Goose Goslin popped to Saltzgaver, but Rogell was safe, when Gehrig fumbled his grounder. The trouble appeared to be over, however, when Fox grounded out. Owen came up with a double, however, scoring Rogell and continued to third on Chapman's fumble. Gerald Walker batted for Sullivan and delivered a single, which sent Allen to the showers. Jo Jo White greeted Lefty Gomez with a triple, but that was all the damage as the Yankee southpaw held the league leaders in check the remainder of the game.

Brewers Rally to Beat Marketmen, 4-1; Brown Grants 2 Hits

Hurlers' Duel Is Watched By 2,000

Heurichs Score 3 in 9th; Center Market Bows to Acacia, 6-3.

WITH "Lefty" Brown's smoke ball flashing effectively out of the mist on the West Ellipse yesterday, the Heurich Brewers rallied in the ninth inning to save three runs and defeat South West Market, 4 to 1, in the first game of the Industrial League play-off series for the right to compete in The Post Association's week-day play-off.

The score, until the first of the ninth, was 1 to 1, both clubs having played sensational ball afield despite the uncertain going on the wet turf.

Then, in the ninth, "Fee" Collier, chubby Heurich catcher, doubled over third, the ball almost escaping Leftfielder Dick Maupin, who slid desperately in front of it to keep it from going farther amiss.

Pitcher Brown bunted safely and Collier took third when Catcher Xander overthrew second in an attempt to catch the Brewers' receiver between bases.

Chaconas singled in Collier, and then Shelton scored both Chaconas and Brown.

Gets Run in Fifth.

The Marketers made their lone run in the fifth, when Rigleman and McAboy accounted for their only hits.

The teams will meet again this afternoon in the second game of the series. Should the Marketmen win, a third and final game will be played tomorrow. All games will be played on the Ellipse, starting at 5:15.

Bill Albert provided the punch—a lusty home run to the far reaches of the Ellipse—with two on base in the seventh, as Acacia Insurance defeated Center Market, 6 to 3, to take the first of a 3-out-of-5 series for The Post Association crown in the National Capital League.

Albert's blow was the climax of a nip-and-tuck struggle that saw the lead change no less than five times. Lewis and McDaniels, rival pitchers, were tight in the pinches and for a while it appeared the teams might duplicate their 3-3 tie of Monday. Joe Giovanetti continued his flashy fielding, racing to all sides of the second-base territory to cut off potential hits. Another series battle is listed for today on the Ellipse diamond.

League Directors Disallow Protest

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 20.—Directors of the Shenandoah County League, in a meeting held here last night, disallowed Woodstock's protest, which was entered following the Strasburg game here Sunday.

The protest was based on a balk that was called by Umpire Sweetwood, when the bases were loaded in the sixth inning, and Coffman, Woodstock pitcher, made a false motion to third base. The umpire allowed the man on third base to score, and Manager Haslett, of Woodstock, filed protest, claiming that a pitcher can not balk to any base but first with the bases loaded, and that the umpire could not allow a man to score on a balk.

LEE CARLIN.

The wedding took place at 4:30 p. m. at the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church. Attendants were Miss Ruth Wedon and Chris Doose, also a former G. W. U. star.

For the last seven months Carlin has been employed as a physical training instructor at the National Training School for Boys on Bladensburg road. Last year he starred with the Washington Federals, pro football team, and is expected to again be in their line-up this year.

Peacock, prime favorite, was locked with Pitt and Fondren, for second, with 75 at the end of 18 holes. The Indian Spring ace was aided by birdies on the seventh and eighth, rounded the turn in 37, and came home in 38. In the afternoon he had four 5s on his first nine for a 38, and was two over par for the last nine after 3 holes had been played.

National Stars Win Places.

Shining lights of golfdom came through successfully in the National Amateur sectional trials held on 26 fronts yesterday. Scotty Campbell, of Seattle, 1933-1934 Canadian amateur champion, posted a brilliant 141 to top the Metropolitan parade. George Voigt, former Washington star, now of New York, played in old time form to win a place with 73-74—147. Frank Strafaci, National Public Links champion, also was successful, qualifying with 153.

At Omaha, Johnny Goodman, former Open champion, qualified, along with Rodney Bliss, State champion. David Goldman, of Dallas, runner-up in the National last year, led the Dallas field with 143. Ed White, who won the Intercollegiate title at Congressional, also qualified there. Lewis Johnson, of Charleston, set the pace at Charlotte, N. C., and Sam Perry, of Birmingham, with 72-71—143, won the only berth open at Nashville.

Only one Washington golfer who competed in another section in the National Amateur trials made the grade yesterday. Page Hufty, of Chevy Chase, shot 76-73—149, to qualify easily and finish second to William E. Hole, jr., in the test at Schenectady, N. Y. Ernie Caldwell, of Baltimore, failed to qualify.

At Newton, Mass., where eight places were open, Dick Lunn, also of Chevy Chase, failed with a 167. Joe Lynch, Georgetown University golf captain, set the pace at Boston with 76-76—152.

Barney Welsh Easy Winner In 3 Sets

Turns Back Bielfield at New Orleans; Other Choices Advance.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—The eight seeded stars in the men's division of the National Public Parks championships advanced today into pairings with eight unseeded survivors and faced a grand scramble for quarter-final berths in matches tomorrow.

However, Ted Drewes, fourth seeded St. Louis, Mo., Public Parks champion, had a tough time eliminating Edward Nowak, of Buffalo, N. Y., and was extended to five sets.

After taking the first two sets, 6—3, 6—1, Drewes fell victim to suddenly brilliant placement shots of the St. Louis star and Nowak went on to take the next two sets, 6—4, 6—2, and even the match.

Takes Final Set, 6—3.

Drewes finally took to the net in the fifth and deciding set and solved Novak's carefully executed volleying with snappy returns. Drewes took the final set, 6—3.

The tournament's defending champion and No. 1 seeded player, Barnard Welsh, of Washington, D. C., trounced Milton Bielfield, Detroit, 6—1, 6—2, 6—2, after the latter had snatched his first-round match from the fire in a blazing form reversal.

Max Davidson, of Chicago, Welsh's opponent tomorrow, was forced a little in downing Harris Everett, Jacksonville, Fla, in a 6—3, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3 battle. Roy Huber, St. Paul, who plays Maurice Bayon, New Orleans, tomorrow, was stretched in the opening games of his match with young Joseph Turski, Buffalo, N. Y., before he won, 7—5, 5—7, 6—3, 6—3.

Homers Aid Cards To Defeat Braves

inning Rothrock hit a home run after Durocher singled.

Huck Betts held the Cardinals to three hits and no runs in the last five innings, after relieving Brown.

Berger's home run came with the bases empty in the second inning. Whitney was responsible for the Braves' other four runs.

The lowly Braves hit the offerings of Bill Walker freely, but at the wrong time. Jess Haines relieved Walker in the eighth inning with two men on base, but escaped unscathed.

Harrisonburg Nine Nips Culpeper, 2-1

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 20.—In the sixth and final game of the season between Harrisonburg and the Culpeper Athletic Club here this afternoon, the visiters won, 2 to 1.

Wallach, on the mound for Culpeper, allowed only six bingles, none for extra bases, the first run scored on him being due to an error for the first man up. Culpeper scored its only tally in the seventh on Lacy's double, the only extra base hit; a single and long outfield fly. The visitors' final tally came in the seventh and was of the unearned variety, two hits, an error and wild pitch putting it across.

Novice 6 Months Ago, D.C. Girl All-American

JENNY TURNBULL,

Western High and George Washington girl, who has been chosen to play on the all-American lacrosse team which shortly invades England and Ireland. Long a hockey player, Miss Turnbull took up the rougher sport less than seven months ago.

Jenny Turnbull Says Lacrosse Is Best Game for Women.

By John R. Vosburgh.

LESS than seven months ago, attractive Jenny Turnbull, one of several fair graduates of Western High and George Washington University, hardly knew the difference between a lacrosse stick and a lipstick. On Saturday, the same Jenny Turnbull sails for England a member of the first All-American women's lacrosse team to invade England and Ireland.

No product of the fertile imagination of Horatio Alger boasts a more meteoric rise to national recognition than the sun-tanned young lady of Wyoming avenue. Two weeks from now she will be one of 15 girls being wined, dined and toasted in the spacious halls of English hospitality as the pick of Uncle Sam's feminine lacrosse talent. Just how, she was quizzed, "does one go about becoming a lacrosse player?"

"Well, it was like this," says Miss Turnbull, her dark eyes laughing a bit mischievously. "All I did was play some field hockey up at Mount Poconos last year. And then about January the women's lacrosse association, some of the members of which had played at Mount Poconos, invited some Washington hockey players over there to play lacrosse.

"I tried out for the team and made it and then after we played in the national championships in Philadelphia, the people who can pick the All-American team put me on it and in June they asked me if I would like to go to England. Of course, I said I would. That's about all there is to it."

Improved Rapidly.

Miss Turnbull's teammates, however, say that is only part of the story. They tell how she learned the game almost overnight, improved with a rapidity which completely surprised those who had played for years. They go on to explain how the slim-waisted young school teacher—for Miss Turnbull is a physical education instructor at Friends School—showed such lightning-like speed, such aggressiveness, and such a team-play spirit that there was virtually no stopping her.

A natural athlete, it is not surprising from one angle that Miss Turnbull, who was graduated from G. W. in 1930, should take so readily to lacrosse. She swims, plays tennis, rides horseback, motors, plays basket ball and field hockey, excelling in virtually every sport. She was graduated in 1932 from Columbia University with a master's degree in physical education. She has been teaching tennis at a camp in Vermont and drove down to Washington yesterday.

In appearance, the cool, poised, almost sophisticated young lady looks as though she could be as appropriately attired in an evening gown as in the blue-and-white smock-skirt-shorts which comprise her lacrosse suit, for she does up her long golden-brown hair in anything but athletic fashion.

No, lacrosse is not rough, she explains, it is different than men's lacrosse. Oh, a cut now and then, maybe, but nothing serious. It is faster though than men's lacrosse, she thinks. It is faster because there is more passing and less hitting. It is better than tennis or hockey—oh, it is better than any sport.

Keep in good condition? Sure, you have to. But no quotes on that question about a cigarette and a high-ball or two now and then.

Red Sox and Browns Divide Double-Header

St. Louis, Aug. 20 (AP).—"Moose" Solters showed his erstwhile Boston team mates how he had gone West and made good today as he cracked out a double and a homer to help the St. Louis Browns take an easy victory from Wes Ferrell and the Red Sox in the first game of a double-header, 8 to 5. Boston won the second game, 7 to 3.

Martinsburg Tennis To Open on Aug. 26

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 20.—The annual Martinsburg City Tennis Tournament will be held August 26-31, it has been announced by the committee in charge. Both a junior and senior men's tourney will be staged.

A tournament committee composed of Edward Tonry, chairman, Nevin Kilmer, Harold Snider, Max Thompson, Marshall Homer and Lawrence Smith has been appointed to take charge of arrangements.

Blue Sox Win Two.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 20.—The Blue Sox chalked up two more games on their win list over the week-end, when they bowled over the Majestic Radios, of Washington, in a double-header at the league park. The Sox took the first game with the slim margin of one run, 9 to 8, but smothered the Radios, 6 to 2, in the afterpiece.

Errors Cost Nats As Tribe Wins, 4-2

when Johnny Stone was tardy in recovering the hit, Hale raced to third on the Nats' third error of the inning. Knickerbocker singled to right to score Hale with the third run.

Thereafter the Nats played flawlessly behind Newsom, but the damage had been done.

Buddy Myer lost ground again today in his race with Joe Vosmik for the American League batting lead. Myer went hitless in four times at bat against Willis Hudlin, while Vosmik boosted his average with two hits in three official appearances.

Cadore, Former Hurler, Is Seized in Stock Case

By the Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 20.—Leon Cadore, former baseball hero, who once established an all-time record by pitching a 26-inning game for the Brooklyn Dodgers, was arrested on a grand larceny charge today in connection with a stock transaction.

Arraigned in Brooklyn magistrate's court, the former ball player pleaded not guilty and was released in $1,000 bail for a hearing September 13. The complainant was Miss Louise Curtis, of Kings County Hospital.

Grant and Hall Defeated in U. S. Play

Bow to Menzel and Maier; Allison and Van Ryn Win With Ease.

By the Associated Press.

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 20. Roderick Menzel, giant Czechoslovakian, and Enrique G. Maier, of Spain, overpowered Bryan M. (Bitsy Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., and J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 7—5, 6—4, 1—6, 8—6, today to remain the only foreign threat for the American Men's Doubles Tennis championship.

While the Menzel-Maier alliance was driving into quarter-final brackets with Frank X. Shields, of New York, and Frankie Parker, of Spring Lake, N. J., French and English players lost out in marathon matches in the battle for a title that no foreigners have won since the Australians, Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes, were victorious in 1919.

Women's Doubles. Second Round.

Mrs. J. Dallis Corbiere, Southboro, Mass., and Mrs. C. R. Mabley, Brookline, won by default from Mrs. D. P. Caulkins, Mount Kisco, N. Y., and Mrs. J. J. Schieffelin, New York.

Discovery Seeks Ninth Victory in Row in $25,000 Race Today

Vanderbilt's Ace Is Seen Favorite

Assigned 139 Pounds; 10 or 12 to Compete at Naragansett.

By the Associated Press.

NARRAGANSETT PARK, Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 20.—All the tense excitement which attends a world championship event held this racing plant tonight on the eve of the appearance of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Discovery in tomorrow's $25,000 added Narragansett Special.

Discovery will carry a burden of 139 pounds, but despite this impost there was every indication the 4-year-old son of Display and Ariadne would go to the post an overwhelming favorite. The veteran jockey, Johnny Bejshak, has been given the assignment of riding Discovery, victor of eight consecutive major triumps. Johnny was up on each of those occasions.

$29,000 to Winner.

The race will be worth about $29,000 to the winner, including starting fees, one of the richest purses of the year. It will be run over the mile and three-sixteenth route. A year ago Discovery set a mark for the distance of 1:55 flat.

Such is the attraction of Discovery that members of the New York Turf Writers Association will quit Saratoga for the day. Atuomobiles, special trains and steamers have been pressed into service to bring the thousands of turf enthusiasts to the scene.

A special guard stood watch over Discovery tonight as the wonder horse waited one of his most exacting tests.

Ten or Twelve Will Compete.

A field of ten or twelve was thought possible, but the majority of handicappers appeared confident that Carreaud's Time Supply and Vinced Discovery would find Mrs. A. A. Baroni's Top Row his chief opposition. Time Supply will carry only 115 pounds and Top Row 110. Other weights range downward to 102 pounds.

If Discovery is able to make it nine straight, he will be well along the route to rivaling Sun Beau's record winnings of $376,000. The Vanderbilt horse's eight straight purses were the Brooklyn Handicap, Detroit Challenge Cup, Arlington Handicap, Bunker Hill Handicap, Butler Handicap, Stars and Stripes, Wilson Mile and the Merchants and Citizens Handicap.

Sisters Meet for Title.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 20.—Eleanor and Jeannette Campbell, sisters, of Lonaconing, will meet this week for the Allegheny Mountains women's singles title. Jeannette defeated Mrs. Jeannette Eyler Leasure, 6—4, 6—1, at the North End Park to reach the final.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LA CHARITA, $7.40, $4.60, $4.40; CREME DE MENTHE, $12.80, $7.50; COUNTER PASS, $4.00.

LA CHARITA, prominent from the outset, raced restrained while forcing the pace of CLASP, went to the front with a rush when called upon and drew out readily, winning with speed in reserve. CREME DE MENTHE, under steadying reserve for the first three furlongs, closed in determined fashion in the last three-sixteenths. COUNTER PASS worked her way up gradually and closed samely.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:09. Off at 3:11. Winner, Ascot Stable's b. g. (7), by American Flag—Florence Webber. Trained by F. E. Kraft. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23, 0:45 4-5, 1:12. —

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AEGIS, $10.10, $7.00, $5.30; SQUEEZE OUT, $12.50, $7.50; JESSIE D. M., $3.70.

AEGIS, steadied along in back of the pace, moved up on the inside leaving the back stretch, was roused several times and, closing stoutly, wore down JESSIE D. M. and lasted to hold SQUEEZE OUT safe. The latter, restrained while following the pace, was brought to the outside in the stretch and closed determinedly. JESSIE D. M. showed good speed, was much used in racing with CHILIAD and was unable to stave off the bids of the first two. AUNT FLOR saved ground at the stretch turn and was going in resolute fashion at the end.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:43. Off at 3:45½. Winner, Araho Stable's ch. f. (3), by Purchase—Sparke Star. Trained by B. G. Cameron. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STAR CHASE, $17.20, $11.00, $8.20; QUEEN HELEN, $7.30, $4.40; BRIGHT DON, $4.90.

STAR CHASE, away in the first flight, drew clear when leaving the back stretch and, hard ridden to the end, was never seriously threatened. QUEEN HELEN, well placed and hard ridden throughout, continued in determined fashion to the end, though unable to reach the leader. BRIGHT DON, reserved early, came stoutly in the closing drive. LOVITO, well up, was unable to reach the leaders under punishment.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:16. Off at 4:22. Winner, Mrs. F. Williams' br. h. (7), by General Thatcher—Annagh. Trained by L. Williams. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23, 0:46 1-5, 1:11 3-5.

CHIEFS PRIDE	108	2	8	7½	7ⁿ	8½	9	Deering	33.80

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL A., $54.00, $17.10, $8.10; DON MANUEL, $5.30, $4.20; FANCY FLIGHT, $4.50.

GENERAL A. was taken under slight restraint after gaining a prominent position in the opening three-sixteenths, moved up on the outside leaving the back stretch, wore down DON MANUEL after passing the furlong pole and held DON MANUEL safe at the end. The latter improved his position steadily and came willingly under punishment through the stretch run. FANCY FLIGHT showed good speed from the start.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 5:00½. Winner, Mrs. A. M. Creech's b. g. (3), by Torchilla—Vitenna. Trained by M. Parke. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47, 1:12 3-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:46 3-5.

HIGH DELIGHT	104	7	7	9	9	9	9	9	Deering	1.85

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOTE BOY, $17.50, $8.50, $5.60; COL. GREENE, $9.20, $6.00; SINGLE RAGAN, $4.60.

VOTE BOY, steadied along within striking distance of the early pace, wore down MR. PETE for the command approaching the stretch and, hard ridden at the end, held COL. GREENE safe. The latter moved up on the inside in the run down the back stretch, swung to the outside when rounding the last turn, and closed willingly under ride. SINGLE RAGAN, unable to keep up early, came with good energy in the stretch run.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:30. Off at 5:32½. Winner, Miss L. C. White's b. g. (7), by Volta—Poppy II. Trained by J. Gorga. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:39, 1:46 1-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight

BANDERLOG	112	7	7	8	6½	8	8	8	Fels	19.80

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RAMUS, $8.40, $2.90, $2.40; INTEGRITY, $2.60, $2.40; MATHIAS, $2.60.

RAMUS outran his field from the start, drew into a good lead and, steadied along in front, was never menaced, winning with speed in reserve. INTEGRITY, in closest pursuit of the winner virtually all the way and under intermittent punishment, was unable to catch the leader, though holding the place safe. MATHIAS, prominent all the way, weakened slightly in the last furlong.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:05. Off at 6:11½. Winner, Mrs. L. H. Nimkoff's ch. g. (3), by North Star III—Bed o' Roses. Trained by P. Brady. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:24, 0:48 1-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:47 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BIG GAWK, $19.70, $8.50, $6.70; EMPRESS WU, $7.30, $5.30; GOLDFIN, $5.60.

BIG GAWK went into the lead when reaching the back stretch, met determined opposition from SHOT GUN and, shaking him off, drew into a good lead and was in hand at the end. EMPRESS WU, under steadying restraint until rounding the far turn, closed gamely in the stretch, though unable to endanger the winner. GOLDFIN, outrun early, came with good speed in the closing quarter-mile.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 6:43. Off at 6:47. Winner, Miss L. C. White's blk. h. (6), by Waygood—Lover's Lane II. Trained by J. Gorga. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:24, 0:47 3-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:47 2-5.

ON SIR took command in the run to the first turn, was rated along under slight restraint and was never menaced, though ridden out sharply at the end. THREE DAGGERS, slow to begin, moved up with a rush straightening out in the stretch and was up in the closing strides to take the place. THE POTTER, well up, moved up fast leaving the back stretch, was unable to reach the leader and weakened slightly at the end.

Narragansett Park, Aug. 20.

Dear Al:

I received a wire from the boss today and he has cautioned me that he wants no mistakes at Marlboro, so I decided to shift the scene of operations to Cumberland for the remainder of the week. There's nothing like seeing the horses to get a line on them, and, as the same horses move on to Marlboro after Saturday, I'm on my way to the western Maryland track. Clocker Mike, who has been in charge of the half-mile division of Bennings, Inc., has promised to have the speed books up to the minute and I anticipate no trouble in getting in stride. I am leaving Trainer Joe in charge of the New England sector. He has been doing very well for his own purse of late and there is no reason why he should not keep the bookies on the run. Although Joe tried to look sad when I told him I was leaving, I believe he welcomed the assignment. He has a system but I warned him not to try it on our public. After Marlboro is over, Mike and I will hustle back to the North while waiting for Havre de Grace to get under way.

First race—In Front did all that I expected of him last out and I'm going right back. With education this youngster may go on to bigger and better things and he is not outclassed here. Genial Edna and Sky Pirate for the other awards.

Second race—Jubilee Jim has several good efforts to his credit and would be a keen factor here if sent postward. Grog and Ste. Louise are both speedy youngsters and should be there or thereabouts.

Third race—Traitor totes a lot of weight in this bulky field, but I'm going to string along. He is fit as hands can make him. Chimney Top's last was impressive and slight improvement tomorrow would find him in the thick of the battle. Golden Vein, at the right price, could be played.

Fourth race—Red Wagon was caught in a good workout by Trainer Joe the other morning. Breaks off the rail and may make every post a winning one. Sea Fox and Our Mae for the rest. The last named should go well with the feather weight.

Great Lakes Enlarge Fleets To Carry Ores

Iron Mines Stimulated by Expanding Call for Steel.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 20.—As a result of the unusually strong mid-summer demand for iron and steel, prospects for larger shipments of Lake Superior iron ore appear brighter—in fact, the outlook is the best in five years, according to the magazine Steel.

Producers preparing for fall operations now estimate that 27,000,000 tons of ore will be shipped this year, which is an increase of 1,000,000 tons, or about 4 per cent, over their highest estimate earlier in the season. If attaintd, this figure will be 23 per cent more than the tonnage shipped last year.

More important, from their standpoint, the increased consumption indicated for this fall, winter and next spring will give both producers and consumers an opportunity to reduce stocks such as they have not experienced since pre-depression years.

Highest in Five Years.

It is now certain that ore shipments this season will be considerably larger than in any other year since 1930, when they amounted to 47,188,000 tons. In 1934 they totaled 22,064,000 tons; 1933, 21,672,000; 1932, 3,587,000 and 1931, 23,496,000 tons.

The number of iron ore carriers in commission on the Great Lakes August 15 was 174, an increase of 15 since July 15, out of a fleet of 324.

Some of the boats now in service, after carrying coal up the lakes, are not carrying iron ore each trip down, but can be swung over any time—this being the main reason shippers do not expect any substantial gain in the number of active boats over the remainder of the year.

Cotton Continues Nervous on Loan

By the Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 20.—Uncertainity over probable crop loan policies had an unsettling effect in cotton again today, but an early setback was followed by partial recoveries and net declines were only 6 to 11 points.

There was considerable pressure against prices at the start attributed to liquidation combined with some Southern and foreign selling, but after selling off to net losses of 19 to 24 points, prices steadied on trade buying and covering.

Rail Credit Unit Will Pay $735,879

The Railroad Credit Corporation, on August 31, will make its twentieth liquidating distribution to participating carriers, E. G. Buckland, president of the corporation, announced yesterday.

This distribution will amount to 1 per cent of the fund contributed in accordance with the terms of the Marshalling and distributing plan, 1931. It will amount to $735,879, of which $379,884 will be in cash and $355,995 in credits on obligations due the corporation.

With this distribution, the total amount returned by the corporation to participating carriers will amount to $25,755,974, or 35 per cent, of which $11,665,286 will have been paid in cash and $14,090,688 in credits.

Stock Comes to Life After 7-Year Sleep

New York, Aug. 20 (U.P.).—A stock market Rip Van Winkle awakened from a 7-year sleep today and traders scarcely recognized its shrunken form. The ticker tape recorded a sale of 10 shares of Mahoning Coal Railroad common at $515 a share, down 435. The last previous transaction was for 10 shares at $950 a share on November 28, 1928.

Influx of Hogs Gluts Market, Nips High Price

Unexpected Arrivals at Stockyards Exceed Abated Demand.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Hogs sold sharply lower here today in the Chicago livestock market. The break was attributed partly to an unexpectedly large number of hogs received and to a slack demand in dressed meat.

Packing sows and underweight hogs were selling from 25 to 35 cents lower per hundredweight than yesterday. Others were off 15 to 25 cents. A top price of $12 per hundredweight was paid for choice medium weights. This is a quarter under the six-year peak paid last week. Today's receipts were 11,000 hogs when 9,000 had been expected.

The dressed pork market showed declines of 50 cents to $1 from yesterday's figures. Light weight pork loins were quoted today for $26.00@27.00. Last Thursday they were $30.

Market Moves Of the Day Seen In Brief Review

	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	253	174
Declines	367	509
Unchanged	205	155
Total Issues	825	838

Stocks—A headlong slide was checked by support for pivotal issues that bolstered the list. The previous day's reaction was continued at the opening with utilities in the lead. Large blocks changed hands at substantial declines. Some nervousness was felt over Washington prospects before adjournment. Transfers totaled 1,972,570 shares.

Bonds—Heavy selling in Federals that carried prices down on an average of ½ point was main feature. Corporates showed little interest while Italian loans had another sinking spell. Transfers for the session were $15,883,000.

Curb — Although fluctuations were wide and the market active with a turnover of 499,000 shares, closings were mixed with small price changes.

Grains—Fear that the extent of damage to spring wheat throughout North America had not been fully realized led to upturns of around 2 cents a bushel. Buying also advanced corn and oats. September wheat last, at 87¾; corn final, at 74½, and oats last, at 26½.

Cotton—Uncertainity over the expected crop loan kept the market nervous. An early setback was followed by partial recoveries and losses at the close were held to between 6 and 1 points. October last at 11.31.

Sugar—Raw sugar jumped to 3.43, while the refined remained unchanged at 5.10 for the fine granulated.

Coffee—Spot coffee was quiet. Santos No. 4 final at 8 to 8¼, and Rio No. 7 last at 6½.

Bar silver—Unchanged both in New York and London. Last in New York at 65⅜ cents per ounce. In London it was final at 65.09 cents.

Lead Price Raised On Heavy Demand

New York, Aug. 20 (A.P.).—St. Joseph Lead Co., today advanced the price of lead .05 of a cent to 4.10 cents a pound at St. Louis and to 4.30 cents a pound at New York on heavy demand.

The price of lead also was advanced .05 of a cent to 4.25 cents a pound at New York by the American Smelting & Refining Co.

Highlights and Background Of Financial News and Trends

War Stocks Hold Firm but Utilities and Miscellaneous Issues Droop—Government Bonds and Dollars Decline—Wheat Jumps.

By Carlton A. Shively.

New York, Aug. 20.—Weakness in Government bonds, in dollars and in public utility stocks ran along with an afternoon rally in the war group of stocks, including steels, coppers and motors, a fast pace in wheat and a break in cotton. Both the weather and the war talk apparently helped wheat, and at the same time hurt cotton, which also labored under rumors of a reduced Government loan basis. September wheat closed 2 cents a bushel higher at 87¾ cents a bushel. With a turnover of under 2,000,000 shares the stock trading ended with mixed changes.

Stocks were twisted by three main forces. One was the slowing down in buying that is following the rush of investment money in June and July, following the overthrow of the NRA and the tendency to wait to see just how good business is likely to be this autumn. Another was the confusion resulting from the jam of legislation now going through Congress, without regard to anything but the desire of Congressmen to pull up stakes in Washington and repair their political fences at home, with the good will of the President, which most of them still seem to treasure. A third was the lowering of the war clouds in Europe.

On the last score the urge to take flyers in war stocks was much less apparent than it was yesterday, partly on fear that this country might tighten its export gates to all sorts of war goods and munitions. In the leading banks it was said that the Administration has hinted it will not permit the financing of the purchase of a quarter to a half million bales of cotton for Italian account, for which negotiations have been carried on recently. Although the transaction is ostensibly a mercantile one, it no doubt will help Italy in case of a conflict with Ethiopia.

Credit Inflation.

Conditions might change, it is felt here, depending on what stand the British take, but in the meantime the banks do not care to run against the desires of the Government. Wall Street was full of rumors of the declaration of an embargo on all kinds of goods that might be used in war. During the past few days some bills covering Italian copper shipments, in small lots, have been going through in a normal way. Against those forces was the long term feeling that business is improving and that some measure of credit inflation is inevitable, which ought to mean higher prices for common stocks.

It is difficult to see how credit expansion, once it starts in good style, can be stopped, particularly with a new and perhaps more politically minded Federal Reserve Board as set up under the new banking bill, which seems to be pleasing to that acknowledged inflationist, Marriner Eccles. This week's statement of the city banks belonging to the Federal Reserve system shows a tremendous rise, $206,000,000 in demand deposits, which now are close to three billions higher than a year ago. That is mostly business money awaiting a chance to go into something. Loans, both for business and stocks, were up only slightly, but reserves rose sharply.

Favored Stocks.

Money rates were unchanged from the old pegs. Foreign currencies were agitated, but remained under fairly good control. Italian currency, which dropped slightly yesterday, was run up this morning nearly two points, then sank back more than half the distance in a market which is highly artificial. Dutch money was exceptionally weak, but francs were firm.

For all the early hesitation about war munitions, the afternoon market in stocks was colored by renewed buying of steels, coppers and airplanes. Motors followed with a rally. As it happens, most of the stocks that might conceivably be helped for a while by war also stand to profit, for a while from inflation. In addition, as regards particularly the steels and motors, they are stocks that are favored anyhow because of their improvement in earnnigs.

In contrast to the recuperation of steels, coppers, motors, airplanes and miscellaneous industrials, pressure continued on the public utilities and most of the rails. American Telephone, with a dividend meeting coming tomorrow, at which the regular rate is anticipated was pressed down nearly 5 points for a while, but made up a good deal of the loss in the afternoon rally. Weakness in Telephone acted as a drag on the market and emphasized the influence of adverse legislative threats at investment in general and the public utilities in particular.

Both steel and General Motors sold above their previous closing prices much of the time. General Electric and Westinghouse were consistently strong at fractional advances. The good sales report helped Sears, Roebuck and indirectly Montgomery Ward. New York Central stood out from the other rails and maintained a fractional gain over its previous closing price.

Vault Cash.

For the second time in two weeks the reporting member banks show their cash in vault at more than $300,000,000. The $304,000,000 figure, August 14 was $73,000,000 above the more normal total of a year ago. Vault cash does not count as reserve and the amounts now held are far in excess of any operating requirements. The explanation is to be found in the fact that banks are saving money by transferring cash to the reserve banks at less frequent intervals, letting it accumulate in their vaults in the interim. With excess reserves high as they are, the cash cannot earn anything, no matter where it is kept.

Failure.

The Treasury's silver purchase program, which indirectly brought many failures in China, was largely responsible for the suspension of one of the biggest Bombay silver and securities firms today. Since credit information is difficult to obtain in India, no accurate figures were to be had, but it was important enough to halt trading in the Bombay silver market and to break prices of both silver and securities there, though silver here and in London held unchanged at the Treasury's latest peg level. The Bombay firm, which banks here identified as that of Raichand Motichand, apparently was injured by maintenance of a long position of too great proportions at the time the Treasury lowered its bid price for silver in London.

Local Transit Earnings Climb In First Period

By R. Karl von Lewinski.

Vastly improved conditions in the Capital's public carrier business have been reflected this year in an unbroken record of monthly gains over 1934, both by the Capital Transit and Rapid Transit Companies.

Three years ago all of Washington's transit firms were in a precarious financial condition and running into the red month after month. Yesterday the Washington Rapid Transit Co., in its monthly report to the Public Utilities Commission disclosed a net income of $1,832 during July. During the same month of 1934 the bus company reported a deficit of $1,607. The seven months net this year was $22,071, while during the same 1934 period the net income was $9,031.

Capital Transit Higher.

Although the Capital Transit's July report has not been filed as yet, the company reported a 31 per cent increase in net profits during June, as compared with a year ago.

Reorganization of Washington's two street car systems into one concern during 1933 and the more effective regulation of the taxi cab companies have contributed in large measure to the excellent earning records made by these companies.

Of greatest importance to the individual users of the transit facilities is the new equipment and resulting greater safety and comfort that has accrued as the result of profitable operation.

Rapid Transit Revenues.

Total operating revenues of the Rapid Transit Co. during July were $33,966, compared with $29,961 a year ago. Operating expenses increased also, though in lesser ratio, jumping from $29,386 in 1934 to $30,342 during July last.

Nonoperating income during the month was little changed, deductions from gross being $394 less than a year ago. Total operating revenues were $26,053 above the 1934 period. Taxes and expenses took $10,692 more than last year to leave a gain in operating income of $15,360.

Rolfe E. Bolling, president of the Liberty National Bank was reported to be in good condition at Emergency Hospital last night. He was admitted to the hospital on Friday from his residence at Wardman Park Hotel.

Y. E. Booker, head of the local investment banking firm that bears his name will return today from a three-weeks' vacation in New England.

I. J. Roberts, of the Riggs National Bank is spending his vacation on Long Island Sound.

John W. Upp, formerly with the General Electric Co. has become associated with the Philadelphia office of Hemphill & Noyes.

Robert S. Campbell has been appointed manager of the insurance department of Harrell Brother & Roesch, insurance counselors.

Charlton M. Gaines and John H. Rick, of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., have been awarded certificates of proficiency by the American College of Life Underwriters, Philadelphia, Pa.

Bus Revenues Mount To Highest in 5 Years

New York, Aug. 20.—Operating revenues of bus companies for the first half of 1935 are the highest as compared to similar periods in the past five years, according to Carl W. Stocks, editor of Bus Transportation. In the current issue of that publication he says:

"The industry is expanding rapidly at present, particularly in city service, and, with the Federal interstate bus regulatory bill becoming effective October next, it is possible to look forward to a stabilizing influence in the future."

U. S. Treasury Bills 2.4 Times Overbid

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced last evening that the tenders for $50,000,000 of 273-day Treasury bills dated Aug. 21, 1935, and maturing May 20, 1936, which were offered on August 16, were opened at the Federal Reserve banks on August 19.

The total amount applied for was $123,076,000 and the accepted bids ranged in price from 99.960 equivalent to a rate of about 0.053 per cent per annum, to 99.934 equivalent to a rate of about 0.087 per cent per annum, on a bank discount basis.

Sheet Steel Sales Make Sharp Gain

New York, Aug. 20 (A.P.).—The National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers reports sheet steel sales for July at 206,313 tons, representing 68.2 per cent of the industry's capacity. This compares with 128,957 tons or 42.9 per cent of capacity in June.

July production totaled 145,505 tons against 143,309 in the previous months; unfilled tonnage as of August 1 was 170,299 tons compared with 112,944 tons on July 1.

Railroads Get 77% Of Melon Crop Money

By the Associated Press.

Atlanta, Aug. 20.—W. L. Stone, director of the State bureau of markets, reported today that Georgia watermelon growers this season received $619,372 for their crop while railroads collected $2,084,425 for hauling the melons. Shipments this year totalled 11,911 cars compared with 9,000 cars in 1934.

Ruin Wrought By Rust Raises Wheat Prices

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Fear that destruction of North American spring wheat by rust had not been fully realized led to a price recovery of around 2 cents a bushel in the wheat market today.

Pessimistic crop advices from both both sides of the Canadian border coupled with a bullish private survey pointing out the seriousness of domestic spring wheat deterioration encouraged enlarged buying in the futures pit. At the same time, selling pressure was light, with a let-up in hedging operations reported.

Wheat closed 1⅞ to 2⅝ cents above the previous finish, December, 89⅝@89¾, and corn was ⅜@¾ up, December, 55⅝@55¾. Oats gained ½@⅞, rye, 1¾@1¼, and barley was unchanged to a cent up.

Early easiness in corn was prompted by reports of beneficial rains over much of the belt and December dropped to a new low for the season. Later the market firmed with wheat. Oats also responded to wheat action. Provisions dropped 18 to 50 points, the latter the limit permitted for one day.

Board Averts Sugar Squeeze By Trading Ban

By the Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 20.—The board of managers of the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange today suspended trading in the September No. 1 sugar contract and ordered that contract to be liquidated at 2.58 cents a pound, last night's closing price.

By this action the exchange prevented a "squeeze" in the contracts which had been threatened owing to the fact that the Cuban 1935 quota sugar is almost entirely exhausted.

The trouble arose from the fact that under the rules of the exchange, deliverable No. 1 grades can include only Cuban sugar in bond, or duty unpaid sugar still within the Cuban sugar quota at the time of delivery. In other words, with the Cuban quota virtually fulfilled, members were fast reaching a point at which they would have been unable to meet their contracts.

The action of the board of managers was not unexpected in sugar circles as it followed circulation of an exchange questionnaire among the membership. Along Front street, the sugar district of Wall Street, it was understood in well informed circles that the object of the questionnaire was to determine the long and short positions of clients of members of the exchange.

Raw sugar advanced sharply on the announcement that the Cuban quota had been filled, with spot prices showing gains of 25 points to 3.43, while shipment advanced 15 points to 3.45.

The sales reported included 11,000 bags of Philippines concluded late yesterday at 3.35 for September arrival, while today 4,500 bags of Philippines due Septtmber 6 sold at 3.43, 36,000 bags for August-September shipment at 3.43 and 18,000 bags of August-September shipment at 3.44. There was also a sale of 29,400 bags of Cubas in store at Norfolk for October delivery at 3.45.

Bank and Surety Stocks Set Peaks

New York, Aug. 20.—New York City bank stocks, with another sharp advance, again reached new high levels for the year during the past week. The aggregate market value of 16 leading issues on August 16, according to records compiled by Hoit, Rose & Troster, reached a new peak of $1,686,058,000, a net increase for the week of $77,058,000, or 4.8 per cent.

The aggregate value of 20 leading fire and casualty insurance issues reached a new high of $647,513,000 during the day of August 13 and closed the week at $641,328,000. This compares with $643,174,000 at the close of the previous week, a decrease of $1,846,000 or 0.29 per cent.

AUCTION SALES

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1935—
THOS. J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers.
1431 Eye Street Northwest.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF THE VALUABLE EIGHT-STORY AND BASEMENT BRICK, STUCCO AND HOLLOW TILE APARTMENT HOUSE KNOWN AS "CAVALIER HOTEL," LOCATED AT 2500 FOURTEENTH STREET NORTHWEST.

Because of default in the terms and conditions of, and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by the Hilltop Manor Co., a Delaware corporation, dated April 1, 1926, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia, April 9, 1926, in Liber 5726 at folio 264 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustee, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, dated July 7, 1930, in Equity Cause No. 51378, will offer for sale at public auction in front of the premises on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1935, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and which is described as follows: Lot numbered Forty-three (43) in square numbered Twenty-six Hundred Eighty-eight (2688) in Morris Cafritz subdivision of part of Pleasant Plains as per plat recorded in the office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in Book 81, page 120, together with all buildings and improvements thereon, consisting of the "Cavalier Hotel," known as premises No. 3500 Fourteenth street northwest, together with all furnishings, fittings and fixtures thereon which said trustee is authorized by said deed of trust, to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 16th day of October, 1935, balance in two equal installments payable on or before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of five and one-half per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold, or all cash at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive no bid from whom offering to bid who shall not at or before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof deposit with said trustee, as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, a deposit of $25,000, either in cash or certified check on a local bank or trust company, made or indorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in lieu thereof bonds of the par value of $30,000 in form transferable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. The said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale. Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, income from operation of property, interest and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of sale. The said trustee, however, will continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of transfer upon existing terms as set forth in said deed of trust. After settlement of sale said trustee will not be responsible for any bills or expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property. All expenses of title examination, conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps, etc., are to be at the cost of the purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with on or before October 16, 1935; otherwise, the trustee reserves the right to forfeit said deposit or to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, upon the foregoing terms, after seven days advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., or with or without forfeiting the deposit the trustee may avail itself of any legal or equitable rights against the defaulting purchaser.

CHEVROLET $89
1929 Sedan. It breaks my heart to think that the boss has decided to give me away. I'm sure that someone who knew me would pay a great deal more for me; gosh, my paint is brand new; my motor and tires are A-1 and I'm going for $89.
LUSTINE-NICHOLSON
Hyattsville, Md. GReenwood 2200.

CHEVROLET 1929 Sed., $89
RIDICULOUS
Most dealers ask as high as $165 for cars like me, but this place is used-car crazy. I have new paint, my motor and tires are A1. I'll take you there and bring you back. Give me a chance and I'll serve you well. Get me out of this madhouse.
LUSTINE-NICHOLSON
Hyattsville, Md. GReenwood 2200.

OLDSMOBILE 1928 C'h, $99
FOOLISH
It's certainly foolish of the boss to let me go so cheap. I have new paint, good tires, good brakes, and a motor that is smooth and quiet. You're foolish if you don't rush out here and buy me.
LUSTINE-NICHOLSON
Hyattsville, Md. GReenwood 2200.

PONTIAC '28 Coach $49
DELIRIOUS
No, a thousand times no! $49 is not the down payment. It's the full price. A smart used-car buyer will take advantage of this insane price. I have new finish, nearly new tires, and I run up hill better than most cars can run down hill. Bless my soul, there's thousands of miles of good transportation left in me.
LUSTINE-NICHOLSON
Hyattsville, Md. GReenwood 2200.

Note Lost 16 Years Knits Old Friendship

Hastings, Nebr. (U.P.).—A note of congratulation to Will Langdon, of Hastings, from his friend, Willie Winkler, of Friend, arriving just 16 years later, has restored the men to their old basis of friendship.

Langdon, who for 16 years had felt his friend had let him down in failing to answer a birth announcement, was unable to find what delayed the letter.

Young James Langdon, 16, was working in the harvest fields when his father received the note, dated April 10, 1919, and beginning: "I congratulate you on that boy."

Mother Protests Planes Interrupt Baby's Nap

Columbus, Ohio (U.P.).—Because the drone of motors prevents her baby from getting his afternoon nap, Mrs. James A. Devine, a resident of suburban Columbus, recently asked police to keep airplanes from flying over her home.

Police promised to see what they could do about changing flying schedules and toning down noisy motors.

Strange Fish Peddled, To Museum's Chagrin

Honolulu (U.P.).—Enterprising Chinese fish merchants broke the scientific hearts of Bishop Museum researchers when they peddled steaks from two strange fish of a species never seen before in Hawaii.

The anonymous specimens, weigh-44 and 23 pounds, respectively, were caught off the Kona coast, Island of Hawaii. The fish had stubby tails and blunt snouts, which made them strangely resemble hogs. Museum experts determined from photographs luckily taken of the specimens, that they slightly resembled fish of the labridae family known as the wrasse.

Bridge Built in 14 Hours.

Belton, Tex. (U.P.).—Residents became exasperated when a bridge washed by recent floods was not repaired after two weeks. Work was begun hurriedly and a 75-foot span was built in 14 hours. Construction included setting of steel girders, bolting, riveting, flooring and repair of approaches.

Courtney Ryley Cooper's '10,000 Public Enemies'

Chapter XXXIV.—A She-Devil Dies.

Shotgun George Zeigler could not even be silenced by extinction. Various papers were found on his body, by which investigative special agents were able to find his apartment. Searching there, they found evidence leading to a belief that the main amount of the Bremer kidnap money had been split among Zeigler, Karpis, the three Barkers, Volney Davis, Russell Gibson and Bill Weaver, with other amounts going to Harry Campbell, Dr. Moran, two politicians, and $3,000 to Monty Carter for his quixotic chaperonage of Zeigler's woman.

Now the Barker-Karpis crowd could review the effects of silencing a talker who had become even more voluble with death. Apartments were hastily abandoned. St. Paul speakeasy owners and contact men hurriedly packed and, with their women, left town. The Barker-Karpis boys, suddenly desperate, sought the services of "Doc" Moran, the drunken abortionist from Joliet Penitentiary. This time there would be no more burning with caustics, such as had failed to mutilate the fingers of Dillinger, Van Meter and Baby Face Nelson. Doc Moran got roaring drunk and slashed the flesh from the fingers of the boys until only a slight film of lacerated muscle covered the bone. Alvin, Arthur and Fred went home to Mother Barker, crying with pain. "Ma" had dyed her hair now. For the first time she was truly fearful of pursuit.

East and West, the gang criss-crossed, finally to split. Arthur Barker and others returned to Chicago. Fred and his mother rented a big white house which stood near Lake Weir at Oklawaha, Fla. The home was in the usual taste of the Barkers; it belonged to the president of a Miami kennel club and was well furnished—the way Ma Barker liked a place to be.

U. S. Guns Puncture Bullet-Proof Vests.

Visitors came and went—Volney Davis and his woman, Harry Campbell and his radio-singing paramour, Old Creepy and the pregnant girl he now carried with him, narrow-eyed Bill Weaver. "Ma" Barker snapped at the women, as usual, but her command was weakening. While they talked, someone always remained on guard. The heat was growing; no one knew at what moment it might become blasting hot.

Then the lightning struck. It came in a newspaper article which stated that 16 heavily armed special agents had surrounded an apartment house in Chicago and with tear-gas bombs had driven members of the Barker-Karpis gang into the open. There, shielded in bullet-proof vests, they had tried to fight it out. The news article then carried a sentence which caused terror. The special agents had returned the fire of the desperate members of the crew, shooting with guns which penetrated the bullet-proof vests. Russell Gibson, a dope-fiend member, had fallen dead. Two women had been captured and another man. It was Monty Carter.

The newspaper, of course, said nothing about the long trailing, the running down of every shred of evidence found among George Zeigler's papers, the following up of every lead and telephone number, the patient round of visitations by young men of the Bureau of Investigation who questioned, showed photographs, and ascertained if such persons ever had lived in this neighborhood.

An item was missing. It caused Fred Barker to sit staring hour after hour and Kate Barker to resort to her usual tears. There had been no mention of Arthur (Doc) Barker, the oldest son. Fred and his mother knew that he had been staying with Russell Gibson and Monty Carter. Perhaps he had escaped—perhaps there would be a telegram, a telephone call. None came; day after day they waited, becoming more gaunt, more tense. There still was no word from Arthur.

Local Police Aid Vital to Success.

Back in Chicago, special agents had hidden Doc away and were questioning him as they also were "interviewing" Monty Carter. It yielded nothing; the men answered queries only with silence. Whereupon the Government men went methodically about their usual line of endeavor, scrutinizing every fingerprint, every scrap of paper in the raided apartment. There were letters, one of which was in Ma Barker's handwriting. It bore no address—except the postmark of Oklawaha.

The ability of the Bureau of Investigation to work simultaneously at places far apart now came into play. The special squad at Chicago made its reports by telephone to Mr. Hoover in Washington; the letter had talked about a big white house near a lake. Within five minutes, Mr. Hoover was detailing men from Jacksonville, not for attack, but for surveillance. Finally word came back to Washington that the man and woman in the big white house in Oklawaha were Fred Barker and his mother.

A plane took off from Chicago. The baggage of its passengers was extraordinarily heavy. The plane landed at Jacksonville, where other special agents awaited, and where that highly necessary requisite of a major raid already had been secured—the complete co-operation of local law-enforcement officials.

Meanwhile, hour after hour, waiting always for the telephone call which did not come, Fred Barker and his moist-eyed old hellion of a mother remained in the white house. But at 7 o'clock on the morning of January 16, of this year, the son and mother gasped with the knowledge that their vigil was done. In the lifting of early morning fog, there came the indistinct view of moving forms as, skirmishing from cover to cover, they took their places among the trees about the big white house, until it was completely surrounded.

Benny — Hope and Despair — By J. Carver Pusey.

On the Air Today

President Roosevelt makes two air appearances this week. Tonight, at 8:45 o'clock, he will address the Boy Scouts of the Nation—the address originally intended as a highlight of the canceled Washington jamboree. Both Columbia (WJSV) and N. B. C. (WMAL) will broadcast the quarter hour and not the least of the interest in this particular talk, from the radio point of view, will be the supplying of service by N. B. C. to stations of the intercity group, with which WOL is affiliated.

It is interesting in this connection that the President's voice will be carried through N. B. C. lines from the White House to New York and thence back to Washington by intercity lines for service to WOL.

N. B. C. and Columbia also will provide 30 minutes of the President's talk to the meeting of the Young Democrats Clubs of America at Milwaukee, Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Roosevelt will speak from the White House. WRC, WMAL and WJSV will handle it locally.

* * * *

WRC and WOL will broadcast the running of the Narragansett Handicap, one of the classic turf events of the year, at 3:30 p. m. Clem McCarthy will describe the race for WRC and A. L. Alexander is expected to handle the intercity net mike for WOL. Horses entered include Omaha, Time Supply, Cavalcade, Discovery and Top Row.

* * * *

Alexander will be a busy broadcaster this afternoon if he describes the handicap because he also is scheduled to do a quarter-hour "man-in-the-street" program at 5:45 o'clock—the streets being those of New York. The Naragansett Handicap is picked up at Providence. Anyway, the question for today is "Are You in Favor of Easier Divorce Laws in New York State?"

* * * *

Frank Crumit takes Uncle Jim Harkins' place for the third time in Town Hall tonight, WRC, at 8. He'll sing one of his own compositions—"The Gay Caballero." Crumit will bring the first group of amateurs to the microphone under the new Town Hall regulations. To avoid the possibility of becoming prejudiced by the performer's appearance, the auditions committee now listens to candidates in another room where voices only are heard.

Emery Deutsch celebrates his eighth year on the air, WJSV, at 7:15 and introduces his newest composition, "Moonlight Mood" . . . And it was just 15 years ago today that Paul Whiteman made his New York debut at the Palais Royale . . . The entire score of "Top Hat" will be played in the "Hits and Bits" program, WMAL, at 7.

* * * *

It occurs to me that Berlin's new music ("Top Hat") is going to be slain on the radio block. For two weeks, if I'm not mistaken, "Top Hat" tunes have been on the air with regularity. It would be a safe prediction that the "Piccolino" will be as dead as the "Continental" as a tune in two months' time.

* * * *

Arch McDonald is expected back this afternoon for his regular baseball broadcast. Word late yesterday from Savannah indicated that his father had improved. He is definitely expected back in time for the Moon Dial tonight.

* * * *

Portia Libenow, 2331 Cathedral avenue, writes: "I think your suggestion of a board of review that would provide descriptive or critical comments is a grand one and certainly would fill a great need in my own family. * * * I would be very grateful for the comments of others and would enjoy the experiment of trying to provide some myself." Welcome, Mrs. Libenow, to the list of "volunteers."

* * * *

Maj. Bowes is in town at the flicker theaters with a loud bang this coming week. Keith's, beginning today, offers a short of Bowes and some of his amateurs—20 minutes of an authentic Bowes air show. The Fox presents, beginning Friday, one of the Bowes' vaudeville barnstorming stage shows with winners from past Amateur Hours.

Band From Minnesota To Be Taken on Cruise

Homeward bound from an European tour, the Concordia College Band, of Moorhead, Minn., will be the guests of the Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota State Societies on their moonlight cruise next Saturday evening on the steamer, City of Washington. A stop will be made at Marshall Hall, where the band will present a short program.

The band, directed by J. A. Holvik, is now in its forty-second season, and enjoys an excellent reputation throughtout the Middle West. During its recent visit abroad, it gave many concerts in Norway under auspices of the Nordmanns Forbundet.

Culbertson on Bridge

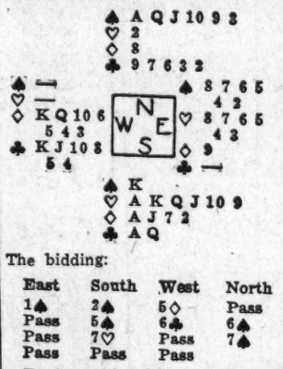
Freaks.

To many people freaks are the most interesting part of a circus and certainly they furnish some interesting situations in Bridge. Today's hand for example is amazing not just because it was a freak. It included a psychic with the declarer playing in the wrong declaration as a result thereof, a lucky break when the opponents opened the wrong suit, followed by an unlucky chance preventing the hand from being a laydown and again followed by a fabulously impossible situation where the player with all the trumps was compelled to keep following suit until his dummy had discarded all its losers and had nothing left but five high trumps to top the opponent's five low ones.

East, Dealer



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♠	2♠	5◇	Pass
Pass	5♠	6♣	6♠
Pass	7♡	Pass	7♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

East's opening bid was of course a psychic and South, although he did possess a spade loser, chose a cue bid in the opponents' suit to indicate the strong hand he held. Freaks beget freaks, however, and West had no mean hand himself from an offensive standpoint. His five diamond bid was preemptive against his opponents, warning partner not to return to spades. South decided he wanted his partner to show some strength despite his own solid heart suit and wrongly rebid his cue bid. After West had shown his second suit, North, realizing that East's bid must have been psychic, assumed it was also psychic so far as the suit itself was concerned, and eventually carried the bidding to seven spades. Why South failed to bid seven notrump neither that player nor anyone else will ever know.

The Play.

West made the natural opening of the King of diamonds. South sighed with relief when he saw the solidity of North's trump suit, and after winning the diamond Ace, laid down the spade King, intending to overtake it. When West showed out, however, he realized that to overtake would lose a certain spade trick. Therefore, he allowed his King to win the trick. Since the North hand only could be entered by trumping, and that would mean creating a winner for East, South had practically resigned himself to his fate when he led out the Ace of hearts and discovered the amazing break. When West showed out East's entire hand was counted as having been originally six hearts and six spades. His belief in miracles restored, South laid down his five remaining high hearts, discarding dummy's five losing clubs, while East with five trumps muttered curses into his beard as he faced the necessity of following suit.

Waitress Who Plunged But Missed Pool Better

Physicans at Emergency Hospital yesterday reported that Miss Fern Moesta, 27, who police say, leaped from the balcony of the Hangar Club early Monday morning, and William S. Tipton, 45, who fell from the balcony when he sought to save her, were in a much improved condition.

Miss Moesta, pretty night club waitress who resides in the 1200 block of L street northwest, is suffering from a fractured skull, received when she missed the pool and struck the cement. Tipton, who lives in the 600 block of F street northeast, is suffering from a strained leg and a fractured wrist.

Happy Motoring!
Esso Marketers announce:
ESSO MOTOR OIL
The Lowest Consumption and Highest Performance Motor Oil Made

Happy Motoring, so far as your oil is concerned, depends on four things.

You want an oil that consumes slowly, so you don't have to be constantly adding a quart every few hundred miles.

You want an oil that resists thinning in hot weather, so you can have engine protection; and that resists thickening in cold weather, so you can have easy starting.

You want an oil that—no matter how it does it—takes such good care of your engine that you dodge repair bills.

Finally, you want an oil that so lubricates all parts of your motor that you get noticeably better performance, quicker pick-up, more miles per gallon.

To give you these four things, the world's greatest petroleum organization had to produce what may unqualifiedly be said to be the finest oil on the market today.

We can prove this to you with all sorts of technical data, but it is far better that you should prove it to yourself by direct performance comparison in your own car.

Over a quarter of a million motorists did just this. We did not advertise this new oil. We stocked it at point of sale and in a few months so many motorists tried it, liked it, and told their friends about it—that our sales exceeded estimates by 288%.

Esso Motor Oil succeeded without claims or ballyhoo. It went over with the motoring public because, even at premium price, it saved money and proved its top-notch value.

Esso Motor Oil will prove this in your car. Try it yourself—today.
